Dear Fellow Missourians,

Missouri is a state rich in heritage, opportunity, and resilience. It's an honor to serve as your secretary of state and to help preserve the stories and systems that define who we are. Since 1878, the Missouri Secretary of State's Office has published the Missouri Official Manual, commonly known as the "Blue Book," to serve as a trusted guide to our state's government, people, and progress.

I am pleased to present the 2025–2026 edition of the Official Manual. In these pages, you'll find a comprehensive directory of federal, state, and local officials, as well as details about elections, state agencies, and the structure of Missouri's government. But beyond that, each edition of the manual also highlights the history, identity, and shared values of our great state.

This year's edition includes two special features. We honor the life and legacy of former Missouri Governor and U.S. Senator Kit Bond, whose decades of service helped shape modern Missouri and whose leadership made a lasting impact at both the state and national level. We also celebrate the 100th anniversary of Route 66—born in Missouri and now etched into the fabric of American culture as the "Mother Road," written by a leading local author on the subject. The highway's centennial is a testament to Missouri's pivotal role in connecting people and places across the nation.

I'm also pleased to announce the return of our statewide photo contests—this year celebrating "Man's Best Friend" and "Missouri Sunrises." The first is a tribute to our state's historical dog, Old Drum, and to the loyal companions who enrich our lives every day. The second showcases the beauty of our Missouri mornings—because each new sunrise brings fresh promise for our families, neighbors, and communities in this remarkable state we call home.

As always, this publication is the result of detailed research, careful documentation, and a commitment to making the Missouri government accessible and transparent. I want to especially thank Publications Director Julie Stegeman, whose dedication and experience have guided the production of the Official Manual.

Thank you for your trust, your service to your communities, and your continued investment in Missouri's future. Together, we keep our state strong, free, and forward-moving.

Sincerely,

This edition of the Missouri Official Manual (2025–2026) is dedicated to the memory and legacy of Christopher Samuel (Kit) Bond, whose life of public service transformed the state and inspired generations.

Christopher S. (Kit) Bond

Missouri State Auditor: 1971–1973

Governor of Missouri: 1973–1977, 1981–1985

United States Senator from Missouri: 1987–2011

A Statesman for the Ages

Christopher Samuel (Kit) Bond's rise from a young lawyer in Mexico, Missouri, to one of the most impactful leaders in state and national politics is a story of vision, persistence and purpose. Across four decades of public service—as state auditor, two-term governor and four-term U.S. senator—Bond shaped modern Missouri with an eye toward accountability, innovation and opportunity. More than the offices he held, it was the values he embodied that defined him: integrity, pragmatic leadership and a deeply rooted belief in the promise of public service.

Bond was a Republican with a Democrat's fluency in the language of compromise. He was a budget hawk who believed in investing boldly in education, infrastructure and research. He was a loyal partisan who, as former Rep. Ike Skelton once put it, "never let party stand in the way of progress."

Bond passed away May 13, 2025, at the age of 86, leaving behind a Missouri transformed by his leadership—and a model of statesmanship for future generations.

A MISSOURI SON

Born in St. Louis on March 6, 1939, Kit Bond was a sixth-generation Missourian raised in the rural town of Mexico. His father, Arthur Bond, was a naval officer, and his mother, Elizabeth, instilled in him a strong sense of duty and faith. After graduating from Deerfield Academy in 1956, Bond earned a degree in public and international affairs from Princeton University and later a law degree from the University of Virginia School of Law, where he graduated first in his class.

Bond began his legal career clerking for Judge Elbert Tuttle on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit before practicing law in Washington, D.C. But Missouri always called him home.

LAUNCHING A CAREER IN PUBLIC SERVICE

Bond returned to Missouri in the late 1960s and was soon appointed assistant attorney general under John Danforth. In 1970, he was elected state auditor, becoming the youngest person ever to hold statewide office in Missouri at the time.

Determined to modernize the office, Bond brought in professional certified public accountants and focused on financial transparency in government operations. "If you take care of the taxpayers' money," Bond often said, "you build trust. And without trust, government cannot work."

THE PEOPLE'S GOVERNOR

At just 33 years old, Kit Bond was elected Missouri's 47th governor in 1972, ending nearly three decades of Democratic dominance in the executive branch. His first term was marked by sweeping reforms in education and early economic development initiatives, including the creation of a network of community colleges and the establishment of the Department of Natural Resources.

Although he was narrowly defeated in his 1976 re-election bid, Bond reclaimed the governorship in 1980, winning re-election with a broad coalition of support.

His second term saw even more lasting impact. He expanded the Parents as Teachers program statewide, helping to establish Missouri as a national leader in early childhood education. Today, that program remains a model used by states and countries around the world.

"Education is the cornerstone of everything we do," Bond once said. "We owe every child the chance to succeed before they even set foot in a classroom."

His administration also undertook major transportation upgrades, championed river port development, and pursued innovative public-private partnerships to revitalize rural communities.

MISSOURI'S VOICE IN WASHINGTON

Elected to the U.S. Senate in 1986, Bond served until 2011—one of the longest tenures of any Missouri senator. He became known as a workhorse in Washington, particularly on the Senate Appropriations Committee, where he secured billions in federal investment for Missouri over the years.

Bond played a critical role in funding:

- The transformation of Kansas City's Union Station and Liberty Memorial
- The expansion of St. Louis Lambert International Airport
- The construction of flood protection systems along the Missouri and Mississippi Rivers
- Biomedical research infrastructure at the University of Missouri, including the Christopher S. Bond Life Sciences Center
- Highway and bridge expansions across the state

Bridges bearing his name span the Missouri River in Hermann and Kansas City, physical testaments to a career dedicated to connecting communities—literally and figuratively.

Bond's ability to bring federal dollars home earned him bipartisan respect. "He never forgot where he came from," said former Sen. Claire McCaskill. "Whether it was a big city or a small town, Kit made sure Missouri's voice was heard in the halls of power."

As vice chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee, Bond also contributed significantly to national security oversight, including the development of modern counterterrorism strategies in the years following 9/11.

A CHAMPION OF BIPARTISANSHIP AND MENTORSHIP

Bond's enduring reputation as a coalition-builder stemmed from his willingness to work across the aisle. He co-sponsored legislation with Democrats on environmental conservation, small business development, and veterans' health care. "Partisan politics may dominate the headlines," he once remarked, "but progress happens when we roll up our sleeves and get to work—together."

Rep. Emanuel Cleaver, a Democrat from Kansas City, frequently praised Bond for setting politics aside to pursue joint efforts to revitalize urban neighborhoods and improve transportation access in underserved areas. "He was never above picking up the phone and asking, 'How can we get this done for Missouri?'"

Bond also made it a priority to mentor the next generation of public servants. His legacy includes not only the buildings, bridges and programs that bear his name, but also the people he helped shape. Former U.S. Attorney General John Ashcroft once noted, "Over and over again, Kit launched the careers of young people... who later found opportunity beckoning them to achievement levels they hadn't anticipated."

LESSONS IN LEADERSHIP

Bond's career offers a masterclass in the principles of effective public service. The lessons of his life are as relevant today as ever:

- Public service is a noble calling. Bond approached his roles with humility and seriousness of purpose.
- Bipartisanship is not a weakness, but a strength. He proved that principled compromise could yield transformative results.
- Invest in the future. From education to infrastructure to biomedical research, Bond had a generational vision.
- Mentorship multiplies impact. He believed the future of Missouri was best secured by empowering others to lead.
- Stay grounded. No matter how high he rose, Bond remained deeply connected to his Missouri roots.

A LEGACY ETCHED IN STONE—AND MEMORY

Beyond the bridges and buildings named in his honor—the Kit Bond Bridge in Kansas City, the Bond Life Sciences Center in Columbia, the Kit Bond Federal Courthouse in Jefferson City—his true legacy lives in the communities he helped, the leaders he inspired, and the causes he championed.

Upon his passing, Governor Mike Kehoe ordered Missouri's flags to be flown at half-staff, noting: "Kit Bond was a skilled statesman, public servant, and a man who truly loved Missouri. His legacy lives on in concrete achievements—and in the countless lives he touched along the way."

THE MEASURE OF A LIFE

Bond often said that the success of any public servant could be measured not in accolades, but in lives improved. By that measure, his was a career of extraordinary success.

His journey reminds us that legacy is not defined by office or title, but by service, humility and the courage to lead through change. As Missouri looks to the future, Kit Bond's memory serves not only as a source of pride, but as a call to action—for public servants of all stripes to serve with the same steadfast commitment to the people they represent.

May his legacy endure in the hearts and hopes of all Missourians.

ROUTE 66 IN MISSOURI

Long Gone, But Still Kicking

Celebrating 100 years

By Susan Croce Kelly

Today it's difficult to imagine a time when automobiles had to battle their way down dangerous, muddy roads, constantly at risk of slipping into a ditch.

That was the reality in 1925. The United States had 20 million automobiles—more than half a million in Missouri alone—but few paved roads. (Missouri's first concrete road stretched just 7.2 miles between Webb City and the Kansas line.) Fortunately, Missouri's mule population often came to the rescue when vehicles needed help getting back on the road.

In those days, painted stripes on fence posts or telephone poles guided travelers: green and white for the Ozark Trails, red, white, and blue for the National Old Trails Road. If the paint faded or the posts fell, drivers could easily lose their way.

In 1925, Missouri's highway department joined others across the country to ask for federal help. By the next year, a national highway system was under way—prioritizing roads for concrete paving. Besides paving, the feds were adding uniform signage and, most important, changing highway from names to numbers. Missouri would soon boast 300 miles of a new curving highway running through eight states between Los Angeles and Chicago.

That highway, of course, was U.S. Route 66.

Five years later, in 1931, Rolla hosted thousands from eight states to celebrate the completion of concrete pavement on U.S. 66 from the Mississippi River at St. Louis to the Kansas border near Joplin. For the traveling public, it felt like a miracle.

What's remarkable is that nearly 100 years later, Route 66 remains a marvel. More than two million people from around the world travel the old road each year. In 2026, travelers will enjoy centennial celebrations beginning in Springfield on April 30, marking the day the highway got its number.

But why Route 66? Why has this long-bypassed, sometimes hard-to-find road become a national treasure?

To understand that, we must return to a time when 20 million cars churned through the mud, because there was no other way to get from one place to another. That's when Route 66—especially in Missouri—earned its legendary status.

How the Highway Got Her Number

In 1925, as officials from all 48 states gathered to designate routes for a national highway system, two men—former Missouri schoolteacher and William Jewell College graduate Cy Avery, now Oklahoma's Highway Commissioner, and Missouri State Highway Engineer B.H. Piepmeier—ensured that one key route would link Los Angeles to Chicago via Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma, a small 11-mile corner of Kansas, Missouri, and Illinois.

Highways were to be numbered according to direction and length. North-south roads ending in "1" or "5" and coast-to-coast roads ending in "0" received priority numbers. Avery and Piepmeier labeled their highway U.S. 60.

But Kentucky's governor protested: his state's road reached the Atlantic and deserved the "60" designation more. When Avery and Piepmeier refused to yield, the disagreement grew, reaching Congress and threatening the entire system.

Eventually Avery and Piepmeier met in Springfield on April 30, 1926, and compromised. They dropped "60" and chose an unused number: 66.

A telegram went to Thomas H. MacDonald, head of the Bureau of Public Roads:

"Regarding Chicago-Los Angeles Road, if California, Arizona, New Mexico, and Illinois will accept sixty-six instead of sixty, we are inclined to agree to this change..."

Promoting Route 66

A few months later, a Springfield entrepreneur and staunch Good Roads man named John Woodruff invited Avery to Springfield to celebrate the opening of his new Kentwood Arms Hotel on the edge of the new highway. While Avery was in town, the two friends went to look at paving already underway. As they watched US 66 take shape before their eyes, they agreed that the new highway needed a booster organization.

In early 1927, representatives from all eight Route 66 states met and formed the U.S. 66 Highway Association. Their goals:

- Make Route 66 the first national highway fully paved end-to-end
- Promote it as “the shortest, best, and most scenic route from Chicago through St. Louis to Los Angeles”

- Attract traffic and revenue to towns along the way

Making 66 Famous

The 66 Association began with billboards and full-page magazine ads, then they hired C.C. Pyle, the leading sports promoter of the time, to stage what one fan called “The zaniest sporting event of all time” – a 3,423.5-mile footrace from Los Angeles along the whole of US 66 – still only one-third paved – to Chicago and then east to Madison Square Garden in New York.

Pyle and the Route 66 Association opened the Great International Transcontinental Footrace to all comers – all nationalities and all races – and promised $25,000 to the winner. Suddenly, in a world on the edge of the Great Depression, Route 66 became an embodiment of the American dream.

On March 3, 1928, 199 runners from twenty-four countries lined up at the Ascot Speedway in Los Angeles. At least two Missourians — John Gober, a Greek immigrant from Moberly and Pat Harrison, a school teacher born in Sullivan — were among a wildly diverse group that included European Olympians, an Alaskan mailman, several black athletes, a movie actor, chanting Hindu philosopher, part-Cherokee farm boy from Oklahoma, and a variety of others. Support vehicles carried trainers, family members, a shoe repair shop, medical care, the first mobile radio station, even a carnival that set up in towns where the runners spent nights, plus Pyle in a luxury bus.

Not surprisingly the spectacle – which lasted eighty-four days – attracted hundreds of sportswriters, photographers, and newsreel crews. Then-Chicago Tribune writer Westbrook Pegler derisively dubbed it the “Bunion Derby,” but the media took it seriously. Reports on the long grueling footrace regularly appeared in the world’s newspapers and newsreels.

Even though about half the racers dropped out within the first few days, the public stayed interested. Crowds lined the roadside to see the athletes. Small towns closed schools, gave dinners, and promised jobs to local boys when they returned home. When eighty footsore racers crossed into Missouri, Gober led the way, though he was not first in overall time. He sprained his ankle just before the start of the race, and used a cane for the first twenty-one days. He also led the runners into Miller and was second among the seventy-seven racers who limped into Springfield.

Pyle had intended that cities would pay to have the runners spend the night. Unfortunately, that didn’t happen every time – and in western Missouri, although Carthage had paid, Joplin later came up with more money, so the runners stopped there instead. The next morning, when the caravan came through Carthage, unhappy locals threw eggs at Pyle’s bus – which also made the news.

All across Missouri, people rallied. Thousands lined the as-yet unpaved highway into Springfield. Two thousand lined the streets in Lebanon. In Sullivan, the excited crowd escorted Harrison to his mother’s home for dinner. In Cuba, the local News and Review reported that the “motley crew” of seventy-two runners “kept passing from 10 am until 4:30.” In St. Louis, the throng along Manchester Avenue stood six deep.

By late May, when fifty-five exhausted racers – including Harrison – struggled into Madison Square Garden, people around the world knew US 66. Andy Payne, the Oklahoma farm boy, won the $25,000, but when the world learned that the top ten finishers included two Canadians, a black runner, Finnish immigrant, Englishman, and an Italian, they knew 66 was no longer just an American road.

The global media coverage the race drew ensured that Route 66 became more than a road, it became a symbol of possibility.

A Road Through the Decades

1920s: Early travelers packed tools, tires, and chains—and relied on Missouri mules. They camped or rented tents at places like Camp Joy in Lebanon, which eventually added cabins and became one of the first tourist camps between St. Louis and Springfield.

1930s: During the Great Depression, Route 66 was an escape route for more than 200,000 Midwesterners heading west—and a lifeline for Missourians who opened roadside businesses.

- Meramec Caverns opened in 1933, promoted via barn roofs and the first bumper stickers.
- The Wagon Wheel in Cuba offered lodging from 1938 onward and remains the longest continuously operating motel on Route 66.
- Boots Court in Carthage, opened in 1939, advertised radios in every room and hosted Clark Gable.

1940s: WWII transformed Route 66 into a military corridor.

- The highway became home to military bases like the US Army's Fort Leonard Wood near St. Robert. As an Infantry training site and an Engineer Replacement Training Center, Fort Wood welcomed than 300,000 soldiers during those years.
- In 1941, highway travelers going through St. Louis discovered Ted Drewes Frozen Custard, another long-lasting highway landmark. Today, Ted Drewes still draws customers for sweet-tasting concretes, malts, shakes, sundaes, and ice cream sodas after more than eighty years.
- Shortly after the war, a returning GI named Bobby Troup drove down 66 to make his living in Los Angeles as a songwriter. On leaving St. Louis, his wife suggested he write a song about the trip. "Get Your Kicks on Route 66," first recorded by Nat King Cole, and subsequently by dozens of other groups, has become the Route 66 anthem.

1950s: Postwar families hit the road.

- After GIs came home from World War II and went to work, many of them loaded up their families and drove down 66 to enjoy the wonders of the Golden West.
- During those years, highway businesses proliferated. In Springfield, the Rail Haven motel opened sixteen sandstone cottages in 1950, began expanding in 1957, and today welcomes Route 66 travelers with ninety units and a pool.
- Another Springfield favorite during the 1950s was Red's Giant Hamburg, a small restaurant opened by returning GI Red Chaney. Originally, Red intended to call his place "Red's Giant Hamburgers" but his sign wasn't long enough, so he stopped at "Hamburg" — which, of course, made the café even more memorable. Red's may have been the country's first drive-through restaurant, as he hooked up a speaker where drivers could order, and opened a window on the side of the building for pick-up. Chaney retired and closed the restaurant in 1984.

- Further west, the 66 Drive-in Theater, built before television signals reached Carthage, offered evening entertainment to highway travelers and the local community. The drive-in, boasting a retro look and concession stand, still offers current feature films on weekends.

Interstate Era and Beyond:

By the 1950s, "Bloody 66" had too much traffic. Interstates replaced it: I-55, I-44, I-40, I-15, and I-10. The final Missouri section, at Devil's Elbow, was bypassed in 1981. Route 66 was decommissioned in 1985.

But the road wasn't forgotten.

- It inspired the Route 66 TV series in the 1960s and Pixar's Cars in 2006.
- Missouri formed the first Route 66 Association in 1990 and erected the first Historic 66 sign.
- In 1999, President Bill Clinton signed the National Route 66 Preservation Bill.
- The highway was named a Scenic Byway in Missouri in 2005.
- The World Monuments Fund listed it as endangered in 2008.
- The National Park Service now oversees preservation efforts.

Still Kicking

As Route 66 turns 100, it continues to connect travelers to the past and each other. Across Missouri, celebrations will mark the occasion—but the road's story isn't finished.

The Mother Road lives on wherever people take the scenic route, chase adventure, or simply "get their kicks."

STATE SYMBOLS OF MISSOURI

THE GREAT SEAL OF MISSOURI

The Great Seal was designed by Judge Robert William Wells and adopted by the Missouri General Assembly on Jan. 11, 1822. The center of the state seal is composed of two parts. On the right is the United States coat-of-arms containing the bald eagle. In its claws are arrows and olive branches, signifying that the power of war and peace lies with the U.S. federal government. On the left side of the shield, the state side, are a grizzly bear and a silver crescent moon. The crescent symbolizes Missouri at the time of the state seal's creation, a state of small population and wealth which would increase like the new or crescent moon; it also symbolizes the "second son," meaning Missouri was the second state formed out of the Louisiana Territory.

This shield is encircled by a belt inscribed with the motto, "United we stand, divided we fall," which indicates Missouri's advantage as a member of the United States. The two grizzlies on either side of the shield symbolize the state's strength and its citizens' bravery. The bears stand atop a scroll bearing the state motto, "Salus Populi Suprema Lex Esto," which means, "The welfare of the people shall be the supreme law." Below this scroll are the Roman numerals for 1820, the year Missouri began its functions as a state.

The helmet above the shield represents state sovereignty, and the large star atop the helmet surrounded by 23 smaller stars signifies Missouri's status as the 24th state. The cloud around the large star indicates the problems Missouri had in becoming a state. The whole state seal is enclosed by a scroll bearing the words, "The Great Seal of the State of Missouri." (RSMo 10.060)

THE STATE FLAG

Nearly 100 years after achieving statehood, Missouri adopted an official flag on March 22, 1913. The flag was designed by the late Mrs. Marie Elizabeth Watkins Oliver, wife of former State Senator R.B. Oliver. The Oliver flag embraced national pride, and at the same time represented the characteristics of Missouri and its people.

The three large stripes are symbolic of the people of the state—the blue stripe represented vigilance, permanency and justice, the red represented valor, and the white stripe symbolized purity. The Missouri coat-of-arms appears in the center of the flag, signifying both Missouri's independence as a state, and its place as a part of the whole United States. Having the coat-of-arms in the center of the national colors represents Missouri, as it is—the geographical center of the nation. By mingling the state coat-of-arms with the national colors of red, white and blue, the flag signified the harmony existing between the two. Twenty-four stars surrounded the coat-of-arms, representative of Missouri's position as the 24th state admitted to the Union. (RSMo 10.020)

MISSOURI DAY

On March 22, 1915, the 48th General Assembly set aside the first Monday in October each year as "Missouri Day," due to the efforts of Mrs. Anna Brosius Korn, a native Missourian. In 1969, the 75th General Assembly changed the date to the third Wednesday in October. Missouri Day is a time for schools to honor the state and for the people of the state to celebrate the achievements of all Missourians. (RSMo 9.040)

THE STATE FLORAL EMBLEM

On March 16, 1923, a bill was signed naming the white hawthorn blossom the official state floral emblem of Missouri. Known as the “red haw” or “white haw,” the hawthorn (Crataegus) is a member of the great rose family. The hawthorn blossoms have greenish-yellow centers and form in white clusters. More than 75 species of the hawthorn grow in Missouri, particularly in the Ozarks. (RSMo 10.030)

THE STATE BIRD

On March 30, 1927, the native bluebird (Sialia sialis) became the official state bird of Missouri. The bluebird, considered a symbol of happiness, is usually 6½ to 7 inches long. While its upper parts are covered with light blue plumage, its breast is cinnamon red, turning rust-colored in the fall. The bluebird is common in Missouri from early spring until late November. (RSMo 10.010)

THE STATE SONG

The “Missouri Waltz” became the state song under an act adopted by the General Assembly on June 30, 1949. The song came from a melody by John V. Eppel and was arranged by Frederic Knight Logan, using lyrics written by J.R. Shannon. First published in 1914, the song did not sell well and was considered a failure. By 1939, the song had gained popularity and six million copies had been sold. Sales increased substantially after Missourian Harry S Truman became president. (RSMo 10.050)

THE STATE TREE

On June 20, 1955, the flowering dogwood (Cornus florida L.) became Missouri’s official tree. The tree is small in size, rarely growing over 40 feet in height or 18 inches in diameter. The dogwood sprouts tiny greenish-yellow flowers in clusters, with each flower surrounded by four white petals. The paired, oval leaves are olive green above and covered with silvery hairs underneath. In the fall, the upper part of the leaves turn scarlet or orange and bright red fruits grow on the tree. (RSMo 10.040)

THE STATE MINERAL

On July 21, 1967, the mineral galena was adopted as the official mineral of Missouri. Galena is the most important ore of lead and is also a major source of silver. The recognition of this mineral by the state legislature was to emphasize Missouri's status as the nation's top producer of lead. Galena is dark gray in color and breaks into small cubes. Mining of galena has flourished in the Joplin-Granby area of southwest Missouri, and rich deposits have been located in such places as Crawford, Washington, Iron and Reynolds counties. (RSMo 10.047)

THE STATE ROCK

Mozarkite was adopted as the official state rock on July 21, 1967, by the 74th General Assembly. An attractive rock, mozarkite appears in a variety of colors, most predominantly green, red or purple. The rock's beauty is enhanced by cutting and polishing into ornamental shapes for jewelry. Mozarkite is most commonly found in Benton County. (RSMo 10.045)

THE STATE INSECT

On July 3, 1985, the honeybee was designated as Missouri's state insect. The honeybee, (Apis mellifera) yellow or orange and black in color, is a social insect which collects nectar and pollen from flower blossoms in order to produce honey. The honeybee is common to Missouri and is cultivated by beekeepers for honey production. (RSMo 10.070)

THE STATE MUSICAL INSTRUMENT

The fiddle became the state's official musical instrument on July 17, 1987. Brought to Missouri in the late 1700s by fur traders and settlers, the fiddle quickly became popular. The instrument was adaptable to many forms of music, could be played without extensive formal training and was light and easy to carry. For generations, the local fiddle player was the sole source of entertainment in many communities and held a position of great respect in the region. (RSMo 10.080)

THE STATE FOSSIL

The crinoid became the state's official fossil on June 16, 1989, after a group of Lee's Summit school students worked through the legislative process to promote it as a state symbol. The crinoid (Delocrinus missouriensis) is a mineralization of an animal which, because of its plant-like appearance, was called the "sea lily." Related to the starfish, the crinoid lived in the ocean which covered Missouri more than 250 million years ago. (RSMo 10.090)

THE STATE TREE NUT

The nut produced by the black walnut tree (Juglans nigra), known as the eastern black walnut, became the state tree nut on July 9, 1990. The nut has a variety of uses. The meat is used in ice cream, baked goods and candies. The shell provides the soft grit abrasive used in metal cleaning and polishing, and oil well drilling. It is also used in paint products and as a filler in dynamite. (RSMo 10.100)

THE STATE ANIMAL

On May 31, 1995, the Missouri mule was designated as the official state animal. The mule is a hybrid, the offspring of a mare (female horse) and a jack (male donkey). After its introduction to the state in the 1820s, the mule quickly became popular with farmers and settlers because of its hardy nature. Missouri mules pulled pioneer wagons to the Wild West during the 19th century and played a crucial role in moving troops and supplies in World Wars I and II. For decades, Missouri was the nation's premier mule producer. (RSMo 10.110)

THE STATE AMERICAN FOLK DANCE

The square dance was adopted as Missouri's official American folk dance on May 31, 1995. Square dances are derived from folk and courtship dances brought to the United States by European immigrants. Lively music and callers are hallmarks of square dancing. The caller directs the dancers by singing the names of figures and steps to be performed. (RSMo 10.120)

THE STATE AQUATIC ANIMAL

The paddlefish (Polyodon spathula) became Missouri's official aquatic animal on May 23, 1997. Only three rivers in Missouri support substantial populations of the paddlefish: the Mississippi, Missouri and the Osage. They are also present in some of the state's larger lakes. The paddlefish is primitive, with a cartilage skeleton, rather than bone. They commonly exceed five feet in length and weights of 60 pounds; 20-year-olds are common, and some live 30 years or more. (RSMo 10.130)

THE STATE FISH

On May 23, 1997, the channel catfish became the official fish of Missouri. The channel catfish (Ictalurus punctatus) is slender, with a deeply forked tail. Young have spots that disappear with age. The catfish does not rely on sight to find its food; instead, it uses cat-like whiskers to assist in the hunt. The channel cat is the most abundant large catfish in Missouri streams. Its diet includes animal and plant material. Adults are normally 12 to 32 inches long and weigh from a half-pound to 15 pounds. (RSMo 10.135)

THE STATE HORSE

On June 4, 2002, the Missouri Fox Trotter became Missouri's official state horse. Missouri fox trotters were developed in the rugged Ozark hills of Missouri during the early 19th century. Bloodlines can be traced from early settlers to Missouri from the neighboring states of Kentucky, Illinois, Tennessee and Arkansas. The distinguishing characteristic of the fox trotter is its rhythmic gait, in which the horse walks with the front feet and trots with the hind feet. This gait gives the rider a smooth, gentle ride. (RSMo 10.140)

THE STATE GRAPE

On July 11, 2003, the Norton/Cynthiana grape (Vitis aestivalis 'Norton') was adopted as the official state grape. This adaptable, self-pollinating variety has been cultivated since the 1830s and is likely North America's oldest grape variety still commercially grown. Norton/Cynthiana has long been prized by Missouri vintners for its hardy growth habit and intense flavor characteristics, which produce lush, dry premium red wines of world-class quality and distinction. (RSMo 10.160)

THE PURPLE MARTIN CAPITAL

The City of Adrian, located in Bates County, was declared the purple martin capital of the state of Missouri on Aug. 28, 2003. Purple martins are largely dependent on humans to build and maintain their housing and are happy in large bird houses or in gourds. These creatures are partial to living near water, in open parts of a yard, or along rural roadsides. Purple martins are popular among bird lovers because of their melodic singing and aerial feats. (RSMo 10.141)

THE STATE DINOSAUR

Parrosaurus missouriense is a type of dinosaur called a Hadrosaur or “duck billed” dinosaur. It was a herbivore with jaws that contained over 1,000 teeth. Parrosaurus had evolved specialized teeth to handle the tough, fibrous vegetation of the time. Parrosaurus lived in Missouri during the Late Cretaceous Period. Parrosaurus was first discovered in 1942 by Dan Stewart, near the town of Glen Allen, Missouri, and became the official state dinosaur on July 9, 2004. The name was changed from Hypsibema missouriense in 2022, due to legislation (House Bill 1738) in the 101st General Assembly, Second Regular Session.

THE STATE AMPHIBIAN

On June 5, 2005, the American Bullfrog (Rana catesbeiana) became the official state amphibian. The bullfrog is the largest frog native to Missouri and is found in every county. Most Missourians are familiar with the deep, resonant “jug-of-rum” call, which is typically heard on warm, rainy nights between mid-May and early July. The idea for the bullfrog designation came from a fourth grade class at Chinn Elementary School in Kansas City. (RSMo 10.170)

THE STATE GAME BIRD

The bobwhite quail (Colinus virginianus), also known as the northern bobwhite, became the official state game bird on July 13, 2007. The northern bobwhite is found throughout Missouri in a variety of habitats. In the fall and winter, northern bobwhites form loose social groups better known as a covey. A covey will generally contain 10 to 12 quail, but can have as many as 20 or 30 birds. The familiar two- or three-note “bobwhite” whistle is made by males in the spring and summer to attract females. (RSMo 10.012).

THE STATE INVERTEBRATE

On June 21, 2007, the crayfish (also known as crawfish and crawdad) became the official state invertebrate. Crayfish are an important food source for Missouri fishes. Missouri supports more than 30 species of crayfish (including seven species that occur nowhere else in the world). Crayfish are found in every county of the state and contribute to our unique biodiversity and conservation heritage. The nomination of crayfish for state invertebrate came from Mrs. Janna Elfrink's elementary school class in Reeds Spring, Missouri. (RSMo 10.125)

THE STATE REPTILE

On June 21, 2007, the three-toed box turtle (Terrapene carolina triunguis) became the official state reptile. Most Missourians are familiar with this land-dwelling turtle. Three-toed box turtles, as their name implies, typically have three hind toes. The hinged bottom shell allows the turtle to retreat inside as if enclosed in a box. Males have red eyes and females have brown eyes. (RSMo 10.175).

THE STATE GRASS

Big bluestem (Andropogon gerardii) was designated as Missouri's stategrass on June 11, 2007, as a result of efforts by the fourth-grade class at Truman Elementary School in Rolla. Big bluestem is native to Missouri and occurs throughout the state, with the exception of a few southeastern-most counties. It is a major component of Missouri's tallgrass prairies where it impressed the first explorers by sometimes growing tall enough to hide a person on horseback. The name bluestem comes from the bluish-green color of the leaves and stems that turn an attractive red-dish-copper color in autumn. (RSMo 10.150).

THE STATE DESSERT

The ice cream cone became the state of Missouri's official dessert on Aug. 28, 2008. The 1904 World's Fair in St. Louis was the birthplace of the treat and has become a staple at many community events across the state, such as the State Fair. The University of Missouri–Columbia has played a large role in the development of ice cream products for over a century. Missouri ranks among the top five states in ice cream production. (RSMo 10.180).

THE STATE SYMBOL FOR CHILD ABUSE PREVENTION

The blue ribbon became the state of Missouri's official symbol for child abuse prevention on Aug. 28, 2012. It is a symbol of efforts to increase awareness of the prevalence and warning signs of child abuse and the prevention methods and measures available to reduce the incidence of child abuse in Missouri. (RSMo 10.185).

THE STATE EXERCISE

The jumping jack exercise was invented by Missouri-born Army General John J. "Black Jack" Pershing as a training drill for cadets when he taught at West Point in the late 1800s. The idea for the jumping jack designation came from students at Pershing Elementary School in St. Joseph. (RSMo 10.115)

THE WONDER DOG

On Aug. 28, 2017, "Jim the Wonder Dog" was designated as Missouri's Wonder Dog. A Llewellyn Setter, born in 1925, Jim first gained notoriety for his prowess as a hunting dog. He tracked over 5,000 birds, a total no other dog had ever achieved, earning him the Outdoor Life Magazine designation of "The Hunting Dog of the Country." Eventually Jim began to exhibit a wide range of other talents not typically associated with dogs. He could pick a car on the street by license number, recognize unknown people in a crowd and carry out instructions, oral or written, given to him in any foreign language, Morse Code or shorthand. Jim predicted seven Kentucky Derby winners and was known for accurately determining the gender of unborn babies. He performed before the Missouri Legislature and was featured in Field and Stream, The Kansas City Star, Missouri Ruralist and Ripley's Believe It or Not. Jim is buried in Marshall, Missouri's Ridge Park Cemetery. His grave is the most visited spot in the cemetery. (RSMo 10.113)

THE HISTORICAL DOG

On Aug. 28, 2017, Old Drum was designated the historical dog of Missouri. Old Drum was a black and tan hunting hound whose shooting death became the subject of an 1870 Missouri Supreme Court case. The closing arguments for the plaintiff, delivered by attorney George Graham Vest, brought tears to the eyes of jurors and became famously-known as the Eulogy of the Dog. Although the words of the speech were not written down until sometime after the trial, it became renowned for its appeal to dog lovers in its praise of the dog as a man's "best friend." Both Old

Drum and the Eulogy of the Dog are memorialized with a statue and plaque at the Johnson County courthouse in Warrensburg, Missouri. (RSMo 10.112)

THE STATE FRUIT TREE

The Pawpaw tree (Asimina triloba) was designated as Missouri's official state fruit tree on Aug. 28, 2019. The pawpaw tree is a small, deciduous tree, typically growing in forest understorey. Pawpaws can grow to a height of 11 feet, although taller ones have been measured. They have the distinction of producing the largest edible fruit that is also native to the U.S. The richly-colored maroon flowers ripen into a green, then yellow or brown fruit, 2-6 inches in length and 1-3 inches wide. The flesh of the pawpaw fruit is pale yellow, with a custard-like texture and large black seeds. The flavor is often compared to that of banana, mango or kiwi. Pawpaw fruit is also known regionally, by colloquial names such as "Missouri banana," "Ozark banana" and "hillbilly mango." (RSMo 10.105)

THE OFFICIAL ENDANGERED SPECIES

On Aug. 28, 2019, the Hellbender Salamander (Cryptobranchus alleganiensis) was designated as Missouri's official endangered species. It is also known as the "snot otter" or "lasagna lizard," and is an aquatic salamander. There are two subspecies, the Ozark and the Eastern. The Hellbender can live up to 30 years and grow up to two feet long. They breathe through their skin and are nocturnal foragers. Missouri is the only place to have both subspecies of the Hellbender and both are listed as endangered. The salamander is important due to its role as an indicator of overall stream health. The Ron Goellner Center for Hellbender Conservation's successful breeding program at the St. Louis Zoo currently has released over 5,000 back into the wild. Westminster College student Cameron Gehlert submitted the suggestion. (RSMo 10.200)

THE STATE TARTAN

The “Show-Me Tartan” was designated as Missouri’s official tartan on Aug. 28, 2019. Missouri is one of 29 states to adopt an official tartan, and the design is registered with the Scottish Tartan Authority. The design, a criss-crossing line pattern of blue, brown and silver on a field of dark blue and green, was inspired by four of Missouri’s state symbols; the Eastern Bluebird, the Missouri mule, and the crescent moon and bear present on the Great Seal. The dark green and blue are symbolic of Missouri’s lands, waters and the Ozark Mountains. The Eastern Bluebird is symbolized by stripes of light blue, white and red. A band of brown represents the Missouri mule. A narrow band of light blue reflects the crescent moon symbol of the Seal, and another brown band represents the grizzly bear of the Seal. The pattern is intended to reflect the concepts of “vigilance and justice, valor, purity, steadfastness, hope and strength.”(RSMo 10.190)

THE OFFICIAL STATE HOCKEY TEAM

On Aug. 28, 2019, the St. Louis Blues was selected and shall be known as the official state hockey team of Missouri. In 2019, the Blues won the first Stanley Cup championship in the team’s history. (RSMo 10.225)

THE OFFICIAL STATE MONUMENT

The Gateway Arch is perhaps Missouri’s most iconic and recognizable structure. Architect Eero Saarinen designed the winning monument in 1947 in the shape of a weighted catenary arch. Construction began in 1963 and was completed in 1965. Today, approximately 4,000,000 tourists visit the site every year. Visitors to the Gateway Arch may explore an underground museum and ride a tram up the inside of the Arch to the top where an observation deck provides a stunning view of St. Louis, the Mississippi River and surrounding areas. In February 2018, the Gateway Arch and nearby Old Courthouse were designated as Gateway Arch National Park, the first national park in Missouri. Gov. Mike Parson signed a bill in 2021 designating the Gateway Arch as Missouri’s official state monument.

THE OFFICIAL STATE SPORT

Archery is a method of shooting a projectile point secured to the tip of a shaft propelled by a bow: the age-old “bow and arrow.” In Missouri, archery took on special significance when in 1966 Kansas City resident Holless W. Allen submitted a patent for the compound bow, which was approved in 1969. Other Missouri archery connections include the Archery Hall of Fame & Museum in Springfield; the Missouri National Archery in the Schools Program run by the Department of Conservation; and, the Grayson Archery Collection and Library at the University of Missouri Museum of Anthropology, one of the largest and most comprehensive collections in the world containing over 5,500 pieces representing six continents.

THE STATE RIFLE

The Hawken rifle was originally manufactured by brothers Jacob and Samuel Hawken in St. Louis. Their double-trigger muzzleloader was also called the prairie rifle and the Rocky Mountain rifle because its intended purpose was to arm fur traders in the West. They never patented the gun. The brothers produced their first rifle in 1823 or 1825 and continued working together until Jacob’s death in the cholera epidemic of 1849. Samuel retired around 1855 and left the business to his son William. William carried on until he sold the company around 1862. The name Hawken remained attached to the gun shop until it closed in 1915. The Hawken family made an estimated 1,000 rifles over nearly 40 years. Famous “mountain men” known to have owned Hawken Rifles were Kit Carson, Hugh Glass, Theodore Roosevelt and Missouri’s own Daniel Boone and William Henry Ashley. Missouri is the tenth state to have an official firearm.

STATE UFO CAPITALS OF MISSOURI

To mark the 50th anniversary of alleged unidentified flying object (UFO) sightings in Piedmont, the Missouri General Assembly passed SB139 designating Piedmont and Wayne County as the UFO Capitals of Missouri. The purpose of codifying the designation in state statute was, according to the original bill sponsor Rep. Chris Dinkins, to increase tourism. (Committee) Between February and April 1973, residents of Piedmont and the surrounding area witnessed unexplained activity in the sky. Several hundred calls were made to local police, sheriffs and newspapers. The incidents made local headlines and eventually national news outlets began reporting the sightings. There was no official government investigation of the sightings (Project Blue Book was discontinued in 1969); however, Southeast Missouri State University physics professor Dr. Harley Rutledge investigated with his own team. He issued a public paper in 1973, which he later turned into a book called Project Identification: The First Scientific Field Study of UFO Phenomena (1981). Today, Unexplained Aerial Phenomena reports, as they are now called, are handled by the All-domain Anomaly Resolution Office under the U.S. Secretary of Defense.

STATE GOLD STAR MEMORIAL MONUMENTS

In 2020, the governor signed a bill designating three separate Gold Star Memorials as official state symbols. The federal Gold Star Families program is for individuals whose immediate family member died during U.S. military service. The Gold Star tradition dates back to the World War I Service Flag families would fly at their homes. A blue star on the flag represented a serving member of the family; a gold star meant that family member had died during his or her service. The Service Flag was formalized by Congress in 1942. The nation observed its first Gold Star Mother's Day in September 1936; Gold Star Mother's and Father's Day is now marked annually on the last Sunday in September and Gold Star Spouse's Day is April 5. The Gold Star lapel button (pin) was established by Congress in 1947. A U.S. Gold Star is issued by the Department of Defense or the deceased's specific branch of the military. Each Gold Star honoree receives an official Gold Star lapel pin and survivor support services.

STATE KOREAN WAR VETERANS MEMORIAL

In January 2020, Sen. Mike Cierpiot submitted SB656, which would designate the Missouri Korean War Veterans Memorial in Kansas City as the official Korean War Veterans Memorial for the state. Cierpiot was following an earlier attempt made in 2013 by Sen. Jason Holsman's SB399, which died in committee. Gov. Mike Parson signed the 2020 bill into law, effective Aug. 28, 2020. United States involvement in the Korean War officially began with hostilities on June 27, 1950 and lasted through July 27, 1953, with veteran benefit eligibility extending up to Jan. 31, 1955. With the 1955 extension, 6.8 million Americans qualified as Korean War veterans. As of 2018, the official number of casualties from Missouri was 944 (NARA). Unofficially, the number has risen to 1,056 as of 2023 (Korean War Project). The Memorial was dedicated Sept. 28, 2011, in Washington Square Park, Kansas City. According to the Memorial's official website, the purpose of the Memorial is, "To perpetuate the legacy of Korean War Veterans present and past and the over 900 from the State of Missouri who paid the supreme sacrifice and gave their lives in defense of South Korea." (MKWVM). Other statewide Missouri Korean War monuments are in St. Louis (Forest Park), Jefferson City (Capitol grounds) and College of the Ozarks (Patriots Park).

STATE LIVE ENTERTAINMENT CAPITAL

Branson, Missouri, has long billed itself as the “live entertainment capital of the world.” That isn’t something that can be legislated, so Branson’s State Rep. Brian Seitz proposed the next best thing: making Branson the live entertainment capital of Missouri. In a 2024 interview, Rep. Seitz stated, “Branson has long been synonymous with world-class entertainment, drawing millions of visitors each year to experience its unique charm and hospitality. ... By officially designating Branson as the “Live Entertainment

Capital” of Missouri, we are not only celebrating its cultural significance but also laying the foundation for sustained economic prosperity for our state.” (Dereuck) Although Seitz’s efforts failed in 2024, he tried again in 2025. This time, the statute made it into SB348, which was signed by Gov. Mike Kehoe on a stage in Branson on June 26th.

STATE PATRIOTIC MURAL CITY

Concordia’s mural project began in 2022 with the local Lions Club, who commissioned artist Ray Harvey to paint a U.S. flag mural on a building in the small town of just under 2,400 people. According to Harvey, “...within a month of completion with such a groundswell of appreciation, the residents wanted more.” The Lions Club formed a mural committee with a five-year plan to fund additional paintings. It was Harvey who suggested branding Concordia as the patriotic mural city of Missouri. Concordia’s state Senator Kurtis Gregory brought HB2172 to the General Assembly in 2024 to try to designate the town as the patriotic mural city of Missouri. Though the effort failed in 2024, both Sen. Gregory and Rep. Mark Nolte made a second effort in 2025 with SB674 and HB133 respectively. Those, too, failed to leave the House and Senate floors. However, they received a helping hand from their colleague Rep. Brian Seitz, who proposed an amendment to SB348 adding Concordia’s designation to a long list of state holidays and other designations. SB348 headed to Gov. Kehoe’s desk, and he signed it into law, effective Aug. 28, 2025.

STATE APPLE CAPITAL

In summer 2025, Gov. Mike Kehoe signed SB348 designating Waverly in Lafayette County the official apple capital of Missouri. Waverly and Lafayette County have long been known as prolific apple producers, due to the presence of loess soil, which is particularly well-suited to grow fruits. The main apple crops for Waverly are Red Delicious, Golden Delicious, and Jonathan. Because apples are a late summer and fall produce, they are usually not judged or exhibited at the Missouri State Fair held in August. Instead, Waverly hosts the annual State of Missouri Apple Judging Contest and Auction in September during its Apple Jubilee.

EXECUTIVE BRANCH

Mike Kehoe

Governor

Elected November 5, 2024

Term expires January 2029

MIKE KEHOE (Republican) was sworn in as Missouri's 58th governor on Jan. 13, 2025. Guided by a lifelong dedication to public service and a commitment to Missouri families, Gov. Kehoe has made public safety, education, economic development and agriculture the cornerstones of his administration.

Raised in the city of St. Louis as the youngest of six children by a single mother who worked tirelessly to support her family, Kehoe learned the value of hard work and resilience at an early age. He began his career washing cars at 15 and rose through the automotive industry to become one of the youngest Ford dealers in the nation. He later turned around Osage Industries, a struggling manufacturing company in Linn, Missouri, transforming it into one of the largest ambulance manufacturers in the country.

Kehoe's entrepreneurial success and leadership experience led him naturally to public service, where he could use his background to improve the lives of Missouri families and strengthen the state's economy.

During his four-and-a-half years on the Missouri Highway and Transportation Commission, Kehoe played a critical role in improving infrastructure and helping elevate Missouri's road system from among the worst in the nation to one of the best. In 2010, he was elected to the Missouri Senate, where he worked to balance budgets, fully fund schools and champion laws protecting Missouri's children and seniors. As Senate majority floor leader, he advocated for reducing regulatory burdens, cutting taxes and creating jobs.

As Missouri's 47th lieutenant governor, Kehoe highlighted the state's businesses, agriculture and tourism while serving as a voice for veterans and seniors.

A first-generation farmer and passionate advocate for Missouri agriculture, Kehoe owns and operates a 700-acre cattle farm in Phelps and Pulaski counties with his wife, Claudia. The Kehoes are the proud parents of four adult children and are thrilled to embrace their new role as grandparents.

Gov. Kehoe's priorities reflect his unwavering commitment to the people of Missouri: ensuring safe communities, advancing educational opportunities, fostering economic growth and supporting the backbone of the state's economy—agriculture.

Qualifications

The chief executive officer of the state of Missouri must be at least 30 years old, a U.S. citizen for at least 15 years and a resident of Missouri for at least 10 years before being elected governor.

The governor is elected to a four-year term during the same year as a presidential election and may seek re-election to a second four-year term. No person may hold the office for more than two terms.

Responsibilities

The governor appoints the members of all boards and commissions, all department heads in state government and fills all vacancies in public offices unless otherwise provided by law. The board members of Missouri's state universities and colleges are appointed by the governor. The governor also selects the members of the Supreme and Appellate Courts of Missouri from names submitted by the Appellate Judicial Commission. The governor appoints members to certain election boards, the Kansas City police board and the Board of Probation and Parole. Most appointments require the advice and consent of the Senate.

The governor addresses the General Assembly on the State of the State and recommends changes or other actions to be taken. A budget is submitted by the governor to the General Assembly within 30 days after the General Assembly convenes. The budget contains the governor's estimates of available state revenues and an itemized plan for proposed expenditures.

All bills passed by both houses of the legislature are submitted to the governor for consideration. The governor must return the legislation to the house of its inception within 15 days after receiving it. The governor may either approve a bill, making it law, or return it to the legislature with objections. When the legislature is adjourned, the governor has 45 days in which to consider a bill.

The governor may object to one or more items or portions of items of an appropriations bill while approving other items or portions of the appropriations bill. Upon signing the appropriations bill, appended to it is a statement of the items or portions of items to which there are objections, and such items or portions will not take effect. The governor may control the rate of expenditure in other areas whenever the actual revenues are less than the revenue estimates upon which the appropriations were based.

Additional Duties and Powers

The governor performs many other duties assigned by the constitution, statute or custom. For example, the governor issues writs of election to fill vacancies in either house of the General Assembly. The governor also has the power to grant reprieves, commutations and pardons, but this does not include the power to parole.

In addition to other duties, the governor is a member of a number of boards and commissions, such as the Board of Public Buildings and the State Board of Fund Commissioners.

Moreover, the governor is the conservator of peace throughout Missouri and is commander-in-chief of the state's militia. The militia may be called out to execute laws, suppress threats of danger to the state and prevent and repel invasion.

Mike and Claudia Kehoe married in 1989, and together, were blessed with four children. As a young mother, the Mrs. Claudia Kehoe quickly recognized the importance of community involvement. She began her volunteer service at St. Joseph Cathedral and Helias Catholic High School. Her work there sparked a deep passion for charitable service, leading her to dedicate nearly 30 years to various nonprofit efforts in central Missouri. She has served on the boards of the Mid-Missouri SSM Health Hospital Foundation, the Jefferson City Area YMCA, the United Way of Central Missouri, the Girl Scouts of the Missouri Heartland, and the Food Bank for Central and Northeast Missouri. Notably, Mrs. Kehoe played a key role in expanding and enhancing the Buddy Packs Program at the Food Bank, collaborating with local volunteers to support children in need.

Mrs. Kehoe was elected to the Board of Directors of JAG-Missouri, an organization focused on helping students graduate from high school and prepare for college, military service, or a career.

Mrs. Kehoe earned a bachelor's degree in finance from Creighton University and a Master of Business Administration from Saint Louis University. She began her professional career in the banking sector, gaining valuable experience with several financial institutions in the St. Louis area.

The Kehoes have called mid-Missouri home for over 30 years and remain active in several local and statewide organizations. In addition to their community work, the Governor and Mrs. Kehoe manage a beef cattle operation on their family farm and enjoy spending time with their family and the many friends they have met on their travels throughout the state.

Missouri Governor's Mansion

The Missouri Governor's Mansion has been the official residence of Missouri's Governors since 1872 and is one of the oldest governors' homes in the United States. Located on 10 acres overlooking the Missouri River and the Missouri State Capitol, the Mansion is listed in the National Register of Historic Places.

The Missouri Governor's Mansion was completed in late December 1871. The Mansion was built in only eight months, with much of the work performed by prisoners of the nearby penitentiary. The cost, including some of the furnishings, was $74,960. Governor B. Gratz Brown and his family moved into the Mansion on January 20, 1872.

The Mansion was designed by noted St. Louis architect George Inham Barnett and is an example of Second Empire architecture, a style characterized by the patterned mansard roof popular in the 1860s.

The original three-story structure was built containing 13 bedrooms and no bathrooms or closets. The home includes a freestanding winding stairway with a hand-carved black walnut banister, marble fireplaces, elaborate 17-foot ceilings and handsome Renaissance Revival furnishings. The entry consists of an imposing portico with four pink granite columns, a donation from Governor Brown.

Through the years, the Mansion has been restored and improved, but the impressive characteristics of the original Mansion remain.

¹At the time of the elections of McNair, Bates and Williams, and of the first election of Miller in 1825, there were no organized political parties in Missouri. Individual popularity prevailed. All called themselves Jeffersonian Republicans, or what now are called Democrats.

²Marmaduke was elected Lt. Governor in 1840. Upon the death of Governor Thomas Reynolds in February 1844, Marmaduke became governor. He served the remainder of that year, because John Cummins Edwards was elected.

³Soon after Polk was inaugurated, the Legislature convened and elected him by 101 votes to be a U.S. Senator. He resigned to take that office in February 1857. His occupancy of the governor's office was shorter than any other governor of Missouri.

⁴Jackson was Lt. Gov. under Polk and became acting governor after Polk resigned in February 1857. He served until October of that year when Robert Stewart took office. Stewart was elected at a special election in August 1857.

⁵Gamble was elected provisional governor by the Missouri State Convention on July 31, 1861. The office had been declared vacated after Gov. Claiborne Fox Jackson joined the Confederacy.

Missouri State Capitol

State government in Missouri is centered in the state's beautiful domed Capitol, dominating the bluffs of the Missouri River in Jefferson City.

The dome, rising 238 feet above ground level and topped by a bronze statue of Ceres, Roman goddess of agriculture, is the first view of Jefferson City for travelers arriving from the north. The structure is Jefferson City's leading tourist attraction and is a mecca for school groups who arrive by busloads, particularly during General Assembly sessions when they fill the galleries to watch the Senate and House of Representatives in action.

In addition to housing the two legislative bodies, the Capitol provides office space for the governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, treasurer, state auditor and some administrative agencies. The structure is also notable for its architectural features, including its eight 48-foot columns on the south portico and six 48-foot columns on the north side; its 30-foot-wide grand stairway and its bronze front doors, each 13-by-18 feet, among the largest cast since the Roman era.

The Capitol's first floor features the State Museum. Outstanding paintings, pediments and friezes decorate the Capitol interior. Of historical significance is a series of Thomas Hart Benton murals in the House Lounge.

Statuary is a prominent feature of the Capitol grounds. Heroic bronze figures depicting Missouri's two great rivers, the Mississippi and Missouri, and a 13-foot statue of Thomas Jefferson dominate the south entrance. A bronze relief depicting the signing of the Louisiana Purchase by Livingston, Monroe and Marbois and the Fountain of the Centaurs are the most outstanding features on the north grounds.

The present Capitol, completed in 1917 and dedicated in 1924, is the fourth Capitol in Jefferson City. Before the seat of government was moved to Jefferson City, the functions of Missouri territorial government were based in the Mansion House, a hotel in St. Louis, and later at the Missouri Hotel, also in St. Louis. The upper story of a mercantile store in St. Charles was designated as temporary capital of the state in 1821 and remained the seat of government until 1826 when Jefferson City became the permanent capital city. The first Capitol in Jefferson City was located on land now occupied by the Governor's Mansion. It burned in 1837, apparently after some hot coals fell out of one of its fireplaces. A second structure, completed in 1840 and expanded in 1887–88 burned when the dome was struck by lightning on Feb. 5, 1911. A temporary Capitol made of lathe and stucco was erected in an area to the east of the present building and was used from 1912 to 1917.

The present Capitol was constructed for $4,215,000, including site and furnishings. It is five stories high, 437 feet long, 300 feet wide in the center and 200 feet wide in the wings. The dome is 238 feet high and the height of the wings is 88 feet. It includes over 650,000 square feet of floor space.

The secretary of state's office serves Missourians in a number of diverse and important ways. The major divisions within the secretary of state's office are: Business Services, Elections, Securities, State Library, Records Services, Administrative Rules, and Publications.

At Secretary of State Jay Ashcroft's direction, the office is focused on holding government more accountable, embracing common sense solutions, modernizing technology and being good stewards of taxpayers' dollars.

As Missouri's chief elections official, Ashcroft and his office work hard to ensure fair and accessible elections. As part of that effort, the office makes election integrity and cybersecurity top priorities, working with all of Missouri's 116 local election authorities to implement policies and procedures that provide election security throughout the state.

The Securities Division actively investigates claims of fraud and abuse, with particular attention paid to vulnerable citizens, including the elderly. The creation of the new Vulnerable Citizens Services Unit focuses on preventing and reducing investor harm, and enhancing awareness about resources and remedies available to vulnerable citizens of all ages.

Secretary Ashcroft has also worked closely with members of the state legislature to secure resources vital for library access. The State Library helps enhance the gateway to learning for all Missourians by distributing grants to libraries across the state.

In addition, the office is responsible for compiling, storing and publishing a variety of documents, including many historic records available on MissouriDigitalHeritage.com. As the keeper of the Great Seal of the State of Missouri, Ashcroft is also responsible for authenticating official acts of the governor. The office also includes the following divisions: Information Technology, Communications and Publications, Fiscal, Human Resources and Facilities.

Since 2007, the Safe at Home address confidentiality program has helped survivors of domestic violence, sexual assault, rape, human trafficking, stalking and other crimes in their efforts to stay safe from future harm. Through Safe at Home, survivors and their minor children may use a substitute mailing address designated by the secretary of state's office for their first class, legal and certified mail. The program also allows survivors to use the substitute address on government records and public filings to help keep their address confidential and out of the hands of potential abusers.

For more than 90 years, the secretary of state has been responsible for ensuring compliance with state securities laws through the Securities Division. The secretary appoints the commissioner of securities, who administers these laws and oversees the division, which focuses on investor protection and safeguarding Missouri investors from fraud through enforcement, with an emphasis on restitution for investors.

The division is organized into three sections: Investor Education, Registration and Enforcement. The division seeks to serve all Missourians, from investors to investment professionals.

The Investor Education Section creates and promotes initiatives designed to educate and assist investors. This includes a website, accessible at www.missouriprotectsinvestors.com, an Investor Protection Hotline for investors to report complaints or make inquiries and the Vulnerable Citizens Services Unit (VCSU) hotline. The VCSU is designed to protect Missouri's most vulnerable citizens from financial exploitation, including seniors, disabled investors and others who may be at greater risk of financial exploitation. The VCSU conducts investigations and promotes awareness among financial professionals, medical professionals and caregivers through public outreach and investor education.

The Registration Section reviews proposed securities offerings to ensure Missouri registrations are "fair, just and equitable." The office receives filings of federally covered securities, reviews requests for exemptions from registration requirements and assists issuers seeking to raise capital in compliance with the law. This section also regulates the registration of individuals and firms, performs routine and for-cause inspections and pre-registration exams of the offices of broker-dealers and investment advisers. Prior to granting each registration, an application review process is conducted to determine if applicants are sufficiently qualified to conduct securities business.

The Enforcement Section investigates and resolves complaints from Missouri investors. Each year the office receives numerous investor complaints which may result in the initiation of investigations, many of which result in cease and desist orders, consent orders, censures, investor restitution, civil penalties or criminal prosecutions. The attorneys and investigators in this section pursue millions of dollars in penalties, payments and restitution each year, and are leaders in national enforcement actions and task forces.

The Elections Division oversees all state elections for candidates, various judges and statewide ballot issues. Candidates for the six constitutional state offices, U.S. Congress, the General Assembly and certain judges file for election with the secretary of state. Statewide ballots for primary, general and certain special elections are also prepared by the secretary of state, and certified copies of those ballots are sent to local election officials. It is the responsibility of the office to canvass, certify and publish state election results.

The secretary of state provides assistance to local election authorities (county clerks or election boards) in several ways. This includes maintaining annual election deadline calendars, the secretary of state's website and various training materials and workshops. The secretary of state also promulgates rules governing elections and publishes the Missouri Election Laws for use by the local election authorities. The secretary of state works together with state and local officials, schools and civic organizations to provide materials to support voter registration, civic responsibility and education. This collaboration also extends to oversight of the statewide poll worker recruitment initiative.

The office also assists military and overseas voters by facilitating their voter registration and absentee ballot request process. The Missouri Military and Overseas Portal, created and maintained by the secretary of state's office, is available online for these eligible voters.

The secretary of state also certifies statewide ballot measures proposed by the General Assembly or through the initiative and referendum petition process, including the oversight of signature verification. Before an initiative petition can be circulated, the petition and its summary statement must be approved by the secretary of state and the state attorney general. The secretary of state must certify the summary statement along with the state auditor's fiscal note statement. The secretary of state is responsible for verifying the number of signatures collected for each initiative. A ballot issue's full text is published in newspapers around the state, printed for display at polling places and is also available on the secretary of state's website. The secretary of state also oversees the signature verification process for the formation of new political parties and the nomination of independent candidates for offices that file with the secretary of state.

The division is responsible for coordinating Missouri's compliance with federal election law, including the Help America Vote Act of 2002, which requires increased training for election officials, poll workers and voters, at least one accessible voting system per polling place for voters with disabilities and the creation of a statewide voter registration list.

The secretary of state's office upholds the fairness and security of all elections. The Elections Integrity Unit investigates concerns from voters and local election authorities. The secretary of state is responsible for the overall integrity of the election process and ensuring every registered Missourian's vote counts.

The Missouri State Library provides library and reference services to Missouri state government, provides library services to the blind and visually impaired and promotes the development and improvement of library services throughout the state.

Library Development

The Library Development section supports libraries through consultation, administration of grant programs, education and statewide programs. The consultant staff works with libraries to improve the quality of service for all Missouri citizens.

The State Library administers several programs to provide funds and services for libraries. State-funded programs include state aid for public libraries to meet a wide variety of local needs. State funds also support summer reading programs in public libraries. The State Library coordinates the funding for the Remote Electronic Access to Libraries (REAL) Program, which provides Internet access for public libraries. The federal Library Services and Technology Act provides approximately $3 million in funding for grants to libraries and for statewide projects.

The State Library also serves as the lead agency for the State Census Data Center program, a cooperative venture with the U.S. Census Bureau.

Secretary's Council on Library Development

The Secretary's Council on Library Development advises the secretary of state and the state librarian on matters that relate to the State Library and library service to Missourians. A list of council members is provided at sos.mo.gov/library/council/sosc.

Reference Services

The Reference Services division supports the research needs of Missouri state government employees with its collection of books, journals, newspapers and government documents in print and digital formats. It is also a member of MOBI-US, the statewide library consortium of academic and public libraries in Missouri, which provides access to many additional resources.

Documents from federal and Missouri state agencies are also available through the library. Many Missouri state government documents are available in print onsite and in a digital library in the Internet Archive at archive.org/details/missouristatepublications.

Reference Services hosts the Missouri Department of Transportation (MoDOT) library collection as part of a joint agreement between MoDOT and the State Library. Other special collections in the library include Missouri history, library science and historical documents about Missouri libraries.

Wolfner Library

Records Services Division

600 W. Main, PO Box 1747, Jefferson City 65102
sos.mo.gov/records

Established as a separate department in 1965, Records Services includes three divisions, the Missouri State Archives, Records Management and Local Records. These divisions are collectively responsible for managing the current and historical records of the state, while preserving and making them accessible to Missouri citizens.

Missouri State Archives

sos.mo.gov/archives

The Missouri State Archives is the official repository for government records of enduring value. Its mission is to foster an appreciation of Missouri history by preserving and making available the state's permanent records to its citizens and their government.

Records in the Archives date back to 1770. They include executive, legislative and judicial records; records of state departments and agencies; early French and Spanish colonial and U.S. territorial records; records documenting women's and African American history, military records from the War of 1812 through World War II; records detailing Missouri's role in America's westward expansion; trademarks and business records.

The Missouri State Archives is one of the most accessed state repositories in the nation and continues to be recognized by historical and genealogical organizations for its service to the researcher community. While thousands visit or write each year, the majority now use the Archives' website as their preferred research method.

In recent years, the Missouri State Archives has become involved in a number of important initiatives including the centennial commemoration of the 19th Amendment and the state bicentennial. The Archives also continues to work with the State Library to develop the Missouri Digital Heritage website, an online portal where the public can access digital collections from institutions across the state.

The Archives is devoted to educating the public about its collection. Tours and programs are provided for school and civic groups across the state while Archives Alive!, a history based theatrical performance, brings history to life in Jefferson City each spring for thousands of Missouri third- and fourth-grade students. The Friends of the Missouri State Archives support the Archives by underwriting many of the costs associated with these and other outreach activities. The Archives also hosts practicum students and interns from numerous colleges and universities and Volunteers are an important MSA resource. They provide invaluable support to staff, helping with records processing projects across the state, as well as assisting with reference services and tours in Jefferson City. The Archives' innovative e-Volunteer program provides indexing and transcription services from their home computers. Completed projects are placed online, providing greater access to collections.

Missouri Historical Records Advisory Board

sos.mo.gov/archives/mhrab/mhrab.asp

The Missouri Historical Records Advisory Board (MHRAB) was created by statute in 1989 to be the state's central advisory body for historical records planning. The board also serves as the state affiliate of the National Historical Publications and Records Commission, the grant-awarding arm of the National Archives and Records Administration, and is responsible for reviewing proposals submitted to their grant programs, as well as to the Local Records Preservation Grant Program.

Missouri Board on Geographic Names

sos.mo.gov/archives/about/geographic.asp

The Missouri Board on Geographic Names was created through a 1995 executive order issued by Gov. Mel Carnahan to coordinate place-naming activity among local, state and federal authorities. Additionally, the board provides uniformity in geographic nomenclature throughout the state, while retaining the significance, history and culture associated with the names of Missouri's geographic features. Proposed changes or additions to names of geographic features and places are received and evaluated, and recommendations are made to the U.S. Board on Geographic Names for approval. Members include both interested citizens and professionals.

Records Management

sos.mo.gov/records/recmgmt

Records Management provides state agencies with the necessary instruments to effectively manage information and records in order to promote the efficiency and continuity of government, document the rights of Missouri citizens and preserve the state's heritage. The division includes three sections: Records Analysis, Imaging Services and the State Records Center.

Records Analysts assist state agencies in identifying and effectively managing their official records. Analysts consult with agency officials on retention schedules and advise agencies on cost and technical matters related to microfilm, digital imaging and low-cost storage of inactive and semi-active records.

Imaging Services provides micrographic and digital imaging services to state agencies and local governments. Agencies can reduce the volume of, improve access to and ensure archival preservation for their long-term and significant records by utilizing these services.

The State Records Center provides state agencies with an economical storage solution for inactive records. The transfer of inactive files to the records center allows agencies to free up office space and equipment, saving Missouri taxpayers millions of dollars over the life of the records.

State Records Commission

sos.mo.gov/records/recmgmt/src

The State Records Commission was created by statute in 1964. The Commission, working with the Records Services Division, reviews and establishes retention periods and guidelines for records in the executive branch of government, regardless of format.

Local Records

sos.mo.gov/archives/localrecs

Local Records works to improve long-term management of local government records by advising, educating and encouraging records custodians in the use of sound records management and archival practices. Local Records archivists provide expertise to local government officials on the retention of records and records preservation projects.

Through Local Records, documents of great historical value are identified and preserved, revealing long-lost local histories and enhancing the collection of the Missouri State Archives. Consultations, records inventories and preservation projects conducted by division staff make local public records more accessible. More than 3,500 governmental entities, including all offices in county, municipal and local district government offices, rely on Local Records for assistance in managing records. Field archivists are located around the state to assist this effort.

Local Records also houses the state document conservation lab, where staff provide advice to local government offices on all aspects of record care, preservation and disaster recovery. Conservation treatments are performed on the state's most historically significant and fragile documents.

Local Records Board

sos.mo.gov/archives/localrecs/lrboard

The Local Records Board was created by statute in 1972. Comprised of representatives from all local government classifications, the board reviews and establishes retention schedules for local government records.

Since 1976, the Administrative Rules division has been charged by state law with setting uniform standards, procedures and guidelines for the preparation and publishing of rules in the Missouri Register and the Missouri Code of State Regulations. The Administrative Rules Division initially publishes rulemakings proposed by state agencies in the Missouri Register. The rulemakings are published to provide public notice and allow agencies to receive comments and revise the proposed rulemakings based on comments. Agencies then file final versions of orders of rulemaking with the division for final publication in the Missouri Register and subsequently in the Missouri Code of State Regulations. The division provides a user's guide for the proper preparation and filing of agency rules entitled Missouri State Rulemaking Manual, which is available on the secretary of state's website.

The Administrative Rules division also publishes emergency rules in the Missouri Register. An agency may file an emergency rule if the agency finds an immediate danger to public health, safety, or welfare or if the emergency rule is necessary to preserve a compelling governmental interest that requires an early effective date, prior to that allowed by the traditional rulemaking process. An emergency rule is only in effect for a limited period of time and normally has a corresponding proposed rulemaking that allows for public notice and comment. Once an emergency rule is approved and processed, it may be viewed on the secretary of state's website under the Emergency Rules section until it is published in the Missouri Register.

The Missouri Register is published twice a month, and updates to the 16-volume Missouri Code of State Regulations are published once a month. Both the Missouri Register and Missouri Code of State Regulations are available on the secretary of state's website. Additionally, Missourians who are interested in particular rules may sign up on the secretary of state's website for email notification of rule filings by rule number or subject matter.

Scott Fitzpatrick

State Auditor

Elected November 8, 2022

Term expires January 2027

SCOTT FITZPATRICK (Republican) was sworn in as Missouri's 39th state auditor on Jan. 9, 2023, after being elected to his first term in November 2022.

As auditor, Fitzpatrick serves as Missouri's taxpayer watchdog, working to ensure that state and local governments operate efficiently, transparently and within the law. He has prioritized audits of school districts, COVID-19 relief spending and government programs to identify waste, mismanagement and fraud. His office plays a key role in holding public officials accountable and protecting taxpayer dollars.

Before becoming auditor, Fitzpatrick served as Missouri's 47th state treasurer. He led efforts to expand and improve MO ABLE, the savings program for individuals with disabilities, and reduced fees for Missouri's 529 Education Plan, making college savings more accessible. Under his leadership, Missouri returned record amounts of Unclaimed Property and launched partnerships to help families recover past-due child support.

Fitzpatrick previously served three terms in the Missouri House of Representatives, where he chaired the House Budget Committee and oversaw the passage of Missouri's $28 billion annual operating budget. During his tenure, the state fully funded K-12 education for the first time in nearly a decade.

A lifelong Missourian, Fitzpatrick founded a marine construction company as a teenager in Shell Knob and understands the challenges faced by small business owners. He graduated from Cassville High School and the University of Missouri. He and his wife, Mallory, live in Cassville with their four sons: Luke, Carson, Noah and Henry.

Duties

The Missouri State Auditor's Office is Missouri's independent watchdog agency, charged with protecting taxpayer dollars from waste, fraud and abuse, and determining whether they are spent efficiently, effectively, and in accordance with the law. Audits are conducted in an impartial, non-partisan manner in accordance with government auditing standards issued by the Comptroller General of the United States.

The state auditor has authority to audit state entities, including departments, boards, commissions, statewide offices, and the General Assembly. The office is charged with auditing the state's expenditure of state and federal dollars, and may also audit courts, school districts, certain counties, municipalities, and other political subdivisions.

The office reviews property tax rates set by local political subdivisions and drafts fiscal notes and fiscal note summaries for initiative petitions. The office registers general obligation bonds issued by political subdivisions of the state to ensure compliance with state law.

The office maintains a Whistleblower Hotline for citizens to report suspected waste, fraud, and abuse at all levels of government. Individuals may report information to the State Auditor's Whistleblower Hotline by calling (800) 347-8597, by emailing moaudit@auditor.mo.gov, or by using the online submission form at auditor.mo.gov/hotline. Callers may choose to remain anonymous.

The powers of the state auditor are derived from Article IV, Section 13 of the Missouri Constitution. Statutory authority and duties are primarily detailed in Chapter 29 of the Revised Statutes of Missouri.

The state auditor's office reviews auditee systems and controls to ensure taxpayer dollars are protected. The state auditor's office also reviews compliance with constitutional provisions, laws, legislative appropriation levels, administrative rules, and the efficiency and accountability of management practices.

Audits contain a management advisory report listing any management weaknesses discovered during the audit. Findings and recommendations in the management advisory report are reviewed with the auditee at an exit conference prior to the release of the audit so responses from the auditee may be included in the final report. Audit reports are released publicly and available online.

Whistleblower Hotline

Missourians may contact the state auditor's Whistleblower Hotline with concerns related to fraud or waste in government operations by calling (800) 347-8597, by emailing moaudit@auditor.mo.gov, or by using the online submission form at auditor.mo.gov/hotline. Callers may choose to remain anonymous. Information from citizens, legislators and government employees can be helpful throughout the audit process in identifying problems. Citizens are urged to contact the auditor's office if they have information they believe could be useful to audit staff. The state auditor may take immediate action when there is evidence of fraud; violation of state or federal law, rule or regulation; or significant mismanagement by referring the matter to the appropriate authorities, in order to preserve relevant evidence and/or prevent continued harm.

In 2023, the Missouri General Assembly unanimously approved additional discretionary authority for the auditor's office to conduct an audit of any political subdivision of the state, if, after receiving a whistleblower complaint, the office deems the complaint credible following an initial investigation.

Public Corruption and Fraud Division

The Public Corruption and Fraud Division within the Missouri State Auditor's Office is dedicated to rooting out fraud, waste, and abuse in state, county, and local government and assisting law enforcement to ensure those who are responsible for stealing taxpayer funds are held accountable. The division is made up of attorneys, auditors, and investigators, and includes forensic auditing specialists and Certified Fraud Examiners. The division has a demonstrated history of working with local, state, and federal law enforcement to pursue justice for taxpayers.

Petition Audits

Under Missouri law, the State Auditor's Office may be called on to audit any political subdivision of the state if enough qualified voters of that political subdivision request the audit. Section 29.230, RSMo, outlines the petition process and requirements.

Key provisions of the law include: the political subdivision audited through the petition process is responsible for the cost of the audit; petition signatures must be from registered voters who live within the boundaries of the political subdivision; the petition and signatures must be submitted within one year of the initial request; the person who submits the petition and signatures, also known as the chief petitioner, must be a property owner or resident of the political subdivision.

More information about the petition audit process can be found at auditor.mo.gov/petition-audits.

Follow-Up Reports

Audit follow-up reviews are conducted to increase accountability in government for the taxpayers of Missouri. Audit follow-up reports document whether audit recommendations have been implemented as recommended by the state auditor. The state auditor's office works with audited entities to establish a reasonable timeline for the implementation of audit recommendations, with a particular focus on findings requiring immediate action.

Office Review

The State Auditor's Office frequently receives independent reviews of audit processes and office operations. In November 2023, the Missouri State Auditor's Office received the highest rating possible during a routine review by the National State Auditors Association (NSAA). The NSAA reviews are done every three years; the previous peer review was completed in 2020. Additionally, in April 2018, the Missouri General Assembly issued two separate audits of the Missouri State Auditor's Office, which found overall operations are managed professionally and cybersecurity measures are effective.

Public Engagement

Auditor Fitzpatrick is dedicated to helping government officials identify best practices and make lasting improvements for the taxpayers of Missouri. The state auditor and his staff regularly speak to groups and organizations on matters related to audit processes, financial controls and procedures, and the importance of compliance and transparency in state government.

Citizens may contact the auditor's office to provide information for an audit, request information on audit practices and priorities or schedule a speaker for an upcoming event by calling (800) 347-8597 or by emailing moaudit@auditor.mo.gov.

Commitment to Transparency

All audit reports issued by the state auditor and summaries of investigations that do not result in 29.225, RSMo discretionary audits are public documents and available on the auditor's website. Audit reports are available on the state auditor's website and distributed electronically to the public and members of the media. Citizens may sign up to receive email alerts when audit reports are issued by visiting the state auditor's website at auditor.mo.gov.

Vivek Malek

State Treasurer

Elected November 5, 2024

Term expires January 2029

VIVEK MALEK (vih-VAKE MA-lehk) (Republican) was sworn in as Missouri's 48th state treasurer on Jan. 17, 2023, following his appointment by Gov. Mike Parson. He was elected to a full term in November 2024, becoming the first person of color elected to statewide office in Missouri history and the highest-ranking Republican Indian American currently in elected office in the United States.

As treasurer, Malek has focused on what he calls the "Three P's": protecting taxpayer dollars, providing opportunities through state programs, and promoting the promise of America. He led efforts to divest Missouri pension funds from Chinese companies, citing national security and financial risks. His office has expanded access to the MO ABLE and MOST 529 savings programs, increased returns of unclaimed property, and grown the MO BUCK$ program to help farmers and small businesses access low-interest loans.

A first-generation American, Malek came to Missouri in 2001 with $300 and two suitcases. He earned an MBA from Southeast Missouri State University and a Master of Laws from the University of Illinois. Prior to public service, he practiced law in St. Louis, building a successful legal business devoted to helping other legal immigrants achieve their American dreams. His leadership and community service have earned him numerous awards and recognition from the Missouri General Assembly.

Malek and his wife, Riju, live in Wildwood with their three children: Naija, Viraj and Myra.

The state treasurer serves as Missouri's chief banking and investing officer. The state treasurer directs the state's banking services, and oversees Missouri's state investment portfolio. In addition, the state treasurer safeguards over $1 billion of unclaimed property that has been turned over to the state. Moreover, the state treasurer administers multiple programs including the Education Savings Program (MOST 529), the Missouri Empowerment Scholarship Accounts (MO Scholars), the Missouri Achieving a Better Life Experience Program (MO ABLE), and the linked deposit program for small businesses and farmers (MO BUCK$).

Banking and Investments

The state treasurer is custodian of state funds and funds received from the United States government. Upon receipt of state and federal funds, the state treasurer ensures the moneys are deposited in selected banking institutions approved by the governor and the state auditor. Moneys not needed for current expenses are invested through various arrangements as provided by law. The state treasurer prepares, maintains and adheres to a written investment policy which includes an asset allocation plan limiting the total amount of state money which may be invested in each category authorized.

Unclaimed Property

The state treasurer is responsible for safe guarding and returning Missourians' Unclaimed Property. Each year, financial institutions, businesses, government agencies and other organizations turn over millions of dollars in cash and other property to the state treasurer's office. Currently, over $1.5 billion in unclaimed assets are held by the state. Through various efforts, the state treasurer creates public awareness of unclaimed property held by the state and works to return assets held to rightful own-

Education Savings Program (MOST 529)

Established in 1999, the Missouri Education Program (MOST 529) assists Missouri families save for the cost of education and training, K-12 tuition, registered apprenticeships, trade or vocational schools, two to four-year colleges or universities, and graduate school. In addition, these tax-advantaged investment accounts may be used for qualifying expenses such as books, supplies, room and board, and computer equipment. The beneficiary can be changed at any time, provided that the new beneficiary is an eligible family member of the original beneficiary. Missourians are also eligible for a state tax deduction.

Missouri Empowerment Scholarship Accounts (MO Scholars)

In 2021, the Missouri General Assembly established the Missouri Empowerment Scholarship Accounts Program. The MO Scholars program provides options for eligible families to seek and receive alternative educational services to meet their specific educational needs. State tax credits are awarded to individuals and businesses who make eligible contributions to an approved, non-profit Educational Assistance Organizations (EAOs). EAOs provide scholarships for qualifying students participating in the MO Scholars program. Each EAO establishes and maintains relationships with eligible schools where scholarship funds may be used.

Missouri Achieving a Better Life Experience Program (MO ABLE)

In December 2014, the United States Congress passed the Achieving a Better Life Experience (ABLE) Act. With the passage of the federal ABLÉ Act, the Missouri General Assembly in 2015 passed legislation creating the Missouri version of the ABLÉ Act, which is known as MO ABLÉ. Eligible Missourians with disabilities have the opportunity to open an investment account and save money without losing eligibility for other benefits, such as Medicaid or Supplemental Security Income (SSI). Earnings from these accounts are not subject to federal and state income tax when spent on qualified expenses.

Linked-Deposit Loan Program (MOBUCK$)

In 1986, the Missouri General Assembly created the linked-deposit loan program, which is known as MO BUCK$. The State Treasurer's Office deposits funds with an approved borrower's qualified banking institution at a below-market interest rate. Lowering the market rate on deposits permits lenders to pass along a 30 percent interest rate deduction on the borrower's loan. As a result, the MO BUCK$ program provides an economic boost to the Missouri economy. This linked-deposit loan program primarily serves Missouri farmers and ranchers as well as small business owners.

Catherine L. Hanaway

Attorney General

Appointed September 8, 2025

Term expires January 2029

CATHERINE L. HANAWAY (Republican) was sworn in as Missouri's 45th attorney general on Sept. 8, 2025. A seasoned trial lawyer and public servant, she has built her career around one guiding principle: protecting Missouri families.

As attorney general, Hanaway is committed to making the office a force for safety and accountability. Her agenda focuses on fighting crime, protecting consumers, ensuring the vulnerable are safeguarded from fraud and abuse, and defending both the U.S. and Missouri constitutions. She has pledged to pursue justice for victims of violence, root out corruption, and stand against schemes that threaten Missourians' livelihoods. For Hanaway, the mission of the office is straightforward: uphold the laws as written and protect the people of Missouri.

Before taking office, Hanaway led Husch Blackwell LLP, a national law firm headquartered in Kansas City with more than 1,000 attorneys. She was the first woman to serve as chair of the firm, guiding it through record growth while building a reputation for excellence in high-stakes litigation, including cases involving fraud, financial misconduct, and regulatory compliance.

Hanaway previously served as U.S. attorney for the Eastern District of Missouri. She personally tried cases to jury verdicts and helped develop new prosecution strategies in complex health care, fraud, and white-collar crime cases. As the region's chief federal law enforcement officer, she supervised more than 4,000 criminal and civil cases and led a staff of more than 100 attorneys and investigators.

Her career in public service began in the Missouri House of Representatives, where she became the first and only woman elected speaker of the House. In that role, she advanced legislation to strengthen public safety, protect Second Amendment rights, and promote government accountability, establishing her reputation as a defender of Missourians' freedoms.

Hanaway earned a bachelor's degree from Creighton University and a Juris Doctor from the Catholic University of America's Columbus School of Law.

She lives in St. Louis with her husband, Chris, and is the mother of two children, Lucy and John. She has been active in her community through service on civic and professional boards, including as chair of the Regional Business Council and as a member of the St. Louis Regional Crime Commission board.

The Attorney General's Office represents the state's legal position at every level of trial and appellate courts. The Attorney General prosecutes and defends cases to which the state is a party, including every felony criminal case appealed to the Missouri or United States Supreme Courts and state and federal courts of appeal.

The Attorney General is at the forefront of legal and policy decisions in the state of Missouri directing all litigation to which the state or any state agency or official is a party. They serve as a legal advocate for the public interest.

The Attorney General's Office is organized into two divisions: Civil Litigation and Criminal Litigation. Within those two divisions, the office has nine sections: Consumer Protection, Public Protection, Litigation, Employment Litigation, Labor, Criminal Appeals, Financial Services, Governmental Affairs, and the Medicaid Fraud Control Unit.

In addition to representing the state's legal position, the Attorney General's Office plays a role in protecting Missouri consumers, fighting violent crime, combating human trafficking, rooting out fraud by Medicaid providers, and more.

Housed under the office's Public Protection section, the Special Prosecution Unit aids local prosecutors in complex and complicated cases, typically in Missouri's rural counties. Staffed by prosecutors with more than 200 years of experience, the Special Prosecution Unit has worked with prosecutors across the state to handle some of Missouri's most complex and high-profile cases. Also contained in the office's Public Protection section is the Sexually Violent Predator Commitment Unit, which works with the Department of Mental Health to commit sexually violent predators to mental health facilities. Additionally, the Cold Case Unit, works to obtain justice for victims of cold case homicides, no matter the passage of time.

The Consumer Protection section typically handles an average of 100,000 consumer complaints each year, which can range from price gouging to phone scams. The No-Call Under Attorney General Bailey's leadership, the office has recovered millions in restitution for consumers.

The Medicaid Fraud Control Unit works to root out fraud perpetrated by Medicaid providers, and brings legal action where appropriate. Additionally, the Unit investigates claims of abuse and neglect at Medicaid funded facilities. The Medicaid Fraud Control Unit has recovered millions on behalf of taxpayers.

The Attorney General's SAFE Kit Initiative is intended to clear the backlog of untested sexual assault kits across the State of Missouri. Through inventory, shipping and testing, the Office gathers kits from across the state, sends them to the labs to be tested, and works with local law enforcement to investigate potential DNA hits and obtain justice for victims.

The Attorney General's Office also plays a role in defending and protecting Missourians from government overreach in our unique system of federalism, which protects individual liberty. FEDERAL GOVERNMENT

United States Government

Executive Branch

*Donald J. Trump, President of the United States
The White House, 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. N.W.,
Washington, D.C. 20500
www.whitehouse.gov*

The president and the vice president of the United States are elected every four years by a majority of votes cast in the Electoral College. These votes are cast by delegates from each state who traditionally vote in accordance with the majority of the state's voters. States have as many electoral college votes as they have congressional delegates. Missouri has 10 electoral college votes—one for each of the eight U.S. Congress districts and two for the state's two seats in the U.S. Senate.

The president is the chief executive of the United States, with powers to command the armed forces, control foreign policy, grant reprieves and pardons, make certain appointments, execute all laws passed by Congress and present the administration's budget. The president earns $400,000 annually, with an additional allowance of $50,000 for expenses.

The vice president is selected by members of each national political committee and runs on the same ticket for the same term as the president. The vice president assumes the presidency if the president dies or resigns from the office, is incapacitated to the extent that he or she cannot exercise presidential duties for an extended period or is impeached. The vice president presides over the functions of the U.S. Senate and acts as emissary of the president. The vice president earns $235,100 annually.

The tradition of the Cabinet dates back to the beginnings of the presidency itself. Established in Article II, Section 2, of the U.S. Constitution, the Cabinet's role is to advise the president on any subject he or she may require relating to the duties of each member's respective office. It is made up of 15 cabinet members (or secretaries) who have the responsibility to operate each department. Secretaries are appointed by the president and serve at his or her pleasure. Cabinet secretaries earn $221,400 annually.

Legislative Branch

www.house.gov / www.senate.gov

The U.S. Constitution provides for two legislative houses, known as the Congress. The Senate is composed of 100 members; two senators are elected from each state. The House of Representatives is composed of 435 members; the number of representatives is determined based on the population of each state.

Senators must be at least 30 years of age and must be residents of the United States for at least nine years. They also must reside in the state they are elected to represent. Senators serve terms of six years, with one-third of Senate members elected every two years. Senators earn $174,000 annually, plus expenses.

Representatives must be at least 25 years of age and must have been residents of the United States for at least seven years. They also must reside in the state they represent. Representatives serve two-year terms and earn $174,000 annually, plus expenses.

Congress is in session for two years, beginning on January 3 of each year unless another date is specified. The presiding officer of the Senate is the vice president of the United States. The Senate also elects a president pro tem of the Senate to serve in the absence of the vice president. The president pro tem also represents the party in power and earns $193,400. The presiding officer of the House is called the speaker. The speaker traditionally represents the party in majority and earns $223,500.

Judicial Branch

The U.S. Supreme Court heads the nation's judicial branch of government. The Supreme Court is composed of nine justices, appointed for life. Supreme Court justices may only be removed by impeachment and trial by Congress. Justices receive $303,600 annually while the chief justice, who leads the court, earns $317,500.

The Supreme Court concerns itself with national issues or matters concerning the constitutionality of certain laws or findings. Decisions of the court are binding and overrule any other court decision.

There are 94 U.S. District Court districts with federal jurisdiction. Two of these are located in Missouri: the Eastern Missouri District and the Western Missouri District. Eastern District courts are located in St. Louis, Hannibal and Cape Girardeau, and the Western District courts are in Kansas City, St. Joseph, Springfield, Jefferson City and Joplin. Federal charges stemming from both civil and criminal suits generally begin in U.S. District Court. Judges in these courts earn $243,300 annually.

Donald J. Trump

United States President

Elected November 5, 2024
Term expires January 2029

DONALD J. TRUMP (Republican) was elected the 47th president of the United States in a landslide victory in November 2024, returning to the White House after previously serving as the 45th president from 2017 to 2021.

In his first term, President Trump enacted sweeping tax and regulatory reforms, negotiated the United States-Mexico-Canada Agreement, strengthened the military with a $2 trillion investment, and launched the U.S. Space Force. He secured bipartisan criminal justice reform, confirmed three Supreme Court justices, and pursued historic peace efforts in the Middle East. He also prioritized veterans' care, reduced prescription drug prices, and implemented strong border security policies.

A graduate of the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School of Finance, Trump began his career in real estate development, expanding the Trump Organization's brand across New York City and internationally. He gained prominence as a businessman, television personality and author, with The Art of the Deal becoming a best-selling business book.

Trump is the first U.S. president elected without prior political or military office and won re-election in 2024 after a campaign focused on economic growth, national security and government accountability.

President Trump has five children: Donald Jr., Ivanka, Eric, Tiffany and Barron, and 11 grandchildren.

JD Vance

United States Vice President

Elected November 5, 2024
Term expires January 2029

JD VANCE (Republican) was born and raised in Middletown, Ohio, a former manufacturing hub where many working families once thrived on single incomes. As industry declined, his family—like many others—faced economic hardship and instability.

Vance's early life was marked by challenges, including his mother's struggle with addiction and the absence of his father. He was raised largely by his grandparents, who provided stability and support. His grandmother, known as Mamaw, played a central role in his upbringing and instilled in him a strong sense of discipline and resilience.

After graduating from Middletown High School, Vance enlisted in the U.S. Marine Corps and served for four years, including a deployment to Iraq. He used the GI Bill to attend The Ohio State University and later earned a law degree from Yale Law School, where he met his wife, Usha. The couple lives in Cincinnati and has three children: Ewan, Vivek and Veda.

Following law school, Vance worked as a venture capitalist and gained national recognition as the author of the best-selling memoir Hillbilly Elegy, which brought attention to the struggles of working-class Americans in post-industrial communities.

In 2022, Vance was elected to the U.S. Senate from Ohio. His legislative priorities included border security, revitalizing domestic manufacturing, and improving opportunities for working families. In 2024, President Donald J. Trump selected him as the Republican nominee for vice president.

Committees

Committee on Judiciary; Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs; Health, Education, Labor and Pensions; and Small Business and Entrepreneurship.

JOSH HAWLEY (Republican) was raised in rural Missouri and previously served as Missouri's attorney general, where he earned a reputation for taking on powerful interests to protect workers and families. He has challenged big government, big business, special interests and organized crime, advocating for the well-being of Missourians.

A native of Lexington in Lafayette County, Hawley graduated from Rockhurst High School in Kansas City. He earned his undergraduate degree from Stanford University in 2002 and his law degree from Yale Law School in 2006. After law school, he returned to mid-Missouri with his wife, Erin, to raise a family. They have three children: Elijah, Blaise and Abigail.

Hawley is recognized as one of the nation's leading constitutional attorneys. He has argued cases before the U.S. Supreme Court, federal appellate courts and state courts, focusing on defending civil liberties. He served as a lead attorney in the U.S. Supreme Court's Hobby Lobby case, which challenged portions of the Affordable Care Act, and in Hosanna-Tabor, a major decision protecting the rights of religious institutions.

Since taking office in the U.S. Senate, Hawley has championed legislation aimed at supporting working families. He has worked across party lines to advance online protections for children, supported direct relief payments during the COVID-19 pandemic and pushed for stronger accountability among landlords. He has also introduced proposals to protect American jobs from unfair foreign trade practices, particularly with China, and has advocated for reshoring manufacturing to the United States.

Hawley has criticized corporate special interests, targeting what he describes as abuses by Big Tech and Wall Street, while supporting innovation and small businesses. He has also worked to address illegal immigration, opioid abuse and human trafficking—both as attorney general and in the Senate. A vocal defender of constitutional rights, he has consistently supported the First and Second Amendments.

Committee on Armed Services (subcommittee: Cybersecurity; Emerging Threats and Capabilities; Seapower); Committee on Commerce, Science & Transportation (subcommittees: Space and Science, ranking member; Communications, Media and Broadband; Surface Transportation, Maritime, Freight and Ports); Joint Economic Committee.

ERIC SCHMITT (Republican) grew up in Bridgeton, a community in north St. Louis County. A sixth-generation Missourian, he comes from a family of farmers, teachers and small business owners with roots in Tipton, Pilot Grove, Louisiana and St. Louis.

Schmitt graduated from De Smet Jesuit High School and earned his bachelor's degree, cum laude, from Truman State University, where he founded a Habitat for Humanity chapter. He received his law degree from Saint Louis University, where he served as an editor of the Law Review. After graduating, he taught a course on 21st century civics at SLU, driven by a deep appreciation for the U.S. Constitution.

Schmitt and his wife, Jaime, live in Missouri with their three children: Stephen, Sophia and Olivia. Their son Stephen was born with a rare genetic condition and lives with multiple disabilities, including epilepsy and autism. His son's challenges inspired Schmitt to enter public service and advocate for families with special needs. As a state senator, he led a bipartisan effort to expand autism therapy coverage and improve access to critical care.

Schmitt served as Missouri's 46th state treasurer and as attorney general before being elected to the U.S. Senate in 2022. As attorney general, he launched several major initiatives to fight violent crime, including the Safer Streets program and the Cold Case Unit. He also created the SAFE Kit initiative to process backlogged sexual assault kits and worked to address the opioid crisis by expanding treatment resources.

In the Senate, Schmitt has continued to focus on issues that affect working families. He has advocated for energy independence, secure borders and protection of free speech. He also led efforts as attorney general to challenge federal overreach and support domestic energy production. As treasurer, he created a public transparency tool to track state spending and fought to protect taxpayer dollars. In the legislature, he was known for championing major tax cuts and opposing excessive municipal fines.

Now serving in the U.S. Senate, Schmitt continues to push back against what he calls the unchecked power of the administrative state, while working to protect individual freedoms and ensure Missouri's voice is heard in Washington.

She ran as a Republican in the special election to serve out the remainder of the term in the seat held by her late husband, U.S. Rep. Bill Emerson, who died in June 1996. With not enough time for her name to be added to the ballot for the next full term in Congress, Jo Ann Emerson ran for the upcoming term as an Independent. She won both elections and began her congressional service during the 104th Congress, representing Missouri's eighth district starting in November 1996.

²²Jo Ann Emerson resigned and Jason Smith was elected to fill the vacancy.

Historical Note: The election of early Missouri delegates was by general statewide ticket. In 1847, the state was divided into five congressional districts from which representatives were elected. In 1863, the districts were expanded to number nine, and 10 years later in 1873, Missouri was redistricted to allow for 13 congressional districts. By acts approved in 1882 and 1885, Missouri was allowed one additional district and in 1893, the congressional districts numbered 15. Missouri was allowed 16 districts in 1901; these were in place until 1933. In that year, the state was allotted 13 representatives, while the legislature redistricted the state. Those 13 representatives were elected at large (indicated by an asterisk (*) in the listing). The state has been redistricted at various times over the last 40 years, moving from 11 districts in the 1950s, to 10 districts in the 1960s, to nine in the 1980s, to the current number of eight congressional districts in 2011. Because of the redistricting, it may be necessary to check the Revised Statutes of Missouri to determine which Missouri counties were represented by a district during a particular year. Redistricting changes generally occur in the years following the taking of the federal census.

LEGISLATIVE BRANCH

The Missouri General Assembly

Legislative power in Missouri is vested by Article III, Section 1 of the 1945 Constitution in the General Assembly, composed of the Senate and the House of Representatives.

The Senate consists of 34 members elected for four-year terms. Senators from odd-numbered districts are elected in presidential election years. Senators from even-numbered districts are chosen in the midterm elections. Each senator must be at least 30 years of age, and a qualified voter of the state for three years and of the district he or she represents for one year. The lieutenant governor is president and presiding officer of the Senate. In the absence of the lieutenant governor, the president pro tem, elected by the Senate members, presides.

The House of Representatives consists of 163 members, elected at each general election for a two-year term. A representative must be at least 24 years of age, a qualified voter of the state for two years and of the district he or she represents for one year. The House is presided over by the speaker, chosen by the members, and in the absence of the speaker by the speaker pro tem.

Reapportionment of both chambers of the Missouri General Assembly following each decennial U.S. census is provided for by the Missouri Constitution.

Senators and representatives receive a salary of $35,915 per year, a weekly allowance for miles traveled going to and returning from their place of meeting and expenses for each day the General Assembly is in session.

Time of Meeting

The General Assembly convenes annually on the first Wednesday after the first Monday of January. Adjournment is midnight on May 30, with no consideration of bills after 6 p.m. on the first Friday after the second Monday in May. The General Assembly reconvenes on the first Wednesday following the second Monday in September for a period not to exceed 10 calendar days to consider vetoed bills.

A special session of the General Assembly may be called by petition of the General Assembly. If three-fourths of the members of the Senate and three-fourths of the members of the House sign the petition calling for a special session, the president pro tem of the Senate and the speaker of the House shall, by joint proclamation, convene the General Assembly in special session. The petition and proclamation must specifically state the subjects to be considered during the special session, and the signed petition must be filed with the secretary of state.

The General Assembly shall automatically stand adjourned sine die at 6 p.m. on the 30th calendar day after the convening of the special session unless it has adjourned sine die before the 30th day. No appropriation bill shall be considered in the special session if the General Assembly has not passed the operating budget in compliance with Article III, Section 25 of the Missouri Constitution.

The governor may convene the General Assembly in extraordinary session for a maximum of 60 calendar days at any time. Only subjects recommended by the governor in his or her call or a special message may be considered.

Organization of the General Assembly

Following the general election in November of even numbered years, the majority and minority members of each house caucus separately nominate candidates for the offices to be elected by each body and organize their parties for the coming session. Nominees of the majority party and minority party are elected. Each party names its floor leader, assistant floor leader, caucus chair and secretary.

Both houses of the General Assembly convene at noon on the opening day of the session. The Senate is called to order by the lieutenant governor. Temporary officers are named and the roll of new and incumbent senators is read. Newly elected senators are then sworn in, usually by a judge of the Supreme Court. The president pro tem and other permanent officers are then elected and take an oath of office administered by the president of the Senate.

The House of Representatives is called to order by the secretary of state and the oath is administered to all members. After the swearing-in ceremony, a roll call is taken and a temporary speaker is named. He or she presides for the nomination and election of permanent officers. Temporary rules, usually the rules in force for the preceding session, are adopted.

After each house notifies the other that it is duly organized, a House Resolution is adopted, inviting the Senate to a joint meeting to receive the governor's message. Under the Constitution, the governor, at the beginning of each session, delivers a message concerning state government with any recommendations he or she wishes to make for the enactment of legislation. This message is commonly referred to as the State of the State Address.

Each house determines its own rules. Procedures and rules may not be dispensed with, except by unanimous consent or concurrence by a constitutional majority. Both the Senate and House are required to keep a daily journal of their proceedings. At the end of the session, the journals are bound by the House and Senate. The secretary of state's office maintains microform copies of the journals.

Term Limits

In November 1992, the voters approved an amendment to the Missouri Constitution to limit for the first time the amount of total service in the House and Senate to eight years in each. Total legislative service was limited to 16 years. In November 2002 voters approved an additional amendment to allow members elected through a special election, after the effective date, to serve the partial term and two full terms for the Senate and four full terms for the House, through a general election.

How Bills Become Laws

General Provisions

Bills may originate in either house and are designated as Senate Bills or House Bills, depending on the house in which they originate. No bill (except general appropriation bills) may contain more than one subject, which is to be expressed clearly in its title. No bill can be amended in its passage through either house so as to change its original purpose. No bill can be introduced in either house after the 60th legislative day of a session unless consented to by a majority of the elected members of each house. No appropriation bill shall be taken up for consideration after 6 p.m. on the first Friday following the first Monday in May of each year.

Introduction of a Bill

Missouri law provides for pre-introduction of bills beginning December 1 preceding the opening of the assembly session and continuing up to, but not including, the first day of session. Bills filed during the pre-introduction period are automatically introduced and read the first time on the opening day of session.

Bills also may be introduced by any senator or representative during session. Bills may be written by the legislator or by research staff attorneys at the request of a senator or representative. When introduced, a bill is assigned a number and read for the first time by its title. It then goes on the calendar for second reading and assignment to committee by the speaker of the House or the president pro tem of the Senate.

A public hearing before the committee to which a bill is assigned is the next step in the legislative process. Except in the case of unusually controversial, complex or lengthy bills, the bill is presented by its sponsor, and both proponents and opponents are heard in a single hearing. When hearings are concluded, the committee meets to vote and makes its recommendations. The committee may (1) report the bill with the recommendation that it "do pass;" (2) recommend passage with committee amendments, which are attached to the bill; (3) return the bill without recommendation; (4) substitute in lieu of the original bill a new bill to be known as a committee substitute; (5) report the bill with a recommendation that it "do not pass;" or (6) make no report at all.

Perfection of a Bill

If a bill is reported favorably out of committee or a substitute is recommended, it may be placed on the "perfection calendar." When it is brought up for consideration, it is debated on the floor of the originating house. If a substitute is recommended by the committee or if committee amendments are attached to the bill, they are first presented, debated and voted upon. At this point, further amendments can be proposed by other members. When all amendments and substitutes have been considered, a motion is made to declare the bill perfected. Perfection is voted on by a voice vote or, on the request of five members, by roll call. If a majority of members vote to perfect, the bill is reprinted in its original or amended form.

Final Passage of a Bill

After perfection and reprinting, the bill goes on the calendar for third reading and final passage. When the bill is reached in the order of business, any member may speak for or against its passage, but no further amendments can be offered. At the conclusion of debate, a recorded vote is taken. Approval of a constitutional majority of the elected members (18 in the Senate and 82 in the House) is required for final passage.

Passage of the bill is then reported to the other chamber where it is first and second read, referred to committee for hearing, reported by committee, read a third time and offered for final approval. If further amendments or substitutes are approved, these are reported to the originating house with a request that the changes be approved. If the originating house does not approve, a conference may be requested and members from each house are designated as a conference committee. Upon agreement by the conference committee (usually a compromise of differences), each reports to its own house on the committee's recommendation. The originating house acts first on the conference committee version of the bill. If it is approved, it goes to the other house; upon approval there, the bill is declared "truly agreed to and finally passed." If either house rejects the conference committee report, it may be returned to the same or a newly appointed committee for further conferences.

Upon final passage, a bill is ordered enrolled, printed in its final form, and the bills are closely compared and proofed for errors.

Signing of the Bill

Bills truly agreed to and finally passed in their printed form are then signed in open session by the House speaker and Senate president or president pro tem. At the time of signing, any member may file written objections, which are sent with the bill to the governor.

Governor's Part in Lawmaking

The governor has 15 days to act on a bill if it is sent to him during the legislative session and 45 days if the Legislature has adjourned or has recessed for a 30-day period.

If he or she signs a bill, it is returned to its house of origin with a message of approval, then delivered to the Office of the Secretary of State. The bill is delivered directly to the Office of the Secretary of State if the Legislature is not in session.

If the governor vetoes a bill, it is returned to the house of origin with his or her objections. A two-thirds vote by members of both houses is required to override a governor's veto.

If any bill is not returned by the governor within the time limits prescribed by Article III, Section 31 of the Missouri Constitution, it will become law in the same manner as if the governor had signed it.

Effective Date of Laws

The 1945 Constitution provides that no law passed by the General Assembly shall take effect until 90 days after the end of the session in which it was enacted, except an appropriation act or in case of an emergency, which must be expressed in the preamble or in the body of the act. Some bills specify the exact date when they are to take effect.

Duties of the Secretary of State

The secretary of state preserves and the state archives binds and maintains the finally printed and signed copy of the law. The laws are published annually by the Committee on Legislative Research in a volume titled Laws of Missouri.

The general statute laws are revised, digested and promulgated by the revisor of statutes, in the Office of the Committee on Legislative Research. These are known as the Revised Statutes of Missouri. The Committee on Legislative Research also publishes annual supplements to the statutes to include changes in laws since the last revision.

The Joint Committee on Administrative Rules (JCAR) was created in 1975 and is a permanent joint committee of the General Assembly as provided in Chapter 536, RSMo. The Committee is comprised of five members of the Senate and five members of the House. In order to provide continuity in the operation of the committee, the statute authorizing the committee provides the appointment of each member shall continue during his or her term of office as a member of the General Assembly.

The Senate members are appointed by the president pro tem of the Senate, while the representatives are appointed by the House speaker. No more than three members from each chamber may be of the same political party.

Under state law, the Joint Committee on Administrative Rules is to continuously monitor and review both proposed and existing rules promulgated by the various executive branch departments and divisions of state government. Citizens or interested organizations who have concerns about rules issued by state agencies can contact the committee with their concerns. In its review the committee is authorized to hold public hearings and review rules in question. Actions taken by the committee on rules and regulations of state agencies must be ratified by the full General Assembly through a concurrent resolution, which then must be signed by the governor. The goal of the Committee on Administrative Rules is to ensure a state agency does not exceed its statutory authority and that the agencies effectively accomplish their missions as mandated by the statutes.

Members are: Senators Coleman, Schroer, Trent, Washington, Webber. Representatives Clemens, Dolan, Doll, Keathley, Overcast.

The division prepares approximately 3,000 fiscal notes during a regular legislative session.

The Oversight Division is authorized to perform management and program evaluations of state agencies and is assigned work pursuant to a duly adopted concurrent resolution of the General Assembly or a resolution adopted by the Committee on Legislative Research. The division conducts the evaluations in accordance with government auditing standards set forth by the U.S. Government Accountability Office. The management and program evaluations of the division provide the General Assembly with important information regarding the status of programs they have created and the expenditure of funds they have authorized.

In 2003, the Oversight Division was authorized to perform sunset reviews of any new program enacted into law. Each new program that is enacted will have a sunset date period of not more than six years. A program may be reauthorized for a period of up to 12 years. CHAPTER 5

Missouri's Judicial System

From its inception in 1820, Missouri state government constitutionally has been divided into three separate branches—legislative, executive and judicial. The judicial branch's function is not to make the laws of the state or to administer them but to adjudicate the controversies that arise between persons and parties, to determine fairly and justly the guilt or innocence of persons charged with criminal offenses and to interpret the laws of the state as enacted by the legislature and carried out by the executive branch.

The roots of Missouri's judicial branch reach back to the days when Missouri was a part of the Missouri Territory controlled by the French and Spanish. When Missouri officially was organized as a territory in 1812, the judicial power was vested in a superior court, inferior courts and justices of the peace. The Constitution of 1820, the state's first constitution, placed the judicial power in a Supreme Court, chancery courts (later abolished by the General Assembly) and circuit and other courts to be established by the legislature.

Today, Missouri has a three-tier court system. Article V of the constitution, as amended by Missouri voters in 1976, vests the judicial power in a Supreme Court, the state's highest court, with statewide jurisdiction; in a court of appeals consisting of districts established by the General Assembly; and in a system of circuit courts with original jurisdiction over all cases and matters, civil and criminal.

Effective Jan. 2, 1979, the circuit court system absorbed all former courts of limited jurisdiction and became the state's single trial court. Cases once heard in magistrate and probate courts, in the St. Louis Court of Criminal Corrections, in the Hannibal and Cape Girardeau courts of common pleas, and in municipal and other local courts, now are heard in appropriate divisions of the circuit courts.

All the judges of these former courts have become either circuit, associate circuit or municipal judges. They may hear and determine different classes of cases within their respective circuits. A presiding judge, elected by the other judges in the circuit, has general administrative authority over all judicial personnel in the circuit. He or she may assign other judges throughout the circuit to relieve caseload and administrative backlogs. The Supreme Court and court of appeals have general superintending control over all courts and tribunals within their jurisdictions. Original remedial writs may be issued and determined at each level of the court system. Decisions of the Supreme Court are controlling in all other state courts.

Selection of Judges

In the first 30 years of Missouri's statehood, the judges of the supreme, circuit and chancery courts were appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate. After much public discussion, the constitution was amended in 1850 to provide for the popular election of judges, and this system remains in effect for most Missouri courts today. In most circuits, the judges are elected by the voters in partisan elections.

In 1940, Missouri voters amended the constitution by adopting the "Nonpartisan Selection of Judges Court Plan," which was placed on the ballot by initiative petition and which provides for the nonpartisan (non-political) appointment of certain judges based on merit, rather than having them popularly elected.

As originally adopted into the constitution, the Nonpartisan Court Plan applies in the Supreme Court, the court of appeals and the circuit courts within the City of St. Louis and Jackson County. In addition, voters in Clay, Greene, Platte and St. Louis counties have elected to institute the plan, and the Kansas City charter extends a nonpartisan selection plan to Kansas City municipal court judges. While all other judges are elected in partisan elections, other judicial circuits may adopt the plan on approval by a majority of the voters in the circuit.

Under the Missouri Plan, as it often is called nationally, a vacancy on a court to which the plan applies is filled through a nonpartisan judicial commission of lay persons and lawyers. The commission selects three persons from those who apply, based on merit. The governor then appoints one of the three. A judge appointed in this way must stand for retention in office at the first general election occurring after the judge has been in office for 12 months. The judge's name is placed on a separate judicial ballot, without political party designation, and the voters must vote either for or against retention in office. The judge's name again is placed on the ballot for a retention vote at certain intervals if the judge wishes to serve subsequent terms. The Missouri Plan has served as a national model for the selection of judges and has been adopted by a number of other states.

Every supreme, appellate, circuit and associate circuit court judge must be licensed to practice law in Missouri. By constitutional amendment and statute, all judges must retire by age 70.

History and Organization

The Supreme Court has been the state's highest court since 1820, when the first Missouri Constitution was adopted. The earliest court, consisting of only three members, was required to hold sessions in four different judicial circuits in the state. At various times, the court sat in Boonville, Bowling Green, Fayette, Jackson, Jefferson City, Lexington, Palmyra, Potosi, St. Charles, St. Joseph and St. Louis.

Voters increased the size of the Supreme Court to five judges in 1872 and to its present size—seven judges—in 1890. Because of the court's increasing caseload, commissioners were appointed for a brief period in the 1880s. In 1911, the legislature authorized the court to appoint four commissioners, and in 1919, increased the number authorized to six. The commissioners were required to possess the same qualifications as judges of the Supreme Court. They received the same compensation and were appointed for four-year terms. The commissioners heard cases along with the judges, and their written opinions, if approved by the court, were issued as opinions of the court.

Under the 1970 constitutional amendment of article V, the offices of the commissioners ceased to exist when the individuals holding the offices retired, resigned, died or were removed from office. The last retired in 1982.

In 1890, voters approved the Supreme Court to divide into two divisions so it could handle and decide more cases in a shorter time. Under the present constitution, the court may sit en banc (all seven judges together) or in as many divisions as the court determines are needed. Today, cases are assigned to and decided by the court en banc.

Supreme Court Jurisdiction

Originally, the Supreme Court had only the traditional powers to decide cases on appeal from the lower courts (either the circuit courts or the court of appeals) and to issue and determine original remedial writs, such as those in habeas corpus, mandamus and prohibition.

The constitutional amendments of 1976 and 1982 defined the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court more narrowly than in the past, resulting in it receiving fewer cases on appeal and directing more appeals to the court of appeals. Now the Supreme Court has exclusive appellate jurisdiction in all cases involving: the validity of a treaty or statute of the United States or of a statute or provision of the Missouri Constitution, the interpretation of the state's revenue laws, a statewide elected official's right to hold office, state legislative redistricting plans, and the death penalty.

Cases do not have to fall within this area of exclusive jurisdiction, however, to reach the Supreme Court. The court may order cases transferred to it from the court of appeals if the cases involve questions of general interest or importance, if the court believes the existing law should be re-examined, or for other reasons provided by rule of the court. The court of appeals also may transfer a case to the Supreme Court either by order of the court of appeals itself or by the dissent of a court of appeals judge, if that judge certifies the court of appeals opinion is contrary to previous decisions of the Supreme Court or of other districts of the court of appeals.

In addition to its decision-making powers, the Supreme Court supervises all lower courts in the state. It is assisted in this task by its state courts administrator's office, established in 1970. The Constitution of 1945 also authorized the court to establish rules for practice and procedure in the courts and to make temporary transfers of judicial personnel from court to court. Each year, the Supreme Court transfers several hundred judicial personnel on a temporary basis to assist other courts. This usually is done when the parties in a case have disqualified a judge, a judge is ill or otherwise unavailable, or the circuit court requests assistance to handle its cases expeditiously. The Supreme Court also licenses all lawyers practicing in Missouri and disciplines those found to have violated the legal rules of professional conduct.

Qualifications and Terms

Supreme Court judges must be at least 30 years of age, licensed to practice law in Missouri, U.S. citizens for 15 years and qualified Missouri voters for nine years. Supreme Court judges are retained for 12-year terms. They earn $209,484 annually. Compensation is determined by state constitution (article XIII, section 3 of the Missouri Constitution).

Chief Justice

The seven judges of the Supreme Court select one of their members to be chief justice and preside over the court. The chief justice also handles many of the administrative details for the court. The present practice of the court is to rotate the position of chief justice every two years. The chief justice earns $219,075 annually. Compensation is determined by state constitution (article XIII, section 3 of the Missouri Constitution).

The court hears oral arguments each month, typically from September through May. Court sessions are open to the public, the oral arguments are streamed live, and video and audio files of the arguments are archived through the Missouri Courts website, www.courts.mo.gov.

Supreme Court Building

The Supreme Court Building, a three-story, red brick structure of French Renaissance architecture, was completed in 1907 and stands opposite the Capitol Building. By statute, it houses the attorney general's offices as well as those of the Supreme Court. The building's main features include a massive marble staircase in the lobby and the two-story high state law library.

Clerk's Office

The clerk of the Supreme Court is responsible for a wide range of duties, including the supervision of the state courts administrator's office as well as the internal administrative function of the court itself.

The court's day-to-day administrative duties include handling all inquiries and procedural requests from attorneys throughout the state, arranging the docketing (scheduling) of cases, maintaining files in each case before the court, receiving and disposing of fees related to those cases and distributing opinions of the court. In all of these matters, the clerk reports directly to the chief justice.

The clerk of the Supreme Court has a number of additional duties relating to The Missouri Bar and supervising the admission of new attorneys.

Among the records required to be maintained by the clerk are the official and permanent roll of attorneys for the State of Missouri. The clerk's office also prepares, on request, certificates evidencing admission to The Missouri Bar. By Supreme Court rule, the clerk is treasurer of the state board of law examiners, which conducts bar examinations twice yearly. The clerk also supervises the court's semiannual enrollment ceremonies and prepares all attorney licenses.

By Supreme Court rule, the clerk is ex officio member of all court committees, ex officio treasurer of both The Missouri Bar and the advisory committee, and is responsible for collecting the annual attorney enrollment fee and distributing Missouri Bar membership cards to all attorneys licensed to practice in Missouri. She is responsible for maintaining the official records of The Missouri Bar; the bar fund and for preparing annual financial reports for publication in the Journal of The Missouri Bar. The clerk is also responsible for conducting annual elections for The Missouri Bar Board of Governors.

Missouri Court of Appeals

The 1875 constitution created the first of our modern intermediate appellate courts — the St. Louis Court of Appeals, consisting of three judges who heard appeals from Lincoln, St. Charles, St. Louis and Warren counties. This court was created at the urging of the St. Louis Bar Association, which had become alarmed at the congested docket of the Supreme Court. Its territorial jurisdiction was expanded in 1884 to include several more counties.

Another constitutional amendment in 1884 established the Kansas City Court of Appeals and authorized creation of another appellate court, when necessary, by the General Assembly.

The Springfield Court of Appeals was organized in 1909. Missouri's current appellate structure—a single court of appeals consisting of three geographic districts—was established by a 1970 constitutional amendment.

The Eastern District of the Court of Appeals sits in St. Louis and consists of 14 judges. Eleven judges preside over the Western District in Kansas City, and seven judges sit on the Southern District, which regularly meets in Springfield or Poplar Bluff. Trained law clerks, who are licensed attorneys, assist each appellate judge with legal research.

The Missouri Court of Appeals may issue and determine original remedial writs and has general appellate jurisdiction in all cases not within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Supreme Court. Cases not within the Supreme Court's exclusive jurisdiction, however, may be transferred from the Court of Appeals to the Supreme Court when it is determined that a case involves a split among the districts of the Court of Appeals or an important issue that should be decided by the state's highest court.

A chief judge is elected for each district of the Missouri Court of Appeals by the judges in the districts and serves for such time as the districts determine. Traditionally, the chief judge in the Eastern District serves for one year, while the chief judges in the Southern and Western districts serve for two years.

The districts are authorized to sit in divisions of three judges if they choose, which all three districts have elected to do.

Missouri Court of Appeals judges must be at least 30 years of age, licensed to practice law in Missouri, residents of their district, U.S. citizens for 15 years and qualified Missouri voters for nine years before their selection. Appeals judges serve 12-year terms. They earn $180,018 annually. Compensation is determined by state constitution (article XIII, section 3 of the Missouri Constitution).

Missouri Circuit Courts

Missouri's first two circuit courts were established in 1815. The 1820 Constitution provided for the creation of four circuits, each containing from four to eight counties. The number of circuits has increased over the years; today, 46 circuits operate in Missouri.

The first circuit judges were appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate. The life term of the judges and their method of appointment proved unpopular, however; in 1850, the constitution was amended to provide for popular election. Most circuit judges are elected today, though judges in six circuits—Clay, Greene, Jackson, Platte and St. Louis counties and the City of St. Louis—are selected under provisions of the Missouri Nonpartisan Court Plan.

Constitutional amendments approved by Missouri voters in 1976 provide that the circuit courts shall be courts of original civil and criminal jurisdiction. All trials start at this level. Former courts of limited jurisdiction became divisions of the circuit court effective Jan. 2, 1979.

Within the divisions of the circuit court, there are three levels of jurisdiction: circuit, associate and municipal. Circuit judges may act within all circuit jurisdictions.

The number of circuit judges is determined by the General Assembly. The constitution requires at least one circuit judge in each of Missouri's 46 judicial circuits. There are currently 151 circuit judges.

Associate circuit judges may hear matters pending in the circuit court or assigned by the Supreme Court. Associate circuit judges hear all cases pursuant to Chapter 517, RSMo, and have concurrent jurisdiction over all cases pending in the circuit court.

The constitution requires at least one resident associate circuit judge in each county. The statutes authorize additional associate circuit judges depending on county populations. Presently, there are 205 associate circuit judges.

Municipalities with 400,000 or more people must establish a municipal division over which a municipal judge presides. Communities of fewer than 400,000 people may establish municipal divisions to hear ordinance violations, or the municipality may request that these matters be heard in the associate division of the circuit court. Municipal judges are paid locally.

By statute, each circuit judge appoints a court reporter, and each circuit court appoints a juvenile officer. A circuit clerk in each county is selected according to law, and salaries are set by statute.

Circuit court judges must be at least 30 years old, residents of their circuit, licensed to practice law in Missouri, U.S. citizens for 10 years and Missouri voters for three years. Circuit judges serve six-year terms. Associate circuit judges must be at least 25 years old, Missouri voters and residents of the counties they serve and licensed to practice law in Missouri. Associate circuit judges serve four-year terms.

Circuit judges each earn $180,602 annually; associate circuit judges earn $166,154 annually. Compensation is determined by state constitution (article XIII, section 3 of the Missouri Constitution).

Judicial Organizations

Commission on Retirement, Removal and Discipline

Post Office Box 1529, Jefferson City 65102
Telephone: (573) 966-2007
CRRD@courts.mo.gov

The Commission on Retirement, Removal and Discipline of Judges was created by a constitutional amendment in 1970. It began operating Jan. 1, 1972, and is governed by Supreme Court Rule 12.

The commission is responsible for receiving and investigating all requests and suggestions for the retirement of judges because of disability and all complaints concerning the alleged misconduct of judges and members of judicial commissions. It is composed of six members who serve six-year terms. Two non-lawyers are appointed by the governor, two lawyers are appointed by The Missouri Bar's governing body, one court of appeals judge is selected by court of appeals judges and one circuit judge is selected by the state's circuit judges.

The members are: Hon. Gary M. Gaertner Jr., chair, appellate judge, Missouri Court of Appeals, Eastern District, St. Louis; Eddy A. Justice, lay member, Poplar Bluff; Hon. Laura J. Johnson, circuit judge, 38th Judicial Circuit (Christian County); Rebecca L. Leonard, attorney, Lee's Summit; Angel M. Woodruff, attorney, Cape Girardeau and Vacancy (lay member).

On receiving a complaint against a judge or member of a judicial commission, the commission conducts an investigation. If at least four members of the commission find there is probable cause to believe the person may be guilty of misconduct, incompetency or other action constituting grounds for discipline as listed in Rule 12.08, a formal hearing is conducted. If at least four members find the person investigated should be disciplined, a report containing findings of fact and conclusions of law is made to the Supreme Court with recommendations for discipline (removal from office, suspension or reprimand). The court then makes a final ruling based on the commission's record and transcript.

A similar procedure is followed in cases involving retirements because of disability.

To protect the public from persons unqualified or unauthorized to practice law, the Supreme Court of Missouri has established an attorney discipline system. The Supreme Court appoints a chief disciplinary counsel to investigate allegations of professional misconduct, incompetence and incapacity of lawyers. The Court also has established an Advisory Committee, which oversees the disciplinary hearing process. Complaints filed against attorneys are reviewed by the Office of Chief Disciplinary Counsel. Regional disciplinary committees located in Kansas City, Springfield and St. Louis—composed of at least four lawyers and two nonlawyers—also may investigate complaints referred to them by the chief disciplinary counsel or the Advisory Committee.

If the chief disciplinary counsel or a regional disciplinary committee finds there is sufficient probable cause to believe a lawyer is guilty of professional misconduct, they may issue a written admonition to the attorney or file information making specific allegations of the lawyer's violations of the Rules of Professional Conduct. The lawyer may request a hearing to be held by a disciplinary hearing panel composed of two lawyers and one nonlawyer, all of whom are appointed as disciplinary hearing officers by the Supreme Court. If the disciplinary hearing panel finds, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the lawyer is guilty of misconduct, it may issue an admonition or may make recommended findings of fact, conclusions of law and recommendations for discipline, which then are filed in the Supreme Court. It is the Supreme Court's responsibility to impose discipline. If a lawyer who has been suspended or disbarred later seeks reinstatement, the chief disciplinary counsel investigates the application. The chief disciplinary counsel also investigates the unauthorized practice of law and takes appropriate action to stop such practices. The chief disciplinary counsel is Laura Elsbury.

In addition to providing oversight of the disciplinary hearing process, the Advisory Committee, upon request of the complainant, reviews complaint files that have been closed after investigation and makes a determination as to whether additional investigation is needed. It also may issue formal ethics opinions, interpreting Supreme Court Rules 4, 5 and 6. Members of the Advisory Committee, appointed by the Supreme Court are: Jill A. Kanatzar, chair, Kansas City; David Ansley, Springfield; John Jay Benson, Kirksville; Gary D. Collins, Jefferson City; Ann Phillips Corrigan, St. Louis; Keith A. Cutler, Kansas City; Sue Kroeger, St. Louis; Levell D. Littleton, Clayton; Joan K. Miller, St. Louis; Dan R. Nelson, Springfield; Jane A. Rackers, Jefferson City; and Kirby Upjohn, Kansas City.

The legal ethics counsel, who serves as staff and counsel to the Advisory Committee, may give nonbinding informal advisory opinions, interpreting Supreme Court Rules 4, 5 and 6 to members of the bar. The legal ethics counsel is Melinda Bentley.

Established by rule of the Supreme Court of Missouri in 1944, The Missouri Bar is the official organization of all Missouri lawyers. Its executive director is Mischa Buford Epps.

Administrative

The Missouri Bar's Minimum Continuing Legal Education (MCLE) department administers Supreme Court Rule 15 regarding continuing legal education. Per the Supreme Court of Missouri rule, The Missouri Bar administers the accreditation of education programs, activities, and sponsors as well as the annual reporting of all licensed lawyers in the state concerning each lawyer's compliance with Rule 15 continuing legal education requirements.

Education

The Missouri Bar's Continuing Legal Education Department (MoBarCLE) presents a number of programs—in person, virtually and pre-recorded—to keep lawyers abreast of changes in state and federal laws. These sessions are regularly accompanied by detailed course materials designed to supplement the programs. In addition, the department's renowned deskbook series, supplements and guidebooks provide lawyers with valuable reference materials they can make use of in their own law libraries.

Publications/Public Information

Also available to members are the Legislative Digest, published during and after each year's session of the General Assembly; ESQ., a weekly email with information about law-related events and news; and The Courts Bulletin, a monthly update on recent decisions in pertinent areas of the law.

For more than 50 years, The Missouri Bar has conducted a broad program of public information and education. Thousands of informative resource guides, legal forms and other educational materials about the law are distributed annually, including comprehensive lesson plans for teachers across Missouri. Legal guides, podcasts and other public-directed programming and materials are available at mobar.org. The growth of the bar's public information programs has been aided by cooperative ventures with the Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education, the Missouri Press Association, the Missouri Broadcasters Association, various law schools and other groups and associations.

Other Activities

Other prominent programs and services offered by The Missouri Bar include: a client security fund that considers partial financial reimbursement to eligible clients who have been harmed by the unethical conduct of a lawyer; an online LawyerSearch tool to connect lawyers with Missourians in need of legal assistance; a lawyers' assistance program that offers help to lawyers facing substance use or mental health issues; a complaint resolution program that offers an alternative to the formal lawyer disciplinary system for matters considered to be less serious in nature; a fee-dispute resolution program that works to resolve disputes between a lawyer and a client over fees charged for services; and many more.

Judicial Conference of Missouri

 PO Box 150, Jefferson City 65102
 Telephone: (573) 751-4144*

In 1943, the General Assembly established the Judicial Conference of Missouri, which is composed of all state judges. The conference is charged by statute (Section 476.350, RSMo) with studying the organization and administration of the state's judicial system, compiling data about the work of various courts and making biennial reports to the General Assembly, including any recommendations the conference may have for improving the laws. Since 1974, the chief justice of the Supreme Court, who is the conference's presiding officer, has presented an annual State of the Judiciary address to a joint session of the General Assembly, reviewing the problems, needs and goals of the judicial branch.

The statute also requires the conference to hold an annual meeting to be attended by all judges. At this meeting, the judges discuss the problems of court administration and invite experts in various fields to speak about matters of particular concern.

The clerk of the Supreme Court provides administrative and staff assistance and also serves as secretary to the executive council and the conference.

Nonpartisan Judicial Nominating Commissions

Under provisions of Article V of the Missouri Constitution, any vacancy occurring in the office of judge of the Supreme Court, the court of appeals or the circuit courts within St. Louis City or

Jackson County is filled through the "Nonpartisan Selection of Judges Court Plan," adopted through initiative petition at the November 1940 general election, which provides for the governor to appoint one of three qualified persons nominated by a nonpartisan judicial commission. This method of selecting judges was adopted by the voters of the 21st Judicial Circuit (St. Louis County) in 1970; by the voters of the Sixth Judicial Circuit (Platte County) and the Seventh Judicial Circuit (Clay County) in 1973 and by the voters of the 31st Judicial Circuit (Greene County) in November 2008.

Under the Missouri Plan, as it often is called nationally, a vacancy on a court to which the plan applies is filled in the following way: A nonpartisan judicial commission of lay persons, lawyers and a judge selects three persons from those who apply, based on merit. The governor appoints one of the three. A judge appointed in this way must stand for retention in office at the first general election occurring after the judge has been in office for 12 months. The judge's name is placed on a separate judicial ballot, without political party designation and the voters must vote either for or against retention in office. The judge's name again is placed on the ballot for a retention vote at certain intervals if the judge wishes to serve subsequent terms. The Missouri Plan has served as a national model for the selection of judges and has been adopted by a number of other states.

Appellate Judicial Commission

Nominations for judges of the Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals are made by a seven-member Appellate Judicial Commission. It consists of a judge of the Supreme Court selected by the members of the Court and two resident citizens from each of the three court of appeals districts. One lawyer is elected from each district by members of The Missouri Bar residing in that district and one non-lawyer is appointed from each district by the governor. The judge member serves a two-year term, while the other members serve staggered terms of six years each.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENTS

Executive Departments

Government exists to serve, and a broad network of government organizations has been created to accomplish the purpose. The Missouri Constitution (Article II, Section 1) states: "The powers of government shall be divided into three distinct departments—the legislative, executive and judicial." This section also prohibits persons within each branch from exercising powers of the other branches. From these three branches spring the variety of organizations which deliver services of state government.

The many different names used by these groups—departments, divisions, agencies, boards, commissions, bureaus, units, sections, programs and others—can make it difficult to determine which area of government is responsible for certain services, and sorting out responsibilities or relationships within the governmental framework.

It is through the executive branch that the greatest proportion of state services are delivered. The Constitution (Article IV, Section 12) and the Reorganization Act of 1974 have established a number of "executive departments" to deal with specific areas of interest. A chart showing the present state departments is shown on the following page.

The Missouri Constitution provides for 17 specific departments: the Office of Administration and the departments of Agriculture, Commerce and Insurance, Conservation, Corrections, Economic Development, Elementary and Secondary Education, Health and Senior Services, Higher Education and Workforce Development, Labor and Industrial Relations, Mental Health, Missouri National Guard, Natural Resources, Public Safety, Revenue, Social Services and Transportation.

Within each executive department exists a variety of offices of varying size and scope which deal with specific services. Traditionally, "divisions" are the next-largest organizations within departments and function to bring together smaller-sized groups, such as "bureaus," "sections" or "units." Divisions may be governed by a "board" or "commission" composed of members who are either appointed by the governor, made members by law or appointed by a department official. State agencies may administer certain sections of state law as defined by the Revised Statutes of Missouri, may develop their own rules and regulations as promulgated in the Missouri Register and Code of State Regulations or may institute programs and policies which address the needs of their areas of service.

Generally speaking, the legislative and judicial branches rely on committees or other small, appointed groups to perform research, develop policy, provide advocacy services or handle administrative duties. In these two branches services are delivered through the offices of the elected officials themselves and not by related agencies.

The Missouri Constitution

Since achieving statehood and joining the union on August 10, 1821, Missouri has operated under four Constitutions. The first was adopted in 1820 and was presented to Congress before Missouri was allowed to enter the union of states. The state's second Constitution, born in the bitterness and strife of the Civil War, was drafted and adopted in 1865. It was replaced by a third Constitution only ten years later, in 1875. Missourians approved their current Constitution in 1945, and it has been amended a number of times in order to meet the changing needs of our state and its people.

The Constitution of the State of Missouri is published by the Office of Secretary of State pursuant to the Revised Statutes of Missouri (RSMo 2.110). Copies of the Missouri Constitution, which also includes the text of the U.S. Constitution, are available without charge by contacting:

The Governor's Council on Disability (GCD) serves as the voice and advocate in state policy-making for the nearly 1 million Missourians living with disabilities. The GCD educates people with disabilities about their rights and responsibilities; increases employment opportunities for job seekers with disabilities; and expands access to equal and full participation for all individuals with disabilities in their communities at the local, state and federal levels. The GCD also provides leadership programming for youth with disabilities.

In 1947, President Harry S Truman issued an executive order establishing the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped. This federal agency was created to assist disabled World War II veterans with re-entry into the civilian workforce. Following President Truman's lead, Missouri established the Governor's Committee in 1949. In 1977, the committee became a state agency under the Department of Labor and Industrial Relations, and in 1994, the General Assembly renamed this agency the Governor's Council on Disability. The GCD was transferred by executive order in 2004 from the Department of Labor and Industrial Relations to the Office of Administration. The GCD consists of 21 council members, including the chair and one member from each state congressional district, as well as the executive director. The majority of the GCD is composed of people with disabilities representing various disability groups. Family members of people with disabilities, persons who represent other disability related groups and additional advocates fill the remaining positions.

The governor appoints the chair with the advice and consent of the Senate. The governor also appoints the 20 members-at-large. The GCD meets at least quarterly to act as an advisory body to its staff and to discuss and address current issues affecting persons with disabilities in Missouri.

In the administration of its duties, the GCD also offers assistance to state departments, divisions and branches of government to comply with all laws regarding persons with disabilities. To further that goal, the director of each state department designates at least one employee to act as a liaison with the council. The assistance offered includes educational programming and consultation on the rights of persons with disabilities.

The Administrative Hearing Commission (AHC) is an executive branch agency that decides disputes, usually between a state agency and a business or individual, after a trial-type hearing. Its decisions are subject to review by judicial branch courts, if a party wishes to appeal.

By law, the AHC has jurisdiction over many types of disputes. Chief among them are disputes involving the director of the Department of Revenue's tax decisions; professional licensing decisions of many boards of the Department of Commerce & Insurance; the Department of Social Services' decisions on payments to Medicaid service providers; and due-process complaints under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act. On average, the AHC manages approximately 2,000 cases per year. The AHC currently consists of five commissioners, appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate, who serve six-year terms.

Promoting and Protecting Missouri Agriculture

Established in 1933 by the General Assembly, the Department of Agriculture promotes and protects Missouri's $93.7 billion agriculture and agri-business industry. The department also enforces state laws that regulate and market the agricultural industry.

The department's divisions include Agriculture Business Development, Animal Health, Grain Inspection and Warehousing, Plant Industries and Weights, Measures and Consumer Protection. The department also houses the Missouri Agricultural and Small Business Development Authority, the Missouri State Fair, the State Milk Board and the Missouri Wine and Grape Board.

Office of the Director

The Missouri Department of Agriculture is managed by a director who is appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate. The director determines department policy, oversees the department's five divisions and serves as a liaison to the governor, state legislators, the agriculture community and the public.

The director is a standing member of the State Milk Board, the State Fair Commission, the Missouri Soil and Water Districts Commission, the Missouri Development Finance Board, the Missouri Petroleum Storage Tank Insurance Fund, the Missouri Agricultural and Small Business Development Authority and the Wine and Grape Board.

Agriculture Business Development Division

The Agriculture Business Development Division creates opportunities for success for Missouri's farmers and agribusinesses. Division staff help facilitate growth in Missouri's agribusinesses by providing business counseling and information and training on a sector-by-sector basis.

Areas of specialization include capitalization, business planning, marketing, industry development, product and brand development and organizational structures. The division also helps facilitate growth in Missouri's agriculture-based industries by working with key players such as universities, associations, private sector partners and federal and state agencies.

Missouri Grown

Missouri Grown, formerly known as AgriMissouri, is a branded program designed to grow the production of and demand for agricultural products grown and made in Missouri. The program works with farmers, agribusinesses and retail outlets statewide to increase consumer recognition of Missouri's agricultural products in the marketplace.

International and Business Development Programs

The International and Business Development Programs focus on both domestic and international marketing. Department specialists work with specific industry representatives or groups to es-establish marketing opportunities and promote Missouri commodities at home and abroad. Through one-on-one assistance to producers interested in marketing, production and processing their commodities in new ways, the marketing personnel enhance farm profitability in Missouri through innovations in technology, marketing and promotion of value-added agriculture. With an international office in Taiwan, international marketing specialists are able to work worldwide to promote and sell Missouri agriculture products.

The division's staff also works with Missouri youth, encouraging them to pursue agricultural degrees and careers through the Missouri Agribusiness Academy, Building Our American Communities grants and working with state FFA Chapters and 4-H Clubs.

Farmers' Markets/Specialty Crops

Consumers can purchase high-quality and fresh products at more than 200 farmers' markets across Missouri. To increase awareness for Missouri markets, this program works one-on-one with farmers' markets to ensure safe and abundant fresh products. Farmers marketing fresh products require knowledge of food safety, manufacturing, distribution and general market and business regulations. This program assists both markets and growers in efforts to increase the production, consumption and sales of specialty crops.

Market News

Market News provides an unbiased, reliable, accurate and timely source for livestock and grain market news to remain competitive and assist them in making wise and profitable marketing decisions. It also guides producers in production planning and provides a more even playing field in the marketplace. Market News staff report prices from 25 livestock auctions and 31 grain markets in Missouri. Daily market figures are published online and through the Weekly Market Summary.

Animal Health Division

The Division of Animal Health, under the direction of the state veterinarian, promotes and protects Missouri's diverse and dynamic livestock industry. The assistance and oversight provided by the division's programs ensures greater market access for Missouri's livestock and companion animal industries.

Animal agriculture accounts for about one-half of Missouri's annual agriculture cash receipts. The division administers laws and programs designed to control and eradicate livestock disease and maintain and enhance the integrity of the state's animal industries. This includes both mandatory and voluntary regulatory programs for beef and dairy cattle, horses, swine, poultry, sheep, goats, and exotic and companion animals.

The state's progress in national disease control and eradication is due to the cooperative efforts of livestock producers, markets, practicing veterinarians, other agencies and division staff. Through these efforts, Missouri has achieved Bovine Tuberculosis and Brucellosis Free status, Swine Pseudorabies stage V status and Avian Pullorum-Typhoid Clean status. In addition, the division operates two state-of-the-art diagnostic laboratories, located in Jefferson City and Springfield.

Emergency Preparedness and Response

The Animal Health Division works to safeguard the livestock industry and the public against the threat of bioterrorist attacks. The Missouri Department of Agriculture has an ongoing awareness training program designed to help get information to those who need it most. The division works with USDA, SEMA, the Department of Health and Senior Services and regional emergency response committees in the event of a natural disaster.

Animal Care Facilities

The Animal Care Facilities Act (ACFA) became law to ensure dogs and cats under the care of breeders, dealers, animal shelters, rescue operations and municipal pounds, receive adequate health care, shelter and proper socialization. The ACFA law, designed to benefit both the animals and the pet industry, requires any animal shelters, pounds or dog pounds, boarding kennels, commercial kennels, contract kennels, pet shops, exhibition facilities, dealers and commercial breeders be licensed and inspected annually.

Branding Cattle

Branding is one of the oldest and best ways to permanently identify livestock. It serves as an excellent safeguard against livestock theft, loss or dispute. Legislation passed in 1971 made the Department of Agriculture responsible for registering livestock brands. Brands must be recorded as required by Missouri's Marks and Brands of Animals Law to prove ownership and be considered legal evidence in a court of law.

Livestock Markets and Dealers

Missouri has a livestock inventory of more than 2 million cattle, 3.75 million hogs and pigs and 75,000 goats. To help livestock producers obtain the maximum return on their investment, Missouri is fortunate to have a number of livestock market/sales throughout the state. To operate a livestock market/sale in the state, the operator must have a license issued by the Division of Animal Health. This license shall entitle the applicant to conduct business for one calendar year, January through December. All livestock markets must be licensed and provide a satisfactory bond (with a minimum bond amount of $10,000), determined by business volume. Missouri Livestock Dealer Registration is required for those who buy, sell or exchange livestock.

Missouri Meat and Poultry Inspection Program

The Missouri Meat and Poultry Inspection Program is dedicated to ensuring that the commercial supply of meat and poultry products within the state are safe, wholesome, accurately labeled and secure, as required by state/federal meat and poultry inspection laws. By providing inspection service and guidance to Missouri processors, the program continues to endorse the mission of the Missouri Department of Agriculture — to serve, promote and protect the agricultural producers, processors and consumers of Missouri's food, fuel and fiber products. In cooperation with USDA-Food Safety Inspection Service (FSIS), the Missouri Meat and Poultry Inspection Program (MMPIP) offers equal inspection authority and service within the state of Missouri. As a result, any meat processed under MMPIP inspection and sold within the state of Missouri is offered the same privileges and exemptions as USDA inspected meat products.

Grain Inspection and Warehousing Division

Agriculture is the top economic driver in the state of Missouri and the state's grain industry annually generates more than $6 billion in economic activity. The Grain Inspection and Warehousing Division is comprised of several programs that collectively promote and protect commerce in the interest of grain producers, merchandisers, warehousemen, processors and consumers.

Commodity Services Program

The Commodity Services Program provides commodity councils with an organized procedure for collection and distribution of commodity checkoff funds for eight Missouri commodities (beef, corn, soybeans, rice, sheep and wool, wine, aquaculture and apples). The program is also responsible for conducting seven annual merchandising council elections.

Grain Inspection Services Program

The Grain Inspection Services Program is designated to officially inspect, grade and weigh all grains that have standards established under the United States Grain Standards. The program provides four primary services: official sampling to take a representative sample of grain from a particular lot; official inspection to determine and certify the type, class, quality or condition of grain; weighing certification to supervise the loading, unloading and weighing of grain containers; and chemical analysis to determine the protein or oil content of grain and the existence of mycotoxins in grain.

Services are provided at inspection offices in Marshall, New Madrid and St. Joseph. The program is self-supporting and operates entirely on fees charged for inspection services performed.

Grain Regulatory Services Program

The Grain Regulatory Services Program protects the public interest by auditing grain warehouses and grain dealers to determine grain obligations and financial solvency. The program enforces the Missouri Grain Warehouse Law and the Missouri Grain Dealer Law, so producers are assured of storing or merchandising their grain with licensed, bonded, reputable and financially stable grain businesses. The program annually licenses approximately 150 warehouses and 350 grain dealers, and conducts more than 800 audits and investigations.

Plant Industries Division

The Plant Industries Division comprises four programs, which together administer state and federal laws. These laws facilitate agricultural production and marketing, and provide consumer and environmental protection for Missouri citizens by regulating animal feeds and seeds; providing necessary certifications for interstate and international shipment of agricultural and forest products; ensuring plant pest protection for crops and forests; inspecting for conformance to USDA grades for fresh fruits and vegetables; and regulating the use of pesticides.

Feed and Seed Program

The Feed and Seed Program regulates the manufacturing and sale of commercial feed including pet food, agricultural and vegetable seed and treated timber products. Samples of commercial feed, seed and treated timber are analyzed at the state laboratory for truth in labeling, the presence of adulteration and seed quality. The program cooperates with the FDA to provide Bovine Spongiform Encephalopathy (BSE) prevention as well as Good Manufacturing Practices (GMP) inspections of feed manufacturers. These inspections ensure animal feed and the human food supply are safe.

Pesticide Control Program

The Pesticide Control Program regulates the sale and use of pesticides and administers applicator training and license examinations in conjunction with the University of Missouri Extension Service.

Pesticide Control also conducts pesticide investigations, works with other agencies on endangered species protection, water quality and worker protection and inspects applicator use records, dealer sales records, certification credentials and applicator training records.

Inspecting pesticide sales at wholesale, retail and producer levels is also the responsibility of the Pesticide Control Program.

Plant Pest Control Program

The Plant Pest Control Program works to prevent the introduction and spread of harmful plant pests and facilitates interstate and international trade of Missouri plant products. The program inspects and certifies nursery stock and assists nurseries with identifying pest management strategies. Plant Pest Control certifies millions of dollars of Missouri grown plant products for export. Its plant diagnostic lab supports export certification work and provides diagnostic services to certified Missouri nurseries.

Plant Pest Control implements surveys for invasive plant pests that threaten Missouri's agricultural, forest and natural resources including spongy moth and thousand cankers disease of walnut. The program administers the Missouri Apiculture Law which provides inspection and certification services to Missouri beekeepers to facilitate interstate movement of honey bees.

Produce Safety Program

The Produce Safety Program reduces the incidence of foodborne illness by ensuring that growers meet FDA Produce Safety Rule standards. The program assists growers by providing information and reviewing production practices. Following the phase-in period, the program will also conduct federally required inspections of farms that are covered by the rule.

Weights, Measures and Consumer Protection Division

As the chief consumer protection agency in the state, the Weights, Measures and Consumer Protection Division maintains surveillance of commercial weighing and measuring devices. The division promotes uniformity in laws, regulations and standards to achieve equity between buyers and sellers. Sales of products and services impacted by weights and measure laws represent more than 50% of U.S. gross national product, totaling over $4.5 trillion.

The Missouri Weights, Measures and Consumer Protection programs are operated in accordance with the National Institute of Standards and Technology. The division is also a member of the National Conference on Weights and Measures, ASTM International and the National Fire Protection Association.

Land Survey Program

The division's Land Survey Program provides information and resources for the accurate location of all private and public boundaries in Missouri. The program is responsible for the restoration and preservation of the original corner monuments established by the General Land Office for the U.S. Public Land Survey System.

The division also maintains a records storage and retrieval system for all land survey records and geodetic data.

Device and Commodity Inspection Program

As required by Missouri statutes, device and commodity field personnel inspect large and small scales; grain hopper scales; taxicab meters; devices that measure time, fabric and grain moisture; milk for quantity determination; pre-packaged merchandise; and method of sale of commodities. The program enforces the Missouri Egg Law and the Missouri Unfair Milk Sales Practices Law.

Petroleum/Propane/Anhydrous Ammonia Program

The program combines a variety of services. Under the program, petroleum dispensers, petroleum terminal meters and metered fuel delivery trucks are tested for accuracy. Service station pumps are also inspected for accuracy and safety. Metered propane delivery trucks are checked, and the storage and handling of anhydrous ammonia are monitored for safety.

Metrology Program

The metrology program conducts tests, calibrates and certifies field standards for state agencies and private institutions. The state metrologist is the official keeper of Missouri's primary standards of mass, volume and length.

Fuel Quality Program

Fuel samples are collected by field personnel and submitted for testing. The petroleum laboratory analyzes gasoline, kerosene, heating oils and diesel fuel to ensure they meet state quality and safety standards.

The Department of Commerce and Insurance regulates the consumer service industries in Missouri by encouraging a fair and open market; establishing coherent and evolving policies that balance the interests of consumers, professionals and industry; and enforcing state laws and regulations governing business to protect consumers from unfair and inequitable treatment. The department is largely funded through fees and assessments from the industries and professionals regulated by the department.

Office of the Director

The director's office includes the department director, deputy director, general counsel, chief counsel, legislative director, communications, and support teams. The director's office also includes receivership activities. When a judge orders an insurance company into receivership, the director is responsible for either rehabilitating the company or liquidating it.

Division of Consumer Affairs

The Division of Consumer Affairs assists the general public in resolving complaints against insurance companies and agents. The division also provides educational information to consumers regarding insurance topics. This division is active in state disaster response efforts and takes an active role in affected community outreach post disaster. Consumers can contact the Insurance Consumer Hotline at (800) 726-7390 and file complaints by visiting the department's website, insurance.mo.gov, which has a broad array of consumer and industry information available.

In 2024, the division responded to 3,838 complaints, 4,968 inquiries, 35,500,784 phone calls and emails, opened 601 agent investigations and recovered $22.6 million for consumers. They

The division also investigates unlicensed insurance activities and reviews license applications referred from the Insurance Regulatory Services Section. Department investigations may result in license denials, revocations or suspensions, cease and desist orders, injunctions, and referrals for criminal prosecution.

Division of Insurance Company Regulation

The Division of Insurance Company Regulation monitors the financial condition of insurance companies operating in Missouri.

The division works to identify financially troubled companies so that action may be taken to prevent insolvencies. The division conducts financial examinations of 232 domestic insurance companies at least every five years. The department director can call for an examination of a licensed insurer at any time. Between onsite examinations, the financial condition of insurers is monitored through ongoing financial analysis. In addition to licensing and regulation of commercial insurers, the division also licenses and regulates captive insurance companies, which are formalized self-insurance programs that provide risk management benefits for the owner, which is also the insured. Captive insurers paid $2.6 million in taxes in 2024. The division reviews various annual tax filings of licensed insurers generating $405.5 million in premium taxes in 2024. In addition, policies placed with surplus lines insurers in the non-admitted market are reviewed by the division and are taxed at a rate of five percent of premium. Surplus lines tax collections for 2024 totaled $79.9 million.

Division of Insurance Market Regulation

The Division of Insurance Market Regulation protects Missouri consumers by examining and investigating insurance company practices for compliance with state law. Most insurance policies and rates must be filed with the division so they can be reviewed for compliance with state law.

Policies and rates are filed with the Insurance Product Filings Section.

In 2024, this section received over 7,600 insurance filings.

The division's Market Conduct Section examines and investigates insurance companies' past treatment of policyholders through a review of their marketing, rates and claims handling. If vi-

The Office of the Public Counsel is Missouri's consumer advocate in the area of utility regulation, and represents the concerns of ratepayers across the state. The Office of the Public Counsel

(OPC) was established in 1974 as an independent agency to represent the interests of utility customers in proceedings before and appeals from the Missouri Public Service Commission (PSC) and the courts. The Office of the Public Counsel advocates for safe and adequate utility services at just and reasonable rates. While the OPC represents the concerns of all ratepayers, OPC focuses its representation on residential and small-business customers to provide an essential voice for these consumers. The public counsel is an attorney licensed to practice in Missouri appointed by the director of the Department of Commerce and Insurance. The office consists of attorneys, technical experts and administrative staff. These experts offer the OPC's testimony on the reasonableness, feasibility and affordability of utility proposals and practices. The office also consults and works with other public utility consumer advocates in the other states to keep current on issues vital to the consumer and to address national and regional issues of interest to Missouri consumers. In addition, through the property rights ombudsman, the Office of the Public Counsel provides assistance to citizens seeking guidance about condemnation process and procedures.

The Missouri Public Service Commission is charged with the statutory responsibility of ensuring public utility consumers receive safe and adequate services at just and reasonable rates that will provide the utility companies' shareholders the opportunity to earn a reasonable return on their investment.

The commission consists of five commissioners who are appointed by the governor to six-year terms with the advice and consent of the Missouri Senate. The terms are staggered so no more than two terms expire in any one year. The governor designates one member as chair, who serves in that capacity at the pleasure of the governor.

The commission regulates utility rates, service and safety for investor-owned electric, natural gas, sewer, steam and water companies. The commission also monitors the construction and setup of manufactured homes to ensure compliance with state and federal law. While the rates charged by rural electric cooperatives and municipally owned utilities are determined by their respective governing bodies, the commission has jurisdiction regarding matters of safety over the electric cooperatives and municipal electric and natural gas systems. The commission has limited authority over telecommunications services. The commission also oversees service territory issues involving investor-owned electric utilities, rural electric cooperatives and municipally owned electric utilities, as well as those involving privately owned water and sewer utilities and public water supply districts.

The commission has a staff of professional accountants, engineers, economists, attorneys, financial analysis auditors and research/data analysts who evaluate utility requests for commission approval. These requests deal with matters such as tariff changes regarding rates and business operations, financing proposals, business reorganizations, asset transfers and mergers. The staff will provide the results of its evaluation to the commission and recommend actions that satisfy the agency's statutory requirements.

The staff conducts routine and special investigations to ensure compliance with commission statutes, rules and orders, including standards for safety and quality of service. Staff will initiate or implement actions to enforce these laws when necessary. Enforcement actions for injunctive relief or monetary penalties are pursued in state court by the commission's general counsel.

The traditional rate case is the process through which the commission ultimately determines what customers will pay for their utility services. The traditional rate case process is commenced in one of two ways: a utility company files a tariff for authority to change its rates; or a complaint is filed by the commission, the PSC staff, the Office of the Public Counsel or others challenging the reasonableness of the utility's rates.

The general public is formally represented before the commission by the Office of the Public Counsel, which is a separate state agency under the Missouri Department of Commerce and Insurance.

Under both the tariff method and the complaint case method, the commission normally will conduct hearings for the purpose of addressing the reasonableness of the proposed tariff or the rates being challenged. In many tariff filing cases, by law, the commission has up to 11 months from the time a tariff is filed to reach its decision, or the rates will go into effect as filed. Many of these cases are resolved in accord with a settlement between the parties and processed in a shorter time frame.

Special rules apply for water and sewer companies with less than 8,000 customers; natural gas companies serving up to 10,000 customers and steam utilities that serve 100 or fewer customers in Missouri. They can pursue changes in rates without the necessity of filing a formal rate case through a staff-assisted rate case procedure. Companies with more than the specified number of customers are subject to traditional rate case procedures.

In rate cases, the commission staff conducts an independent investigation of the company's books and records to provide the commission with a recommendation as to what increase or decrease, if any, should be ordered. This investigation normally lasts several months and results in the pre-filing of written testimony. Other parties such as the Office of the Public Counsel, consumer groups, commercial and industrial interests and municipalities are given an opportunity to provide written testimony.

In addition to holding formal evidentiary hearings, the commission may hold local public hearings, which allow customers to express their views on the proposed increase or the utility's service.

Once the formal hearings are completed, the commission reviews the evidence submitted, deliberates and then issues a decision. That decision is subject to court appeal.

The commission is also engaged in a variety of activities reflecting changes in state and federal law regarding the telecommunications and energy sectors of the utility industry. As federal regulators make decisions that directly affect Missouri utility consumers, the commission participates in proceedings before the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) and the Federal Communications Commission (FCC). Commissioners and staff members have submitted comments or testified on numerous occasions before these agencies, and the commission has taken appeals from decisions adverse to Missouri ratepayers to the federal courts.

Regular meetings of the commission are each week. As with other state agencies, commission meetings are subject to the state's open meetings law.

The Data Center keeps a record of all filings and proceedings of the commission. These records are available for public inspection from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, except legal holidays. Many of these records are also available via the commission's website (psc.mo.gov).

A consumer with questions about specific matters relating to utility service should first call the utility company. If the consumer is not satisfied with the company response, he or she may call the commission's consumer services department and initiate an informal complaint. Consumers may also file formal, written complaints. The commission's main consumer services office is located in Jefferson City. The commission's toll free hotline number for complaints is (800) 392-4211.

Under the commission's procedure, most informal complaints are assigned a consumer services specialist who acts as an intermediary between the consumer and the utility in an attempt to resolve the complaint. Technical complaints are usually referred to the Industry Analysis Division. Through investigations of consumer complaints, the consumer services department works to ensure that utilities comply with their approved tariffs and commission regulations.

The Missouri Public Service Commission was established in 1913 by the 47th General Assembly. The 1974 State Reorganization Act placed the commission within the Department of Consumer Affairs, Regulation and Licensing, which in 1984 was re-named the Department of Economic Development. In accordance with Executive Order 19-02 and Reorganization Plan No. 2 of 2019, the commission is now under the Missouri Department of Commerce and Insurance, formerly the Department of Insurance, Financial Institutions & Professional Registration.

2901 W. Truman Blvd., Jefferson City 65109
 Telephone: (573) 751-4115 / FAX: (573) 751-4467
mdc.mo.gov

The Missouri Department of Conservation (MDC), authorized in 1937 by an initiative process and statewide vote to amend the Missouri Constitution, was created by public demand for better management of the state's fish, forest and wildlife resources. The head of the department is a (4)-member commission appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate. They serve with no compensation for staggered six-year terms. The commission is charged with the control, management, restoration, conservation and regulation of the bird, fish, game, forestry, and all wildlife resources of the state.

The commission appoints a director who serves as the administrative officer of the Department of Conservation. The director appoints other employees. Deputy directors, general counsel, assistants to the director, and internal auditor are responsible to the director and facilitate administration of the department. Programs and activities are carried out by the divisions of Business & Operations, Engagement, and Resource Management.

The department's principal sources of revenue are receipts from the sale of hunting and fishing permits and the one-eighth of one percent conservation sales tax. The conservation sales tax was approved as a constitutional amendment through a citizen initiative process and statewide vote in 1976. Funds are also received, primarily on a matching basis, from federal aid provisions of the Wildlife Restoration, Sport Fish Restoration, and Cooperative Forestry Assistance Acts. The department receives no state general revenue funds.

The department's mission is to protect and manage the fish, forest and wildlife resources of the state; and to facilitate and provide opportunities for all citizens to use, enjoy and learn about these resources. The vision is to be a forward-looking agency, implementing solid core values that ensure integrity and trust; using adaptive learning and creative thinking; embracing technology and providing superior public service. The department seeks to be the national leader in fish, forest and wildlife management, proactively advancing its mission through understanding natural resources and social landscapes.

The mission and vision are accomplished using a set of values that includes: excellent public service; believing all citizens are important; providing open communication; offering opportunities for Missourians to partner; ensuring fairness, objectivity, sound science, integrity and accountability to guide actions; and appreciating that employees are the department's most important asset. The department works to advance conservation by being results-driven, working as a team, serving as ambassadors for conservation and living out the conservation ethic through actions.

The department carries out its programs and activities through the following major administrative branches:

Business & Operations includes the following branches: Conservation Business Services, Human Resources, Information Technology and Infrastructure Management. These branches are responsible for management of the department's financial, staff, fleet, equipment and information technology resources, including administering human resource activities intended to attract and retain a diversified, dynamic workforce; providing direction and management of the department's information technology assets, including computer hardware and software systems, telephone, other telecommunication systems and coordination of those systems with other state agencies; providing engineering, architectural, surveying, and construction/maintenance services and infrastructure asset tracking and planning; collecting and processing all revenues received; processing accounts payable; coordinating procurement; and administering all recreational and commercial licenses offered by the department.

Engagement includes the Communications, Community & Private Land Conservation, Relinquency, Education Branches, and the Governmental Affairs. These branches and sections are responsible for the department's public information efforts, educational programs and facilities, interagency coordination, volunteer programs and publications. These efforts include offering educational programs; operating nature centers, visitor centers and shooting ranges; developing interpretive exhibits; administering the hunter education program; teaching outdoor skills; providing conservation education curricula, training and materials to teachers; producing the department's magazines, books and other publications; creating and maintaining MDC's website, digital media, audio and video productions; issuing news releases and coordinating with news media; providing strategic guidance on citizen engagement; developing volunteer and partnership programs; assisting with environmental and regulatory issues; governmental affairs at the county, state and federal level; and providing interagency coordination with various federal, state and non-governmental interest groups.

Resource Management includes the following branches: Statewide Resource Management, Regional Resource Management, Science and Protection. These branches are responsible for resource management, restoration and protection, as well as research, in order to conserve Missouri's fish, forest and wildlife resources. These efforts include guiding strategic planning of conservation priorities; maintaining conservation areas for public use; developing and implementing a Comprehensive Conservation Strategy; implementing statewide and regional programs and services; guiding strategic budget development related to resource management; leading development of regulations, policies, and procedures to effectively manage Missouri's fish, forest and wildlife resources; directing activities to further public recreation, appreciation, and use of fish, forest and wildlife resources; and encouraging compliance with the Wildlife Code of Missouri through enforcement and education.

mits, federal reimbursement, timber sales, publications and surplus property), and deposits in the state treasury for department programs. The Operational Excellence Section provides the foundation for effective and efficient department operations and the use of data to make informed decisions. The section oversees strategic and operational planning, customer experience, employee engagement and continuous improvement. The director also supervises the general counsel, internal auditor, and assistant to the director for operational excellence.

Regional Offices

The department has eight administrative regions, with a regional office in each region. Regional offices are in Columbia, Lee's Summit, St. Joseph, Kirksville, West Plains, St. Charles, Cape Girardeau and Springfield. The department also provides public contact offices, nature centers, visitor centers, staffed shooting ranges, and interpretive centers to assist Missourians and to provide close-to-home opportunities for them to participate in conservation programs and services.

The other units are responsible for: management, operation and purchasing of the department's fleet; management of aircraft operations; inventory control; repair and disposition of vehicles, marine and other mechanical equipment; the distribution and sales of hunting and fishing permits; and purchasing services.

Information Technology Branch

The Information Technology Branch provides strategies and expertise to effectively and securely design and implement technology-based assets and solutions that strategically enable the department's mission. This includes providing ongoing management, maintenance and support of the department's technology assets and solutions inclusive of all computer hardware and software systems, telephone and other telecommunication systems, two-way radio systems, cellular and mobile systems, cybersecurity systems, applications and other database systems, GIS systems, analytics and reporting systems, and the coordination of those systems with other state agencies and technology vendors.

Infrastructure Management Branch

The Infrastructure Management Branch provides design, land surveying, construction management, quality control, and asset management services to develop and implement the department's capital plan by designing, constructing and managing infrastructure to sustain conservation services and help all citizens connect with nature. Infrastructure and capital improvement projects include boat accesses, docks, roads, parking areas, office and storage buildings, fish hatcheries, fishing lakes and ponds, nature centers, shooting ranges, trails, wetlands and other projects. The branch provides engineering and architectural designs that apply sound engineering principles to the design of conservation projects and public-use facilities that are in harmony with the environment and enhance the enjoyment of Missouri's natural resources.

Human Resources Branch

The Human Resources Branch provides services that help the department attract and retain a diverse and dynamic workforce, including recruitment and selection; administering salary and fringe benefits programs; overseeing a comprehensive group life, medical, accidental death and dismemberment, and dependent life insurance program; maintaining official employee documents and records through a human resources information system; and managing a safety program, including worker's compensation. The branch also monitors compliance with employment practices relating to affirmative action, Americans with Disabilities Act and drug testing; provides employee training and development programs; administers employee assistance and wellness activities; and assists with disciplinary and grievance processes. A workforce council implements programs to increase the department's efforts to experience the benefits of a diverse workforce.

Communications Branch Chief

Communications Branch

The Communications Branch strives to keep conservation relevant in the hearts and homes of Missourians, including sharing the positive effects of the outdoors for our overall health, quality of life and economic vitality. These communications efforts keep people up to date on conservation and how to connect to nature, including where to fish, hunt, hike, birdwatch and discover nature around the state. The branch coordinates digital efforts, magazines, marketing, media and news, natural resources communications and publications for MDC.

Since 1938, the Missouri Conservationist magazine has been connecting people to nature each month with a current circulation of 462,987. Xplor magazine, which inspires kids to explore nature and is published every other month, strives to foster a new generation of passionate, informed, conservation-minded constituents. MDC continues to use technology as a tool to connect people to nature, including its website, mobile applications, social media and podcast. MDC's website, www.mdc.mo.gov, has 7.9 million unique visitors annually, with popular pages such as "Places to Go" to discover nature on MDC areas, the online "Field Guide" to identify Missouri plants and animals, and the hunting and fishing "Species A-Z" pages to help identify game species. MDC mobile applications—MO Outdoors, MO Fishing and MO Hunting—allow users to find nature near them and buy permits, view regulations and check-in harvests on the go. MDC also launched a new podcast, Nature Boost, in spring 2020 to connect more youth and young adults to nature through audio learning.

Through many free and for-sale MDC publications, Missourians can also learn about identifying animals, upcoming natural events, cooking wild game, and learning how to fish and hunt. Nature centers across the state sell books, calendars, and other nature items in their nature shops. These items can also be purchased through the online Nature Shop.

Education Branch

The Education Branch works to educate Missourians of all ages and to make conservation education a priority in schools, programs and MDC facilities. MDC has nature and education centers in Blue Springs, Kansas City, Jefferson City, Kirkwood, Springfield, Cape Girardeau, Joplin and Winona, and visitor centers in Taney, St. Charles, and St. Louis counties that offer unique nature exploration programs. Children and their families can explore the interactive exhibits, attend in-person educational programs and hike the trails around the facility at no cost. Education staff statewide offer in-person and virtual programs on many outdoor topics, these programs are offered to the public at no cost as well.

The branch develops and makes available conservation education curriculum through its Discover Nature Schools program, which helps students get outside to experience hands-on learning in nature close to home. Instructional units by grade level are provided at no cost to teachers and school districts to meet testing needs and are combined with MDC grants for field trips and instructional materials. The branch delivers conservation education to public, private, parochial schools and colleges, as well as youth leaders and community leaders. The team also has responsibility for the Discover Nature—Fishing program, which is a series of free fishing classes, to help Missourians gain the skills and confidence to go fishing on their own.

The branch teaches Missourians outdoor skills to enjoy the outdoors safely and responsibly through hands-on classes and virtual programs on hunting, fishing and archery. The Missouri National Archery in the Schools Program (MoNASP) is coordinated by MDC, along with support from the Missouri Conservation Federation and Missouri Conservation Heritage Foundation, and helps students learn and compete in archery. MoNASP is currently in more than 800 schools in Missouri. In addition, the branch coordinates a team of volunteers to provide hunter education training in-person and online, which is mandatory for all persons born on or after Jan. 1, 1967, as a prerequisite to purchase hunting permits. Shooting ranges also provide hunters and outdoor enthusiasts a safe place to practice and develop outdoor skills. MDC manages six staffed shooting ranges and outdoor education centers, and more than 70 unstaffed firearm and archery ranges to provide opportunities to safely practice firearm and archery skills.

Relevancy Branch

The Relevancy Branch addresses today's ever-growing challenges to conservation — from changing uses of fish, forest, wildlife and their habitats, to pollution of our waters, the spread of invasive species, and loss of habitat — by facilitating and providing opportunities for all citizens to use, enjoy, and learn about Missouri's natural resources.

Staff within the branch are focused on community engagement strategies through citizen science, new recreational opportunities at the state's 1,000+ conservation areas, development of messaging specific to key audiences, and facilitation of partnerships that will engage and empower a broader constituency involved in nature. Specific programs within the branch include the Missouri Stream Team, which engages more than 700 active stream teams throughout the state in maintaining Missouri waterways, and the newly formed Recreational Use Program, which encourages people to get outdoors on MDC and partner lands to help all Missourians connect with nature and gain a better understanding of conservation. The branch also provides statewide coordination for the department's volunteer program and annual Missouri Conservation Partners Roundtable.

Community & Private Land Conservation Branch

The focus of the Community and Private Land Conservation Branch is connecting people with nature where they live and helping landowners and communities meet their goals while enhancing fish, forest and wildlife conservation. This is accomplished by providing superior customer service and support to our partners and field staff across the state and through collaboration with other department branches.

The health of Missouri's fish, forest, and wildlife resources depends on the stewardship of Missouri landowners. Private landowners own approximately 93% of the land in Missouri. The branch works collaboratively with other branches to help Missouri landowners achieve their land use objectives in ways that enhance fish, forest and wildlife conservation. Through voluntary participation, the branch promotes the wise use of fish, forest, wildlife, and natural communities by providing information, financial assistance and partnerships.

Assistance is also provided to communities, including urban developers, homeowners, city and county planners, local governments, and others to encourage development and management that enhances native fish, forest, and wildlife diversity in developed areas, as well as in areas under development. The branch works to connect people with nature and raise awareness of the benefits provided by healthy fish, forest and wildlife resources. Planning and technical financial assistance are all tools utilized for helping incorporate nature into communities.

Partnerships help expand the conservation footprint in Missouri. The branch develops partnerships with communities, state and federal agencies, commodity groups, agribusinesses and conservation organizations. Partnerships with the Natural Resources Conservation Service and Farm Service Agency integrate fish, forest, and wildlife considerations into the implementation of Farm Bill programs. To complement funding available through federal programs, the department offers cost-share to landowners for implementation of select natural resource management practices.

Protection Branch

The Protection Branch is responsible for enforcement of the Wildlife Code of Missouri and related statutes on both private and public lands. Uniformed conservation agents are assigned to each county in Missouri and represent the department in a wide variety of programs.

Agents are licensed as peace officers to enforce all state laws on lands owned, managed, or leased by the department. Agents are also commissioned by the U.S. Department of the Interior to enforce federal fish and wildlife laws. Agents administer hunter education programs in their local area and provide conservation information and education through newspaper articles, adult and youth meetings, exhibits, clinics, radio and television programs and other media. The branch helps to provide basic information on fish, forest, and wildlife management, assists with landowner assistance programs and conducts surveys and special field studies. Agents are the primary contact for landowners with poaching or trespassing problems and are often contacted about nuisance wildlife issues.

The branch works with the Conservation Federation of Missouri to administer the Operation Game Thief, Operation Forest Arson and Share the Harvest programs. Operation Game Thief provides an avenue for concerned citizens to report poaching through a centralized toll free hotline: (800) 392-1111. Rewards for information leading to the arrest of violators are available. Since the inception of this program in 1982, over 8,700 arrests have been made with information supplied by concerned citizens. This program has proven to be an effective means of public awareness and involvement in protecting the natural resources of Missouri.

Share the Harvest, a program where hunters donate deer meat to those less fortunate through established charitable organizations, has received over 6 million pounds of deer meat for Missouri citizens. Hunters who donate their entire deer receive a reduction in the price of processing, which is paid to the processor by the Missouri Conservation Federation, a private citizen's organization. In some cases, local organizations provide additional funds for processing so there is no cost to hunters who wish to donate deer.

Science Branch

The Science Branch provides the science-based information needed to conserve, appreciate, and effectively manage Missouri's natural resources and strives for sustaining a future with healthy ecosystems through innovative scientific solutions and services. Science Branch is organized around systems and functions in the context of priority species and landscapes and delivers research and management assistance statewide and in collaboration with numerous state and federal partners. Aquatic and terrestrial systems are represented by Sections and Units that focus research and monitoring on protection and restoration of priority species, species communities, and associated multi-scale habitat relationships and system ecological functions; maintaining sustainable populations of game and plant species; expertise in conservation applications of biometrics, technology, and social science information to support natural resource decisions and training; and a Conservation Health Section with a specific focus on ecosystem health and integrated data operating in a OneHealth framework to blend ecological and wildlife health emphasis areas.

Regional Resource Management Branch

The Regional Resource Management Branch provides on-the-ground field implementation of department programs through high-quality, multi-disciplinary resource management of public lands and through assistance provided on private lands and in communities that strengthens local accountability, decision-making and planning while ensuring statewide oversight, strategic direction, framework, guidelines and support.

While many regional activities fall nicely under the heading of the four units, staff work collaboratively across units to ensure highest priorities are completed in a timely manner. The Regional Resource Management Branch also leads numerous other department efforts at the regional level that transcend unit specializations. For example, regions take an active/lead role in the regional implementation of the elimination of feral hogs, managing chronic wasting disease in deer, regional planning, reporting and controlling wildfire.

The Regional Resource Management Branch also includes a few staff that operate at the statewide level and focus on statewide programs. The branch is responsible for the Salem Sign Shop that fabricates the signage needed on our conservation areas and office facilities. The branch manages the County Aid Road Trust program, which provides financial assistance to counties in exchange for maintaining gravel county roads that lead to and through conservation areas.

Statewide Resource Management Branch

The Statewide Resource Management Branch includes the Fisheries, Forestry, Wildlife and Natural Resources Planning sections. This branch implements the mission of MDC and the Design for the Future Strategic Plan by providing science-based statewide oversight, strategic direction, guidelines, and support to multidisciplinary resource management teams serving as discipline advisors working with national, state, and local partners for the management of public and private land and water. The Statewide Resource Management Branch provides exemplary customer service through an integrated, balanced approach that strengthens the OneMDC concept, team decision-making and planning, while ensuring accomplishments of statewide outcome measures and consistent implementation of conservation programing for all citizens.

Fisheries Section

The Fisheries Section provides guidance on managing aquatic systems for the benefit of all aquatic species. Fisheries management is the science, art, and business of creating, managing, and conserving fisheries and associated aquatic species resources in a sustainable manner to meet desired goals, needs and values. The section directs and administers fisheries programs, develops and refines regulations, works on the acquisition and development of public fishing and boat access areas, administers the Community Assistance Program and Corporate and Agency Partnership Program, administers federal aid grants, coordinates angler recognition programs, and develops and revises technical and popular written materials.

The Fisheries Section oversees the operation of the department's hatchery program. The four warmwater hatcheries (Chesapeake, Blind Pony, Lost Valley and Hunnewell) rear and coordinate the stocking of about 5.4 million fish annually in public waters, suitable private lakes, and waters used for special fishing events and aquatic education. Methods are also developed for rearing endangered species. The five cold-water hatch-ies (Bennett Spring, Maramec Spring, Montauk, Roaring River and Shepherd of the Hills) rear and coordinate the stocking of about 1.5 million trout annually in public waters.

Forestry Section

The Forestry Section provides oversight of the management and protection of the state's forest resources, ensuring we have healthy and sustainable forest and woodland communities on both public and private land. Forestry programs assist forest industries with practices designed to: ensure healthy and sustainable forests; ensure the proper management and sustainability of public forest lands; and improve rural fire protection throughout the state. The forestry section also provides training for loggers to encourage the sustainable harvest of Missouri's forests.

The section collaborates with Regional Resource Management Branch on the management of more than 600,000 acres of public forest land. Forest management benefits include biodiversity, watershed protection, wildlife habitat, forest products and recreational opportunities. To encourage forest and wildlife plantings, 2 million seedlings of more than 70 different tree and shrub species are produced at the George O. White State Forest Nursery each year to fill requests from Missourians. Every fourth-grade student in the state receives an Arbor Day seedling produced at the nursery.

In addition, the section assists more than 700 volunteer rural fire departments to suppress approximately 2,300 wildfires annually. Technical assistance, training, and federal excess equipment are available at no cost to cooperating rural fire departments. Grants, supported in part by the U.S. Forest Service (USFS), are available to rural fire departments on a competitive basis. A rural forest fire equipment center is located in Lebanon. The center acquires and distributes federal excess property to rural fire departments for use in fire-suppression activities. "Operation Forest Arson" is a program to combat the high number of arson-caused wildfires. This program is combined with the Smokey Bear wildfire prevention campaign to educate school children.

Natural Resources Planning Section

The Natural Resources Planning Section serves the Department by leading areas of planning and coordination of landscape conservation, natural community restoration, natural areas, invasive species, technical resource management training, area planning standardization, and assistance with developing management guidelines/standards and measurable outcomes. The unit serves as a catalyst to bring together the expertise required and guide the processes to develop the appropriate strategies and training to provide direction, measure success, define guidelines for standardization, and audit to ensure that implementation at local levels is effective and adhere to established principles. To accomplish this, section staff work extensively with staff in other branches and regions in both development of strategies, guidelines and measures, and in implementation, training, and conducting of any audits to ensure that the processes and products remain aligned and pertinent with staff and resources they serve.

Natural Resources Planning Section staff help field staff and partners develop strategies that identify management priorities for the department's strategic plan and make these functional in the form of tiered, often geospatial, priorities that are easy for staff to implement when budgeting both time and funding. These include landscapes for habitat and natural community management, public use focal areas, and community conservation or relevancy focal areas. Invasive species priorities follow the habitat priorities and a second set of priorities that is defined by species that are targeted for eradication statewide. Section staff work with Department staff and partners to update the priorities and implement actions to meet goals measured by outcomes within these focal areas.

Outreach, training of technical expertise, development of curricula, coordination of courses, development of management standards and auditing of compliance, and serving on state, regional, and national boards and committees are also vital roles within the section and are performed by multiple staff to varying degrees.

Wildlife Section

The Wildlife Section provides oversight of the management and restoration of Missouri's wildlife and habitats for the use and enjoyment of present and future generations. The section provides technical advice for wildlife and habitat management to other agencies, organizations, communities, industries and private landowners.

Additionally, this section is responsible for the statewide grassland systems coordination, wetland systems coordination, feral hog elimination program, agricultural cropping program, and the wildlife damage and human/wildlife conflict resolution program. In addition, this section is responsible for the managed waterfowl hunting program which annually provides more than 35,000 hunters the opportunity to waterfowl hunt. Managed deer and turkey hunts are also the responsibility of this section, providing the opportunity for more than 20,000 hunters to apply for these hunts.

Improving Lives for Safer Communities

The Missouri Department of Corrections manages the care, custody and supervision of Missourians sentenced to state prison or community supervision following felony convictions. The agency's 10,000 employees oversee approximately 24,000 people incarcerated in 19 adult institutions as well as 52,000 people on probation or parole. The department promotes sober, responsible, productive and prosocial behavior. It fosters rehabilitation, treatment, education and job training to equip Missourians involved in the criminal justice system with the skills and resources they need to contribute to their communities, inside and outside prison walls. More than 95% of people who enter the state's prison system ultimately are released. The Department of Corrections aims to make sure they're good neighbors.

The department strives to carry out sentences set by the court and the Parole Board in ways that promote public safety while ensuring the best return on investment of staff time, state resources and taxpayer dollars. Corrections staff, contracted staff and community partners work together to return Missourians to their families and homes better equipped for success than they were when they entered state custody. With the goal of reducing risk and recidivism, the department implements results-oriented policies and evidence-based practices tailored to addressing the specific needs and strengths of each offender. Department-wide use of a validated risk and needs assessment tool is buoyed by a system of incentives and sanctions designed to reinforce positive behaviors while encouraging accountability for negative behaviors. The department employs strategic planning at all levels of the organization to promote continuous improvement.

Justice Reinvestment

In 2017, Missouri faced several criminal justice challenges, including rising violent crime rates and prison overcrowding. The bipartisan

Missouri State Justice Reinvestment Task Force—which included state and local criminal justice system stakeholders—was formed to address the issues. The task force worked with the nonpartisan, nonprofit Council of State Governments to gather and analyze Missouri criminal justice data and came away with several key findings. In 2017, Missouri had the eighth-highest incarceration rate in the United States; the fastest-growing female prison population in the United States; an increasing violent crime rate but a decrease in violent crime arrests; insufficient behavioral health resources; and a high rate of prison admissions driven by factors other than new crimes, with about half of new admissions occurring for technical violations of probation or parole. The task force worked with the Council of State Governments Justice Center staff to review analyses and develop policies and strategies to reduce violent crime, improve community-based treatment, reduce recidivism and increase public safety. House Bill 1355, known as the Justice Reinvestment Bill, was signed into law in June 2018.

When it comes to changing the mindsets and behaviors of people involved in the criminal justice system, research shows a cookie-cutter approach doesn't work. To get the best results—to send people back out into the community better than they were when they entered custody—treatment, programming and interventions must be tailored to the particular needs and strengths of each offender. Changes through Justice Reinvestment include: a validated risk and needs assessment tool used in every division in the department; cognitive behavioral interventions that help change criminal thinking; a system of incentives and sanctions to be used before, during and after incarceration; transformation of community supervision centers, targeting high-risk clients with effective programming; and treatment programs for Missourians at risk of re-incarceration. Since 2017, the statewide prison population has dropped by more than 30%.

Giving Back

With the goal of giving back to the people of the state, Missourians in state correctional centers perform volunteer work and complete projects to support nonprofit agencies. Cultivating Restorative Justice Gardens at adult institutions, each season offenders, with staff oversight and assistance, grow approximately 60 tons of fresh produce for donation to local food banks, shelters, schools and other organizations. In partnership with Missouri animal shelters, offenders participating in the Puppies for Parole program train and socialize thousands of rescue dogs in preparation for adoption by Missouri households. Every year offenders and staff hold fundraisers to provide school supplies to low-resource kids and give aid to people affected by natural disasters.

Through restorative justice initiatives, offenders serve fellow citizens and strengthen social bonds that serve as the foundation of communities. Offender-volunteers sew and donate hand-made quilts, including weighted quilts for people on the autism spectrum and fidget quilts for people with Alzheimer's disease. They refurbish used bicycles for donation to people who need them. They knit tiny hats for premature newborn babies at area hospitals. They create handcrafted woodwork projects such as birdhouses and children's furniture. They make backpacks and overnight bags for foster children. They produce educational materials and coloring books for preschool programs. All projects are donated to nonprofit organizations for their own use, for distribution to citizens, or for fundraising auctions.

Reentry

More than 15,000 people are released from Missouri Department of Corrections facilities every year. To ensure a smooth transition back into the community, the Reentry Unit connects Missourians involved with the criminal justice system with the nonprofit groups, faith-based organizations, government agencies, care providers, employers and other resources they need to successfully rejoin the community.

Employment for Missourians involved in the criminal justice system is a win-win-win for the state. Win for employers: skilled labor force eager to work. Win for offenders' families: stability and income. Win for communities: reduced risk and a safer Missouri. Supplementing the numerous vocational training programs offered at correctional centers statewide, the Reentry Unit helps to facilitate employment readiness programs. Fellow state government agencies and partner nonprofit organizations provide education and training in areas such as goal-setting, résumé building, job interview etiquette, personal presentation and professional expectations. The reentry team has formed partnerships with more than 300 employers throughout the state who are willing to hire Missourians with felony convictions. Offenders nearing release from prison may complete job interviews at prison hiring fairs or through video conference and secure employment offers before release. Missourians can walk out of prison and onto the job site.

For Missourians facing multiple barriers to success, the reentry team helps to coordinate access to wrap-around services. Staff cultivate partnerships with organizations and agencies that can help Missourians leaving prison to find housing, clothing, food, transportation, medical care, childcare, substance use treatment, education, spiritual support and other resources they need to succeed. Community partners provide services and advising to offenders inside the prisons and offer follow-up services and support after release.

In 2023, Missouri became the first state in the U.S. to join Reentry 2030, a national initiative that aims to dramatically improve reentry outcomes for people exiting prison. By 2030, we plan to expand collaborations and partnerships with public and private entities, connect incarcerated Missourians to employment and prepare people to stay employed after incarceration. We aim for 100% of incarcerated Missourians who need career services to receive them; 85% of formerly incarcerated Missourians to be employed within 30 days of release; and 80% of formerly incarcerated Missourians to maintain their employment for at least nine months after release.

By the end of 2024, the department had opened reentry centers in all 19 Missouri Department of Corrections adult institutions. Staffed by housing and employment specialists, these one-stop shops support people preparing for release from incarceration, helping with vital documents, vocational certifications, employability skills, job searches, housing searches, family reunification, health care plans and more. Mirroring community job centers, the inviting office spaces set Missourians up for success.

Divisions

The Department of Corrections encompasses five divisions. The Office of the Director functions as the central administrative hub, overseeing the four main divisions as well as special units for research and planning, professional standards, legal services, budget and finance, victim services, legislative affairs, constituent services and communications. The Division of Human Services recruits, trains and supports a professional and diverse workforce and cultivates a workplace in which safety and wellness are practiced as part of the job. The Division of Adult Institutions manages the state's 19 correctional centers using a classification system to enhance safety and security for all staff, offenders and visitors. The Division of Offender Rehabilitative Services develops offender programs that address medical and mental health issues; provide treatment for substance use disorders; and offer education, vocational training and life skills programs. The Division of Probation and Parole supervises felony offenders ordered to probation by the courts or released by the Parole Board from adult institutions by means of parole or conditional release.

Research, Planning and Process Improvement

The Office of Research, Planning and Process Improvement generates research data and analysis to inform department decision-making and strategic planning. The office tracks offender population changes, maintains statistical data and evaluates trends. It supplies research and survey data to agencies within and outside state government, responding to outside research requests and inquiries as well as requests for state budget fiscal notes. The unit also prepares the department's strategic plan; monitors strategies and performance measures associated with the strategic plan; and facilitates departmental teams that work on process improvement, quality assurance, problem-solving and customer satisfaction projects. Staff in this office also obtain, monitor, manage and disburse grant funds.

Office of Professional Standards

The three-unit Office of Professional Standards strives to ensure that all interactions in the department—whether with offenders, visitors or other employees—are professional and respectful. The Civil Rights Unit provides statewide training for staff and conducts investigations into allegations of discrimination, harassment, retaliation and unprofessional conduct. The Employee Conduct Unit investigates employee violations of policy and procedure, which might involve circumstances such as offender injuries, over-familiarity between an employee and an offender, contraband or confidential records. The Prison Rape Elimination Act (PREA) Unit is responsible for developing, implementing, investigating and overseeing the agency's compliance with Prison Rape Elimination Act standards in all facilities. The office operates a Confidential Line for Employee Allegations and Reporting (C.L.E.A.R.) for anonymous reporting of misconduct.

Budget and Finance

The Office of Budget and Finance assesses and analyzes the financial needs of the department and determines the most effective and strategic ways to invest state taxpayer dollars in programs and operations that improve the lives of Missourians and make the state's communities safer. The office develops, prepares and presents an annual budget request that reflects the department's strategic planning goals and objectives. Through analysis of research data on program outcomes and population trends, the unit provides guidance on ways to use department resources effectively. The Budget Unit presents the budget request to the governor's office and then works closely with the General Assembly to provide information during the appropriations process.

The Fiscal Management Unit oversees the implementation and maintenance of complex accounting systems that provide essential fiscal oversight, support and assistance to correctional institutions, probation and parole district offices, and Missouri Vocational Enterprises. The unit ensures accountability and transparency of state resources through the work of skilled and experienced staff in purchasing, accounting and auditing. The Offender Finance Unit provides fiscal oversight, support and assistance to the offender population by managing offender canteen and banking systems as well as offender payroll.

Legislative Affairs

The Legislative Affairs office is responsible for planning, organizing and coordinating state and federal legislative matters related to the agency's programs. The office works with the director and the executive staff to establish legislative priorities and to complete legislative research and technical preparation, analysis and tracking. The department's legislative liaison testifies before legislative committees; educates the public about programs and legislative initiatives; and works with the House of Representatives and Senate research staff on drafting agency legislation. The liaison supplies bill sponsors with fact sheets and materials, including amendments; monitors bill progress; and provides hearing summaries and briefings to policy makers.

Communications and Public Information

The Public Information Office operates as the central communications team for the department. The communications director spearheads content strategy and serves as the department's media relations liaison, keeping journalists and the public informed about department news and initiatives. Communications staff develop messaging for external and internal audiences; create newsletters, videos and other employee communications; schedule media interviews with staff and offenders; develop original written and visual content for print publications, digital communications and special projects; manage social media accounts and public websites for the department; and handle crisis communications. Partnering with the Division of Human Services, the unit creates employee recruitment campaigns and materials. The team also plans and host events showcasing the department's impact on the state.

Constituent Services

The Constituent Services Office processes offender-related inquiries from legislative offices, offenders' families and the public. Taking a customer-focused approach to addressing citizens' needs, staff in this office provide information about specific offenders as well as education about the department's operations, policies, procedures and practices. Striving for pro-active communication with the public, the office produces a monthly newsletter for family and friends of offenders, updating these constituents on changes to policies and programs while also sharing tips and resources regarding topics such as visiting, mail correspondence and phone service.

Victim Services

The department's Office of Victim Services was established to ensure that core services and accurate, timely information are provided to Missouri's crime victims. The office provides notification of changes in an offender's status to victims of crime in accordance with 595.209, RSMo. Victim Services staff enhance accessibility to department processes, including parole hearings, victim impact statements for the Parole Board's consideration and reasonable protection from offenders or others acting on behalf of an offender. This unit provides notifications, crisis intervention, support and referrals to approximately 19,000 registered victims of crimes. Upon the request of the victim, staff will provide accompaniment to parole hearings and provide support to families of homicide victims during an execution.

Division of Offender Rehabilitative Services

The Division of Offender Rehabilitative Services develops programs for offenders that address medical and mental health issues, education, vocational training, and treatment for substance use and sexual disorders. These programs are developed and implemented by the division's sections of Medical and Mental Health Services, Adult Education and Workforce Development, Substance Use and Recovery Services and Missouri Vocational Enterprises.

Education

The Missouri Department of Corrections educates incarcerated Missourians and prepares them for the workforce. Each month more than 5,000 offenders in state correctional centers take academic classes. Their pass rate on the high school equivalency test exceeds 90%. About 2,300 are trained in Missouri Vocational Enterprises factories, and 2,000 enroll in career and technical programs. Offenders' pass rate on the National Career Readiness Certificate program is 94%. Through college and university partnerships, the department also provides higher education opportunities for offenders and staff in facilities and digital classrooms.

Academic Education

Adult education serves offender students whose skill levels range from early elementary to high school in the areas of reading, math, language, science and social studies. Correctional education provides small classes, enabling each teacher to tailor lessons to the offender students at appropriate levels. The education program follows the guidelines set by the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education, using the Test of Adult Basic Education as the official assessment tool and the HiSET as the official high school equivalency test.

Facility corrections managers, acting as school principals, are responsible for the day-to-day operations and administrative functions of the schools. Certified teachers provide classroom instruction. Offenders who have high school diplomas or equivalency certificates work as tutors in the classrooms, offering support and mentoring for peers.

Adult basic education (ABE) is an integral part of the rehabilitative process. Offenders who have not yet earned high school diplomas or equivalency certificates upon incarceration are required by statute to participate in adult basic education classes. Missouri adult education and literacy programs have been ranked No. 1 in student advancement by the U.S. Department of Education's Office of Career, Technical and Adult Education National Reporting System.

The department ensures that offenders younger than 22 who have learning disabilities can participate in appropriate educational services, in accordance with the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act. Each special education teacher provides appropriate education based on the needs of the offender student, as outlined in each individualized education program (IEP). Services include accommodations and modifications in classroom instruction and test taking to help students achieve academic success. Any student younger than 22 who has not completed high school and does not have a high school equivalency certificate may be enrolled in a Title I class for one hour per day. The Title I teacher assists in subject areas in which the student is working below his or her education level. Title I students benefit from one-on-one additional help through the use of supplementary materials.

The department maintains partnerships with colleges and universities including Washington University, Saint Louis University, Rockhurst University, State Technical College of Missouri and Ashland University of Ohio. Through these partnerships, offenders and staff have the opportunity to take college courses and earn degrees.

Career and Technical Education

The Department of Corrections trains Missourians to enter the workforce.

The Division of Offender Rehabilitative Services offers effective career and technical educational services inside correctional institutions. These programs form a bridge to a successful transition to society. Thanks to grants from the Workforce Development Board and partnerships with state agencies, the department's vocational training options are constantly growing. Offenders can earn apprenticeships in wastewater management, heavy equipment operation, horticulture and farming. Instructors in the welding, heavy equipment operator and commercial driving classes use simulators to give offender-students hands-on experience within institution classrooms.

Employment readiness is a vital component of post-release success for Missourians involved in the criminal justice system. Offenders in Missouri state prisons are trained to perform jobs in fields in which the state is experiencing a high demand for skilled labor. The department also helps Missouri businesses find the labor force they need in areas such as manufacturing, construction, auto mechanics, truck driving, heavy equipment operation and health care. Employers recruit trained workers pre-release through resource fairs and video interviews and after release through our reentry programs.

Vocational programs include tattooing, cosmetology, automotive mechanics, applied computer technology, welding, carpentry, electrical wiring, business technology, nursing assistance, commercial vehicle operation, cosmetology, culinary arts, diesel mechanics, heavy equipment operation, food service, cabinetry, construction, professional gardening and residential plumbing. Vocational programs provide offenders with the opportunity to earn Department of Labor certifications upon completion.

Missouri Vocational Enterprises

Missouri Vocational Enterprises (MVE), a program of the Division of Offender Rehabilitative Services, was established by state statute (RSMo 217.550) to create meaningful job training for incarcerated offenders. MVE operates 22 industries and services inside 12 correctional institutions throughout the state. Each year, MVE employs more than 2,300 offenders who provide high-quality products and services for sale to state agencies, city and county governments, political subdivisions, state employees and not-for-profit organizations. Profits generated by MVE sales are used to develop new products and create expanded vocational training opportunities. More than 50 MVE jobs qualify as federally certified apprenticeships by the U.S. Department of Labor. MVE also provides skilled training programs, such as computer-aided drafting and similar software, to help offenders to secure and retain employment upon release. MVE operates on a working capital revolving fund and does not receive any tax dollars from the general revenue.

Medical Services

The department has maintained contracted medical services since 1992. The Division of Offender Rehabilitative Services employs contract-monitoring staff who are Missouri-licensed medical professionals to ensure offenders receive medical care equivalent to the community standard and that all mandates of the contract are fulfilled.

The department promotes education, disease prevention, immediate identification of medical problems and early intervention to prevent chronic health conditions. Our correctional centers follow standards set by the National Commission on Correctional Health Care. All medical staff members are Missouri-licensed health care professionals.

The department provides health care for offenders in custody by operating medical units 24 hours a day in 19 of its 20 correctional, reception/diagnostic centers, including 14 around-the-clock infirmaries for acutely ill offenders. Several institutions have specialty care units for the aging population and those needing minor assistance. Trained volunteer offender wellness assistants provide simple daily living assistance to peers, as well as support and companionship for peers with terminal illnesses through a hospice program. On-site dialysis is available at the Moberly Correctional Center under the direction of a board-certified nephrologist. Some sites use digital X-ray equipment for diagnostics, and all sites provide eye care, minor surgeries, dental care, hearing test equipment, physical therapy, ear, nose and throat clinics. Mammography is available to the female population. More than 300 Missouri hospitals, local specialists and clinics provide health care for offenders beyond what is available on site.

The ultimate goal of the department is to return offenders to the community as healthy as possible so they may become productive citizens of the state.

Mental Health

When offenders are sentenced to prison, their mental health needs are first assessed at the reception and diagnostic centers, where they receive a full mental health evaluation and psychological testing. All incarcerated offenders have access to mental health services, regardless of past history or severity. Offenders with moderate to severe treatment needs are enrolled in the mental health chronic care clinic and receive regular individualized treatment with a primary therapist. Those with mild or sporadic treatment issues can request mental health services as needed. Available services range from psychoeducational groups to comprehensive psychiatric care.

In the United States, people with serious mental illness are significantly over-represented in jails and prisons — at about 18%, compared to 5-7% of the general population. The Missouri Department of Corrections has a mental health caseload of more than 9,000 people (or 30%), 18% of whom have been diagnosed with severe mental illness. To help ensure proper offender treatment and facility safety, the department operates five types of specialty housing units, which house about 200 offenders.

The medium-security Social Rehabilitation Unit (SRU) at Farmington Correctional Center and Women's Social Rehabilitation Unit (WSRU) at Chillicothe Correctional Center house offenders affected by chronic psychological problems, poor coping skills, psychotic symptoms, an inability to understand or follow rules, and/or difficulties with psychotropic medication. The Secure Social Rehabilitation Unit (SSRU) at Jefferson City Correctional Center houses maximum-security offenders who have similar psychiatric issues, as well as violent or disruptive behaviors. Staffed by Department of Mental Health personnel, the Corrections Treatment Center (CTC) at Farmington provides inpatient psychiatric care to offenders with significant mental illness who require segregation from the general population. The Special Needs Unit (SNU) at Potosi Correctional Center houses offenders who have developmental and intellectual disabilities resulting in frequent victimization and/or an inability to adjust to incarceration.

Mental health services are available at all institutions and are provided by teams of psychiatrists, psychologists, advanced nurse practitioners, social workers, professional counselors, psychiatric nurses and activity therapists.

To help staff better address offenders with mental illness, the department provides Crisis Intervention Team (CIT) training. The first CIT training was launched in 2014 at Jefferson City Correctional Center, equipping 25 staff members with the skills they need to recognize mental health issues, verbally de-escalate tense situations and prevent major crises. Administrators immediately saw a 50% decrease in uses of force. The program has since become an integral part of corrections culture, transforming how staff and offenders think about behavioral health. In 2016, the department's CIT won the Governor's Award for Quality and Productivity. In 2018, the three training centers expanded the intensive CIT training sessions to annually train 300 staff members.

Sex Offender Assessment and Treatment

The Missouri Sex Offender Program (MOSOP) provides treatment, education and rehabilitation for sexual-assault offenders as required by Missouri law (589.040, RSMo). MOSOP completion is mandatory for a release prior to an offender's sentence completion time. Program length varies based on individual treatment needs. MOSOP is provided at Farmington Correctional Center for men and Women's Eastern Reception, Diagnostic and Correctional Center in Vandalia for women. Programming for special-needs offenders and those in protective custody is offered at Western Missouri Correctional Center in Cameron.

The Sex Offender Assessment Process (SOAP) provides an assessment report to the courts for sentencing considerations. Assessments include standard psychological testing and specific instruments for sex offenders. This information helps the court determine the most appropriate treatment for probation-eligible sex offenders.

The Department of Corrections is responsible for assessing sex offenders prior to release to identify those who may qualify for civil commitment as sexually violent predators (632.480, RSMo). Offenders with qualifying offenses per statute are examined by specialized psychologists to determine whether they meet statutory guidelines.

Institutional Substance Use Disorders Treatment and Toxicology Services

Substance use disorders are a well-documented criminogenic factor with a direct impact on offender recidivism. Substance use disorders are progressive, and the need for treatment and recovery support services usually recurs throughout an offender's life span.

Treatment services for substance use disorders are provided to offenders incarcerated in Missouri's prisons who have been sentenced by the courts or stipulated by the Parole Board for substance use disorders treatment.

Services include substance use assessment; long-term treatment programs of one year or longer; Offenders Under Treatment (OUT) programs for 180-day treatment; short-term treatment programs for offenders ordered by the court or board to serve 84 to 120 days of treatment; treatment programs for offenders with special needs who are mandated for substance use disorders treatment and face health, cognitive or mobility problems; and toxicology services, a critical aspect of the drug interdiction. The department conducts both random and targeted urinalysis at every correctional institution and district office for offenders.

Division of Human Services

The Division of Human Services recruits, trains and supports a professional and diverse workforce and cultivates a workplace in which safety and wellness are practiced as part of the job. We are dedicated to safety, professionalism, quality staff selection and training, and the wellbeing of everyone we encounter. The division aims to improve the work environment of employees, maintain a qualified workforce and improve communication between management and staff.

sure that technological tools, services and projects support the mission of the department and help staff to do our jobs effectively and efficiently. The unit manages computer and web-based applications specific to the department, operates a departmental help desk, and works with our own divisions and with Office of Administration Information Technology Services to plan and prioritize tech projects.

Staff Development and Talent Management

The Staff Development & Talent Management team develops, coordinates, and delivers pre-service, in-service and management/supervisory training to staff in all of the department's divisions. The academy promotes personal growth and professional development and imparts the departmental vision to all staff members to help them achieve the short- and long-term goals of the agency. Training academies operate in Jefferson City, Bonne Terre and Cameron.

Employee Health, Wellness and Safety

The Employee Health, Wellness & Safety Unit is dedicated to promoting wellness and managing mental health and workplace stress while also working to ensure the safety and security of our worksites.

The unit's three-part model that aims to:

- Prevent: Holistic wellness resources, services, programs and trainings designed to provide care and build resiliency in staff.
- Respond: Resources and strategies designed to assist staff with unique occupational stressors.
- Support: A culture that allows for ongoing support of staff, enhances their overall health and benefits their lives.

Division of Adult Institutions sentence. Offenders are expected to comply with institution rules and to engage in work, education or programming full time while incarcerated.

Each adult institution operates like a small city whose residents go to school, work in jobs, eat meals together in dining halls and access treatment for medical or behavioral-health issues. They participate in programs designed to help them change their mindsets, give back to fellow Missourians, develop a deep understanding of the impact of crime on victims, and make positive contributions to communities inside and outside prison walls. More than 95% of offenders committed to prison ultimately are released. Preparing them to transition successfully to the community improves public safety and reduces future victimization.

Religious and Spiritual Programming

Religious programming opportunities and pastoral care services are provided for offenders in correctional centers. Chaplains assigned to the institutions work with volunteers from various faith groups to ensure constitutional rights of inmates to practice their chosen religions are facilitated within the limitations of a secure setting. Spirituality can be a restorative and transforming tool for inmate change, growth and social reintegration. Spiritual services available in Missouri correctional centers include counseling; visits from community volunteers and clergy; religious dietary accommodations; a religious advisory council; worship services and studies; a chapel library and special programming. Access to religious and spiritual services has been shown to decrease conduct violations and promote inmate institutional adjustment. Inmates attending religious and spiritual programming are more likely to engage in activities that promote positive attitudes and behaviors needed to take advantage of other programs.

Missouri Veterans Program

In seven correctional centers in Missouri, offenders who have served in the United States military live together in a platoon-like system within a housing unit. They raise and lower the flag every day, assign and carry out work duties, complete treatment for post-traumatic stress and substance use together, and provide mentorship to peers. Veteran organizations working with these units help offenders access services such as Veterans Administration benefits and reentry resources. Participation in the program reduces conduct violations, boosts treatment efficacy and helps to improve the chances of success upon release. After release, veterans get additional support from the probation and parole veteran caseloads.

Parole Board

The Missouri Parole Board includes up to seven full-time members appointed by the governor, subject to the advice and consent of the Senate. Serving six-year terms, members make decisions regarding the release of Missourians from confinement in the Division of Adult Institutions through parole or conditional release. Parole hearings are held monthly at correctional centers and may include video conferencing. If a release date is set, the Parole Board determines whether particular release strategies — such as electronic monitoring or a community supervision center — might be appropriate. The Parole Board stipulates special conditions to address specific offender needs and help ensure public safety; the board might select appropriate interventions for those who pose a risk in the community. The Parole Board also investigates and reports to the governor on all applications for pardons, commutations of sentence, reprieves or restorations of citizenship.

The chair of the Parole Board, appointed by the governor, is the chief administrative officer and spokesperson.

The members of the Parole Board are:

Division of Probation and Parole

The Division of Probation and Parole aims to help Missourians succeed while under supervision in the community. Using a validated risk and needs assessment tool, division staff work to reduce crime and revocations to prison by equipping clients with the skills and resources they need to comply with their conditions of supervision.

The division is responsible for field and institutional services for probationers, parolees and conditional releases. It manages community corrections programming, a transition center and six community supervision centers. Division staff assess and supervise criminal offenders assigned to the division by the circuit courts of Missouri, by the Parole Board, or under the terms of the Interstate Compact.

The division is divided statewide into six regions for the effective management of clients. Regions are made up of a network of local district offices, institutional parole offices and residential facilities. In some instances, they are supported by satellite offices.

DON ARIAS
Southeast Region Administrator

TODD FLEHARTY
North Region Administrator

The Eastern Region includes district field offices in St. Louis City, St. Louis County as well as the Transition Center of St. Louis.

The Western Region includes district field offices in Kansas City, St. Joseph (satellite in Maryville), Independence and Liberty, and a community supervision center in St. Joseph.

The Southwest Region includes field district offices in Springfield, Joplin, Neosho, Branson, Nixa, Aurora, West Plains, Cassville and Nevada.

The North Central Region includes district field offices in Columbia, Jefferson City, Sedalia, Camdenton, Lebanon, Lexington (satellite in Marshall), Warrensburg and Cameron.

The Northeast Region includes district field officers in Hannibal, Fulton, Troy, St. Charles, Macon, Union and Rolla (satellite in Steelville), and community supervision centers in Fulton and Hannibal.

Institutional Services

Institutional parole officers assess incarcerated Missourians in state prisons and the track their progress for the Parole Board or the court. The institutional officers report their findings to the Parole Board prior to an offender's parole hearing and to the court when the offender is being considered for release to under supervision. The institutional parole staff and parole analyst assist the Parole Board as they conduct hearings. The officers work with the offenders to develop supervision plans as they prepare for their release from confinement.

Institutional parole offices are located at the following correctional centers: Algoa, Boonville, Chillicothe, Crossroads, Farmington, Potosi, Jefferson City, Maryville, Missouri Eastern, Moberly, Northeast, Western Missouri, Ozark, South Central, Southeast, Kansas City and Tipton. Parole offices are also located at diagnostic and reception centers in Bonne Terre, St. Joseph, Vandalia and Fulton (satellite at Cremer Therapeutic Community Center).

Community Supervision

Field services encompass the supervision of probationers in the community assigned to the division by the courts, parolees released under supervision by the Parole Board, and offenders from other states relocated through the Interstate Compact. There were more than 62,000 Missourians under the supervision of the division in the community in 2019.

In order to reduce recidivism, field probation and parole officers continuously assess, evaluate and supervise clients under their supervision. Probation and parole officers effectively balance treatment and supervision strategies necessary to manage offender risk with the needs and interests of community safety. This supervision process includes multiple critical components, such as accurate and ongoing assessment of offender risks and needs; development of effective supervision and treatment plans; and use of appropriate incentives and sanctions that maximize the potential for successful outcomes. Probation and Parole staff form partnerships with local law enforcement and community organizations to get the best results.

Staff in probation and parole coordinate and manage a continuum of community-based programs and employ diverse supervision services tailored to each offender's assessed needs in order to improve public safety and offender success. Programs designed to provide additional treatment, interventions and structure for clients include cognitive skills development; community reentry contracts; sex offender and domestic violence treatment; contract residential facilities; day report centers; domestic violence supervision; electronic monitoring; employment services; mental health treatment and outpatient substance use treatment.

Justice Reinvestment Treatment Pilot

In 2018, a new Justice Reinvestment treatment program was launched in Boone, Butler and Buchanan counties before expanding to a dozen Missouri counties. Now known as Improving Community Treatment Success, this joint project between Probation and Parole and the Department of Mental Health (DMH) provides substance use and co-occurring disorder treatment to high- and moderate-risk community-supervision clients who face challenges remaining engaged in community treatment. The program involves frequent case staff collaboration between supervising officers and providers; allows payment for services to address barriers to treatment, such as housing, employment or other basic needs; and provides performance-driven incentives when outcomes in housing and employment stability, retention in treatment and diversion from revocation are favorable.

Transition Centers of St. Louis and Kansas City

In 2017, the Missouri Department of Corrections transformed an aging community release center into the remodeled Transition Center of St. Louis, providing housing and programming to men under community supervision. In a four-phase transitional program, residents work on employment readiness, education, treatment, life skills, cognitive restructuring, home plan assistance, family reunification, parenting and money management. Two wings of the Transition Center are devoted to education, programming and group activities. Computer labs are available for education and job search activities. In 2021, the department began converting the Kansas City Reentry Center, a minimum-security prison, into the Transition Center of Kansas City, a residential facility for Kansas City area men on probation or parole.

Community Supervision Centers

The Division of Probation and Parole manages six community supervision centers (CSCs) housing clients on probation or parole. These centers are located in St. Joseph, Farmington, Hannibal, Kennett, Poplar Bluff and Fulton. Beginning In 2018, community supervision centers transitioned to the CSC Repurpose Model. This four-phase model targets high-risk clients who need intensive programming in several areas and who are at risk of revocation. It focuses on incentives and sanctions as clients complete each of the four phases, with the referring probation and parole officer supervising the client while he or she is a CSC resident. Programs are targeted to each client's assessed needs. Clients must complete core programming components before they can receive passes into the community for employment or other purposes. In 2019, the Fulton CSC became the first all-women's community supervision center in the state, implementing gender-responsive and trauma-informed programming and treatment while supervising Missouri women on probation and parole.

Command Center

Command Center staff track Missourians on probation and parole through the use of electronic monitoring, in supervision centers or in contracted residential facilities. This unit was established to ensure that offenders assigned to community corrections programs maintain their curfews and comply with their conditions of supervision. Command Center staff conduct investigations for every serious rule violation. They issue arrest warrants for Missourians who fail to return to their assigned residences at the appointed time. Staff maintain regular contact with state and local law enforcement to develop leads and ensure absconders are apprehended and returned to department custody.

core areas: collecting and using data, improving infrastructure and access, leveraging partnerships, increasing adoption and awareness and promoting efficiencies and opportunities.

Regional Engagement Division

The Regional Engagement Division serves as the first and primary contact for the department's local partners, business and community customers. It is responsible for business retention, expansion and community development project management.

Consisting of six regional teams that cover the entire state, each team member guides customers through the project process up to application approval. They make referrals to partner resources and rely on subject matter experts within the department to help build solutions for the customer's unique needs. The division also houses the Missouri International Trade and Investment office, which works to increase exports for Missouri's businesses while generating interest in the state for new foreign investment.

Strategy and Performance Division

The Strategy and Performance Division helps DED programs become more efficient, increase impact and provide better customer service. It also houses the department's legislative, communications and marketing services, the Office of the Missouri Military Advocate and the Missouri Women's Council.

Missouri Division of Tourism (MDT)

Tourism continues to rank as one of the most important revenue- and job-producing industries in Missouri. In fiscal year 22, Missouri's six million residents welcomed more than 40 million visitors and created more than 281,000 jobs. With an $18.4 billion dollar economic impact, tourism is a dynamic component of economic development.

The travel industry has a broad footprint in Missouri because it is composed of a diverse group of businesses found in every county in the state. The money visitors spend while in Missouri produces business receipts, in turn employing Missouri residents and paying their wages and salaries. State and local government units benefit from travel as well. The state government collects taxes on the gross receipts of businesses operating in the state, as well as sales and use taxes levied on the sale of goods and services to travelers. Local governments also collect sales and use taxes generated from traveler purchases. In collaboration with the Missouri Department of Transportation, the Division of Tourism operates five official Welcome Centers at key locations around the state, providing interaction with visitors, many of whom extend their stay after learning about the state's attractions.

As the official destination marketing organization charged with promoting Missouri as a leisure travel destination, the division plans and implements a wide variety of marketing and strategic sales initiatives. The division's award-winning marketing program includes print, television, online, outdoor, text and mobile advertising focusing on the experiences Missouri offers and highlighting tourists' perceptions of Missouri as a scenic destination with cultural, historical and family activities. A major component of the division is its website, VisitMO.com.

The 74th General Assembly recognized the importance of tourism when it created the Missouri Tourism Commission in 1967. In 1993, HB 188 was signed into law as section 620.467, RSMo. This legislation included a performance-based funding formula for the division.

Tourism Commission

The commission consists of 10 members: the lieutenant governor, two members of the Senate of different political parties appointed by the president pro tem of the Senate, two members of the House of Representatives of different political parties appointed by the speaker of the House and five other persons appointed by the governor, which may include but are not limited to persons engaged in tourism-oriented operations.

No more than three of the governor's appointees shall be of the same political party. Commission members appointed by the governor serve staggered four-year terms and may be reappointed at the end of their terms. All serve without compensation but are reimbursed for necessary expenses incurred in the performance of their duties. The commission elects a chair and meets at least four times in a calendar year, at the call of the chair, to determine all matters relating to the tourism policies of the state of Missouri and the administration of the division. The commission reports to each regular session of the General Assembly the results of its marketing program and any recommendations for legislation in the field of tourism promotion.

The division's budget is contained within the annual submittal of the Department of Economic Development to the Missouri General Assembly for approval. The Tourism Commission employs a director, qualified by education and experience in public administration with a background in the use of the various news media. The director employs a staff of professional, technical and clerical personnel.

The division's primary activities are in the areas of advertising and promotion. The goal is to deliver the right message, through the right medium, to the right audience, at the right time, in order to maximize the economic impact of travel to the Show-Me State.

The strategic marketing plan is the roadmap that guides all marketing efforts of MDT and is designed to ensure promotion of Missouri's significant tourism assets to the largest potential universe of customers. The goal is to implement an effective, research-based and competitively funded program in order to maximize the economic impact of travel to Missouri. Among the promotional tools are the annual Missouri Travel Guide, VisitMo.com and several widely used social media platforms. Additionally, the division's communications team works year-round with travel journalists and media outlets to secure positive media coverage of Missouri's diverse tourism attractions and destinations.

Through a paid-advertising program, the division promotes Missouri's vacation opportunities through print, digital, outdoor and social channels. The advertising is designed to create a positive image of Missouri and to generate travel to the state. Marketing efforts are focused primarily on the domestic leisure traveler, which includes visits to friends and relatives, as well as trips taken for cultural, arts, outdoor recreation and entertainment purposes. Research plays a vital and necessary role in measuring the effectiveness of all efforts to increase tourism spending and stimulate economic and market-share growth at the state and local level. The division's research measures past efforts and offers insights as to how, where, when and to whom the state should direct messaging to increase the number of visitors, the length of stay and their expenditures. Research projects are conducted by in-house staff and independent firms on a continual basis to determine the size, growth and impact of the division's marketing efforts.

In 1993, the division initiated the Cooperative Marketing program designed to leverage marketing resources through participation in strategic marketing partnerships with destination marketing organizations throughout the state.

For travelers to the Show-Me State, MDT's official Welcome Centers are at the following locations:

- Joplin Welcome Center—Interstate 44 E. at Mile Marker 2 Rest Area;
- Hayti Welcome Center—Interstate 55 N. at Mile Marker 20;
- Rock Port Welcome Center—Interstate 29 S. at Mile Marker 110;
- Eagleville Welcome Center—Interstate 35 S. at Mile Marker 112;
- Conway Welcome Center—Interstate 44 W. at Mile Marker 111.

These centers welcomed more than 387,000 visitors in fiscal year 22. Close relationships with others in the travel promotion field are vital. The division maintains these relationships through memberships with organizations such as the U.S. Travel Association, Southeast Tourism Society, National Tour Association and American Bus Association. MDT works in collaboration with regional and national marketing organizations, such as Travel South USA and Brand USA, to market Missouri to international travelers. The division also oversees work of the Missouri Film Office, which works to attract film, television and video productions to Missouri and to promote the growth of the film and video-production industry in the Show-Me State.

Missouri Women's Council

The Missouri Women's Council was established in 1985 by the state's 83rd General Assembly to advance economic opportunities for women in the state of Missouri. The Missouri Women's Council focuses on promoting and supporting women business enterprises through federal, state and local partnerships to leverage education and training opportunities in an effort to grow business. The council exists of 13 members. The governor, with the advice and consent of the Senate, appoints nine members for staggered terms. The remaining four members of the council consist of two senators and two representatives, who are appointed by their respective bodies in the same manner as members of the standing committees. An executive director is appointed by the governor, with the advice and consent of the Senate, to implement council initiatives. Currently, the council is focused on creating and implementing workforce training programs for disadvantaged women who are incarcerated in Missouri state correctional facilities to gain economic independence and reduce recidivism as well as meet the growing workforce needs of Missouri industry. The council continues to be committed to promoting and connecting women business owners to resources and other state and federal agencies as needed.

The Missouri Development Finance Board (MDFB) administers several financing programs for public infrastructure and private economic development capital projects of all sizes throughout Missouri. The board manages many of these programs in partnership with DED. The board was originally created in 1982 as a separate body corporate and politic of the state within DED as the Missouri Industrial Development Board. Its primary mission was to finance small- to medium-sized new and expanding manufacturing businesses. The board's name and mission have evolved at various times since its inception based upon subsequent legislation that expanded its business financing authority and added authority to fund local and state public infrastructure improvements and nonprofit facilities. The board funds its loans and investments through the issuance of project-specific conduit revenue bond debt, limited authorization to approve tax credits and fee income earned. Borrowers participating in the board's programs are responsible for debt repayment. The state of Missouri does not incur any costs, nor does it bear any obligation for repaying conduit loans, bonds or notes issued by the board for private or local government borrowers. The board sustains its staffing and operational costs from fee income paid by applicants and other general operating revenues. Membership on the board is composed of eight private Missouri residents appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate to four-year terms. These volunteer members must have been residents of the state for not less than five years prior to their appointment. Remaining membership consists of the lieutenant governor and directors of the Departments of Economic Development, Agriculture and Natural Resources. Seven members constitute a quorum. Not more than five appointed members may be of the same political party. Appointed members serve staggered terms to provide continuity and enhance program development.

State Board of Education

Under the Missouri Constitution (Article IX), the State Board of Education has general authority for “supervision of instruction in the public schools.” Today, this responsibility includes the oversight of educational programs and services that serve Missourians from preschool through the adult levels.

The State Board of Education is composed of eight lay citizens, appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate to serve eight-year terms. The terms are staggered so that one term expires each year. No more than four members may belong to the same political party. No more than one member of the board may live in the same county or Congressional district.

The governor shall, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, also appoint an active classroom teacher representative as a non-voting member. The term of the teacher representative shall be four years, and appointments shall be made in rotation from each congressional district beginning with the first congressional district and continuing in numerical order.

The board appoints the commissioner of education to serve as its chief executive officer and as director of the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education.

The primary role of the board is to provide leadership and advocacy for the improvement of Missouri’s public education system. The board also establishes policies and regulations needed to carry out state and federal laws related to public education. The board’s major duties include:

- Setting performance indicators that determine accreditation for local school districts through the Missouri School Improvement Program (MSIP). The indicators define basic requirements regarding performance on assessments, both in aggregate as well as subgroups; high school graduation and/or dropout; advanced coursework; post-secondary and career preparedness and other areas of student achievement;

- Establishing academic performance standards for the public schools;
- Setting education and certification requirements for all professional personnel (teachers, administrators, librarians, counselors, etc.) in public schools;
- Approving public and private educator preparation programs in the state;
- Establishing regulations and administrative requirements for the distribution of state and federal funds to school districts and other agencies;
- Monitoring school districts’ compliance with state and federal laws and regulations. This includes the administration of federally supported programs in the areas of special education, career-technical education and child nutrition (the school lunch and breakfast programs);
- Administering the State Board-Operated School Systems—Missouri School for the Blind (St. Louis), Missouri School for the Deaf (Fulton) and Missouri Schools for Severely Disabled; and
- Administering adult learning and rehabilitation services for adult citizens.

persons in this state within ages not in excess of twenty-one years as prescribed by law.”

To help carry out this mandate, the legislature first established a state office of education, with an elected state superintendent, in 1839. The office went through several transformations until the current constitution, adopted in 1945, established the State Board of Education in its present form and created a department of education, headed by an appointed commissioner.

The Department of Elementary and Secondary Education (DESE) was reorganized and established in its present form by the Omnibus State Reorganization Act of 1974.

The department is primarily a service agency that works with school officials, legislators, government agencies, community leaders and citizens to maintain a strong public education system. Through its statewide school improvement initiatives and its regulatory functions, the department strives to ensure all citizens have access to high-quality public education.

The Department of Elementary and Secondary Education is the administrative arm of the State Board of Education. In addition to the commissioner of education, the department organization reflects functions under two divisions—Financial and Administrative Services and Learning Services.

Office of the Commissioner of Education

The commissioner of education directs the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education and fulfills other duties as prescribed by law (161.122, RSMo). These duties include: supervising schools and directing the process by which school districts are accredited; suggesting ways to upgrade curriculum and instruction in public schools; working with state and local officials to ensure efficient management of public schools; advising local school officials, teachers and patrons about education-related issues and laws; and seeking “in every way to elevate the standards and efficiency of the instruction given in the public schools of the state.” The commissioner is appointed by, and serves at the pleasure of, the State Board of Education.

Division of Financial and Administrative Services

This division is responsible for distributing all federal and state funds to local school districts and other agencies that provide education-related services. The division assists local school officials with budgeting, audits and the reporting of financial statistics, both state and federal. The division also provides assistance with school administrative and governance issues. Other personnel in this division administer the federally funded school lunch and breakfast programs. This division also manages the department's internal business operations, such as accounting and procurement, budget, human resources, and the office of data system management (ODSM).

Division of Learning Services

This division is composed of offices that manage adult learning and rehabilitation services; college and career readiness; data system management; educator quality; quality schools; childhood; and special education.

The Office of Adult Learning and Rehabilitation Services administers statewide adult education services, including adult education and literacy, the high school equivalency testing program and veterans education.

Rehabilitation Services provide specialized services to adult citizens with disabilities to help them achieve employment and independence. Offices are maintained across the state to provide convenient services to clients. Rehabilitation Services personnel provide individualized counseling, training and other services to help clients achieve gainful employment or independent living. Rehabilitation Services is supported primarily with federal funds.

Independent Living Centers (ILC) are located throughout the state. ILC personnel provide counseling, advocacy, personal care and training in independent living skills for adults with disabilities.

The Disability Determinations Program is part of this office and operates under regulations of the Social Security Administration. Located in offices across the state, Disability Determinations personnel adjudicate claims from Missouri residents seeking federal disability benefits.

The Office of College and Career Readiness provides technical assistance to local school personnel in the adoption and adaptation of the state's performance standards, and curriculum development/adoption of all content areas — math, science, social studies, English/language arts, health/physical education, fine arts and the career-technical content areas. The office assists schools and career centers with the monitoring and approving of Perkins programming.

eight and high school end-of-course assessments, as well as the administration of the National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP), are also responsibilities of this office.

The Office of Educator Quality is responsible for approving public and private educator preparation programs. The Office of Educator Quality also issues certificates (licenses) to all professional personnel who work in the state's public school systems, as well as assisting with the review of certificate-holders who are charged with misconduct.

This office is responsible for the implementation of teacher, principal and administrator standards, as well as the implementation of Missouri's Educator Evaluation System.

A primary function of the Office of Quality Schools is to manage the Missouri School Improvement Program (MSIP), the accreditation/accountability system for public school districts. This office also administers a wide range of state and federally funded programs that assist local schools (Title I, Title III and other federal programs), charter and other innovative schools, as well as developing and implementing a statewide system of support for schools, communities and families. Schools are also provided assistance on federally and state-developed improvement initiatives that are coordinated with other state and regional services.

The Office of Special Education administers state and federal funds to support services for students and adults with disabilities. The office works with local school districts in developing and improving special education services for students (ages 3–21) with disabilities. It also provides financial and technical support for all approved sheltered workshops in the state. Sheltered workshops provide employment for adults with disabilities.

This office also oversees the operation of three school systems administered by the State Board of Education. These are the Missouri School for the Blind, the Missouri School for the Deaf and the Missouri Schools for the Severely Disabled. In addition to providing direct services to eligible students with disabilities, these school systems, through their outreach programs and consulting services, assist local school personnel and families throughout the state in meeting the needs of children with disabilities.

The Office of Childhood is responsible for overseeing the department's efforts to expand and improve high-quality early learning opportunities for children birth to age five (5), as well as providing afterschool programs for school-age children. Programs administered through this office include the Missouri First Steps early intervention program and the Parents as Teachers parent education program. The office also administers contracts with local agencies to provide voluntary evidence-based early childhood home visiting services, which are supported by the Maternal, Infant and Early Childhood Home Visiting (MIECHV) Grant and the Maternal and Child Health Services Block Grant (Title V). The office is responsible for policies and procedures related to federal and state-funded preschool programs such as Early Childhood Special Education and Missouri Preschool Program, as well as the development of early learning standards and the quality assurance report pilot that support educators in using best practices for young children and families. The office also implements the Missouri Preschool Development Grant Birth to Five. The office administers the Child Care Subsidy program and various professional development opportunities to promote safe and quality early care and education environments through the Child Care and Development Fund (CCDF) program. The office is also responsible for conducting state inspections and investigating complaints at licensed family child care homes, group child care homes, and child care centers. Staff in the office also conduct health and safety inspections at license-exempt child care facilities (e.g., religious based programs, nursing schools). The office also supports before and after school programs through grant programs administered by this office for the 21st Century Community Learning Centers and School Age Community grants.

Missouri Commission for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing

The Missouri Commission for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing was created in 1988 to improve the quality of life for all Missourians with hearing loss. It advocates for public policies, regulations and programs to improve the quality and coordination of existing services for deaf and hard-of-hearing persons and promotes new services whenever necessary.

The commission promotes deaf awareness to the general public and serves as a consultant to any public agency needing information regarding deafness; develops a system of state certification for those individuals serving as interpreters of the deaf; maintains the quality of interpreting services statewide; maintains a census of persons with a hearing loss in Missouri; promotes the development of a plan that advocates the initiation of improved physical and mental health services for deaf Missourians; conducts or makes available workshops or seminars as needed for educating non-deaf individuals of the problems associated with deafness and ways by which these groups or agencies can more effectively interact with those who are deaf; promotes the development of services for deaf adults, such as shelter homes, independent living skill training facilities and post-school educational training that will help provide for those deaf individuals requiring such services an opportunity to live independently; and establishes a network for effective communication among the deaf adult community and promotes the establishment of TDD relay services where needed.

Missouri Assistive Technology Advisory Council

The Missouri Assistive Technology Advisory Council was established in 1993. The mission of Missouri Assistive Technology is to increase access to assistive technology for Missourians with all types of disabilities, of all ages.

The council is charged to serve as an advocate for policies, regulations and programs to establish a consumer-responsive, comprehensive, assistive technology service delivery system. The council meets at least four times a year, reports annually to the governor and the General Assembly on council activities to increase access to assistive technology, and provides programmatic direction for all activities and services.

Missouri Charter Public School Commission

The Missouri Charter Public School Commission was established by state statute in 2012 with the authority to sponsor high-quality charter schools throughout the State of Missouri.

The commission shall consist of nine members and shall collectively possess strong experience and expertise in governance, management and finance, school leadership, assessment, curriculum and instruction and education law. All members of the commission shall have demonstrated understanding of and commitment to charter schooling as a strategy for strengthening public education.

Division of Senior and Disability Services

The Division of Senior and Disability Services (DSDS) plays a crucial role as the state unit on aging and is the primary agency that oversees, monitors, and assures the health and safety of seniors and individuals with disabilities receiving long-term care in their home or community as an alternative to facility-based care. DSDS investigates allegations of abuse, neglect and financial exploitation of seniors and adults with disabilities; registers hotlines and regulatory complaints regarding care; informs individuals considering long-term care about home-based care options; provides oversight for eligibility determinations and authorizations of home and community based services; advocates for resident rights and resolves complaints regarding nursing facility care; provides customer service to seniors and individuals with disabilities and their caregivers and oversees the Older Americans Act funded programs administered by the Area Agencies on Aging.

DSDS is comprised of four programmatic components: Section of Home and Community Based Services (HCBS) that includes the Bureau of Special Health Care Needs; Section of Adult Protective Services (APS); Bureau of Senior Programs and Office of Long-Term Care Ombudsman.

The Section of Home and Community Based Services (HCBS) provides individual assessment and care plan development for services to be provided in a Medicaid recipient's home or community rather than an institutional setting. It allows individuals to maintain independence as long as safely possible. Services include assistance with activities of daily living such as dressing, grooming, meal preparation, bathing, toileting, etc.. Targed population groups include the elderly, people with intellectual or developmental disabilities, physical disabilities and/or mental illnesses, and children with complex medical needs. This program serves approximately 68,000 Medicaid HCBS participants per month across nearly 2,000 enrolled Medicaid provider agencies.

The HCBS Section also contains the Bureau of Special Health Care Needs (SHCN) which supports individuals with disabilities and chronic illness to improve their level of independence and overall health status by providing service coordination and authorization of program specific health care support services. Non-Medicaid programs within the Bureau include the following:

- Children and Youth with Special Health Care Needs (CYSHCN) Program to serve children with complex medical needs.
- Adult Brain Injury Program to serve adults living with a traumatic brain injury.
- Family Partnership for CYSHCN provides family partners who are available to assist families impacted by special health care needs and provide resources and information that empower these families to live a good life.

The Section of Adult Protective Services (APS) operates the Central Registry Hotline which is available 356 days per year from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. and includes an online reporting option available 24 hours a day. Reports can be made via the toll-free number at (800) 392-0210 or online at health.mo.gov/abuse. These reporting tools serve the following functions:

- Adult Abuse, Neglect, and Financial Exploitation Hotline calls that allege abuse, neglect, or financial exploitation of seniors age 60+ and adults with disabilities ages 18–59.
- Point of entry for regulatory violations of nursing and residential care facilities, home health agencies, hospice agencies and hospitals.
- Process reports referred to other entities such as the Department of Mental Health, the Department of Social Services Missouri Medicaid Audit and Compliance Unit, and the Veterans Administration for intervention or review.

APS staff investigate hotline calls and coordinate short-term intervention services for individuals to remain in the least restrictive environment and prevent future incidents. This work can include the assistance of department attorneys when seeking guardians or conservators for reported adults. In addition, staff may conduct criminal investigations alongside local law enforcement and prosecuting attorneys when reports involve a possible criminal component.

The Bureau of Senior Programs (BSP) distributes federal Older Americans Act funds, monitors and provides technical assistance to the ten Area Agencies on Aging (AAA). These funds are distributed using a federally approved intrastate funding formula for services such as congregate meals; home-delivered meals; and supportive services such as in-home services, care coordination, benefits enrollment, senior transportation, home modifications, caregiver support and evidence-based wellness programs. The AAAs and DSDS maintain a close working relationship throughout the state to foster the information-sharing necessary to sustain a coordinated network of aging services to help prevent unnecessary or premature placement in a long-term care facility. BSP also administers the following senior service grants:

- Alzheimer services
- Senior independent living programs
- Senior employment and community service programs
- Senior immigrant and refugee services
- Senior legal assistance programs

The Office of Long-Term Care Ombudsman advocates for the rights of over 55,000 residents residing in approximately 1,189 licensed long-term care facilities across the state and seven Missouri State veterans homes. The state ombudsman oversees a network of 18 regional ombudsman coordinators through the AAAs who recruit and train volunteers to resolve complaints, such as resident rights and quality of care. Ombudsman advocate by conducting visits to the facilities on a regular basis, investigating complaints and providing information and assistance.

Division of Cannabis Regulation

The Division of Cannabis Regulation (DCR) is responsible for the implementation, regulation and oversight of the state's medical and adult use cannabis programs. Pursuant to Article XIV of the Missouri Constitution, the division ensures the right of qualifying medical patients to access medical cannabis and the right for adults, over the age of 21 years, to access non-medical cannabis.

Director's Office and Public Outreach

The DCR Director and Deputy Director oversee the implementation of Article XIV and associated rules that govern legal cannabis in Missouri. The Public Outreach Director serves as a liaison between the Division and the public, licensees, applicants, and other stakeholders throughout the state. Priorities include providing education and information about the cannabis industry, creating opportunities for collaboration, and working with licensees on the challenges and successes of the industry.

Section for Patient and Application Services

This section serves DCR as the frontline team responding to call center and email inquiries, and is responsible for processing and approval of patient, caregivers, consumer personal cultivation, agent ID applications, and conducting initial processing and approval of facility applications. This section specializes in patient education and facility application requirements based on existing law and regulation and provides technical support to assist applicants with the online registry portal.

Section for Compliance and Enforcement

This section is responsible for the coordination, review, and implementation of licensee compliance and enforcement duties as required by Article XIV and 19 CSR 100-1. This includes verifying licensees' compliance associated with facility operations, verifying eligibility for licensure, processing business change applications associated with licensees, conducting annual audit of licensee information, and reviewing complaints, conducting investigations, and pursuing enforcement actions to ensure licensees and individuals with department-issued authorizations adhere to rules and law within the department's jurisdiction.

In January 2019, Gov. Mike Parson signed Executive Order 19-03 to move the Division of Workforce Development and the Missouri Economic Research and Information Center (MERIC) under the Department of Higher Education. The department transformation became legally effective on Aug. 28, 2019, when Governor Parson signed Executive Order 19-15, to form the Missouri Department of Higher Education and Workforce Development.

The Coordinating Board for Higher Education (CBHE) was authorized by an amendment to the Missouri Constitution in 1972 and established by statute in the Omnibus State Reorganization Act of 1974. The nine board members are appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate. The term of appointment is six years. No more than five of the nine members may be affiliated with the same political party, and all members serve without compensation. The CBHE has statutory responsibilities relating to higher education programs and policies and oversees the activities of the Missouri Department of Higher Education and Workforce Development, which serves as the administrative arm of the CBHE.

The CBHE employs a commissioner of higher education to carry out its goals and administrative responsibilities. Missouri's higher education system includes 13 public universities, 12 public community colleges, one public technical college, one two-year campus of a public university, 24 independent four-year colleges and universities, 19 theological schools, 12 specialized/technical colleges and approximately 159 proprietary schools.

The primary functions of the department include statewide planning for postsecondary education and the public workforce system to effectively and efficiently meet the state's workforce needs, evaluation of student and institutional performance, identification of statewide needs for higher education, development of effective and economical specialization among institutions, submission of a unified budget request for public higher education to the governor and the Missouri General Assembly, review and enhancement of institutional missions, and approval of new degree programs offered at the state's public colleges and universities. In addition, the department administers 10 student financial aid programs and the proprietary school certification program.

As of state fiscal year 2024, the department administered the following state student financial assistance programs: Access Missouri Financial Assistance Program; Missouri Higher Education Academic "Bright Flight" Scholarship Program; A+ Scholarship Program; Dual Credit/Dual Enrollment Scholarship; Fast Track Workforce Incentive Grant; Public Safety Officer or Employee's Child Survivor Grant Program; Wartime Veteran's Survivors Grant Program; the Minority and Underrepresented Environmental Literacy Program, Advanced Placement Incentive Grant, and the Kids' Chance Scholarship. During state fiscal year 2024, the department delivered approximately $159.3 million in state-based student financial assistance to approximately 64,000 students.

As of Oct. 1, 2022, the department no longer administers the Missouri Student Loan Program, the state-designated guarantee agency for the Federal Family Education Loan Program (FFELP). All records were transferred to Education Credit Management Corporation (ECMC), the entity designated by the United States Department of Education as the successor of this program.

MERIC is the research division for the Missouri Department of Higher Education and Workforce Development. It provides innovative analyses and assistance to policymakers and the public, with a comprehensive analysis of Missouri's labor market, workforce, public higher education sector, and economy. MERIC also coordinates the longitudinal data system to study education-to-workforce journeys in Missouri.

The Department of Higher Education and Workforce Development provides a robust menu of vital re-employment services, including access to skill-building training, career connections for job seekers and human resources assistance for businesses. These services are provided through a statewide network of Missouri Job Centers and the jobs.mo.gov web portal. Missouri's workforce system is a collaborative partnership that includes the Missouri Division of Employment Security, Vocational Rehabilitation, Adult Education and Literacy, the Family Support Division, 13 local workforce development areas and 12 community college districts and other local educational agencies across the state.

With the assistance of trained, professional staff, Missouri's Job Centers streamline customer flow to provide an array of valuable career assistance services, like specialized workshops, skills assessments, résumé-writing assistance and more. These services equip the state's workforce with the training and skills needed by employers to compete in this 21st century economy. Job Centers offer job seekers use of supportive equipment, such as computers, telephones, fax machines and copiers. Businesses may use Job Centers to seek or interview potential employees, test applicants' occupational skills or gain access to labor market information.

The department also provides several innovative, targeted skill-building programs, such as the Re-employment Services and Eligibility Assessment (RESEA) program for unemployment insurance claimants, specialized job search assistance for veterans; Missouri Apprentice Ready programs providing access to pre-apprenticeship and registered apprenticeship opportunities, a nationally recognized On-the-Job Training (OJT) Program, ACT's National Career Readiness Certificate, as well as Reentry Centers in collaboration with the Department of Corrections.

The department provides staff to the governor-appointed Missouri Workforce Development Board. This board sets workforce policy for Missouri's local workforce areas and strengthens ties among state workforce, education and economic development agencies. The Missouri Workforce Development Board is composed of a majority of business leaders from some of Missouri's most successful companies. The board meets quarterly and engages the directors and commissioners of several state agencies to meet the objective of strengthening Missouri's workforce system.

By fostering a skilled workforce and utilizing a sector strategy approach, the department helps businesses to be more competitive—both regionally and globally—and helps Missouri citizens become more competitive and successful as they seek higher-paying jobs and advance through their career paths.

The department also has administrative responsibility for the Missouri State Anatomical Board.

Established in 1887, the Missouri State Anatomical Board functions to receive "unclaimed" human bodies requiring burial at public expense and to distribute them for scientific study to certain qualified schools. The board, which operates under state law (194.120–180, RSMo), was transferred to the Department of Higher Education by the Ominibus State Reorganization Act of 1974.

In 1969, the board was designated a recipient for bodies donated under the Uniform Anatomical Gift Act (194.230, RSMo).

The day-to-day business of the anatomical board is handled through local anatomical boards or secretaries in Columbia, Kansas City, Kirksville and St. Louis. The annual meeting of the entire board is held in July in Columbia. Officers are elected for two-year terms. Questions regarding unclaimed donors should be directed to the President of the Anatomical Board.

The University of Missouri was founded in 1839 in Columbia as the first public university west of the Mississippi River. Today, with total enrollment of more than 31,000 students, more than 9,000 full-time employees and more than 362,000 alumni living worldwide, Missouri's flagship university is a $2.2 billion enterprise and an important investment for the state and nation.

Based on quality of teaching, research and scholarship, MU is one of only 38 public U.S. universities to be selected for membership in the prestigious Association of American Universities (AAU).

Missouri's largest and most comprehensive university, MU has more than 300 degree programs through 13 colleges and schools, and is one of only six public institutions nationwide that has a medical school, college of engineering, college of veterinary medicine and a law school on the same campus.

Mizzou students earn 31% of all bachelor's degrees, 15% of master's degrees and 41% of doctoral degrees granted by the state's public universities. Roughly one-quarter of degrees awarded (nearly 2,000 annually) are in science, technology, engineering, mathematics or health fields.

MU spends more than $500 million on research. Known for a collaborative, interdisciplinary culture, Mizzou has incomparable expertise and resources on a global scale.

As a land-grant institution, MU serves and unifies the state via extension programs, a comprehensive health system, two museums and an NCAA Division I athletic program that competes in the Southeastern Conference.

The historic 1,265-acre campus is a botanic garden, offering visitors 42,000 plants and trees in numerous thematic and special collection settings.

College of Arts and Science

coas.missouri.edu

As Mizzou's largest academic division, the College of Arts and Science spans the breadth of human knowledge and experience. Its teaching, research, and creative work take place in departments and schools among three central areas: natural and mathematical sciences, social and behavioral sciences, and arts and humanities.

Students who experience the college's comprehensive approach to student success — from recruitment, through their academic studies, and into their lives after graduation — are prepared for any path. A&S teaches students to research, analyze, and think deeply about the world around them, and then use that knowledge to advance their future careers and benefit their communities.

With the support of these students, who gain hands-on experience in varied disciplines, A&S faculty members cultivate knowledge that impacts the wider world. Through their pursuits, this community of innovators, doers, and leaders makes far-reaching and meaningful progress not limited to:

- Discovering new cancer-fighting agents from the university's nuclear reactor.
- Studying the planet's and universe's past to understand the present and future.
- Developing ethical and innovative uses of artificial intelligence to unlock meaning in data.

- Creating works of art and fiction that stretch the imagination and grant insight to the human condition.
- Deepening understanding of the mind and behavior to improve mental and physical health.
- Examining policy and society to help American institutions guide and serve the nation.

As part of an AAU public land-grant institution, the college is dedicated to delivering on Mizzou's promise to share its important work beyond the walls of the university's classrooms, studios and laboratories.

School of Law

law.missouri.edu

The School of Law, established in 1872, has a collegial environment, reinforced by a small student body and a low faculty-student ratio. The intimacy of this setting, coupled with reasonable cost, consistently high bar passage and employment rates, a network of alumni around the globe and access to top scholars in the legal world, make the School of Law one of the best values in the nation.

The School of Law offers a juris doctor degree for which students receive a traditional legal education paired with practical experience in such areas as trial practice and advocacy, negotiation, and client interviewing and counseling. Skills training through the Entrepreneurship Legal Clinic, Criminal Practice Clinic, Child and Family Justice Clinic, and Veterans Clinic allow students to apply what they learn in the classroom to real-life situations with real clients. In addition, the school offers nine joint degree programs with other departments on the University of Missouri campus in areas such as journalism, business and public affairs. The curriculum provides a solid foundation for graduates to take the bar examination and practice in any jurisdiction. Students who already have their first degree in law can earn a master of laws degree in American law or dispute resolution. The LLM in dispute resolution degree was developed in 1999 as one of the first such programs in the nation.

Students at the School of Law publish the highly regarded Missouri Law Review, Journal of Dispute Resolution, and Business, Entrepreneurship & Tax Law Review; represent the school on regional and national mock trial teams; organize a variety of philanthropic activities in honor of the school's emphasis on service; and hold a wide array of social activities focused on alleviating the stress of law school and enhancing the strong sense of community for which the law school is known.

medicine.missouri.edu

As the first publicly supported medical school west of the Mississippi River, the University of Missouri School of Medicine is committed to saving and improving lives through exemplary education, groundbreaking research and high-quality patient care. For more than 150 years, the school has treated patients from every county in Missouri and trained more Missouri physicians than any other university.

Graduates are thoroughly trained, evaluated and held to high standards of competency in delivering patient-centered care. This includes effective communication with patients, families and colleagues within interdisciplinary teams. The school pioneered a patient-based learning approach that emphasizes self-directed study and early clinical experiences, preparing students for real-world practice from their first day of medical school.

To address the growing physician shortage in Missouri and nationwide, the School of Medicine expanded its class size from 128 to 136 students in 2025. It also offers a dedicated Rural Scholars Program to help alleviate the shortage of physicians in rural areas. In partnership with CoxHealth and Mercy health systems, the School of Medicine's Springfield Clinical Campus welcomes up to 28 students per class to complete their final two years of training in Missouri's third-largest city.

More than 720 faculty physicians and scientists at the School of Medicine educate over 1,000 medical students, residents, fellows, and graduate-level learners.

Researchers at the school are focused on developing lifesaving discoveries that tackle the most pressing and prevalent health challenges facing society today.

College of Health Sciences

healthsciences.missouri.edu

At the University of Missouri College of Health Sciences, faculty, students and staff work every day to improve the health and well-being of individuals and communities through teaching and training, research and scholarship, clinical service and extension and engagement. The college was previously called the School of Health Professions; its new name recognizes the significant growth that has occurred within the college.

As one of the three academic units of the University of Missouri health system, the college is a major provider of Missouri's health care workforce. The college's graduates fill critical roles in hospitals, clinics, schools, community agencies and businesses across the state. In addition, the college operates multiple outreach services, such as the largest pro bono physical therapy and occupational therapy clinics in mid-Missouri, an integrative behavioral health clinic, a speech and hearing clinic and a language preschool. These clinics are valuable experiences for clinicians in training and provide essential health care for uninsured and underinsured community members.

The college is composed of seven departments and the School of Social Work, and has an enrollment of approximately 3,500 students. It offers degrees spanning all levels, from bachelor's to doctoral degrees, and a psychology residency. The college was one of the first in the nation to offer an undergraduate major in health science, which is now one of the most popular majors at Mizzou. Additional undergraduate degrees are offered in criminal and justice studies; diagnostic medical ultrasound; fitness programming and management, medical laboratory science; nuclear medicine; occupational therapy assistant; public health; radiography; respiratory therapy; social work; and speech, language and hearing sciences. Master's degree programs are offered in clinical and diagnostic sciences; health administration; public health; social work; and speech-language pathology. Doctoral degrees include health and rehabilitation science, occupational therapy, physical therapy and social work.

College of Veterinary Medicine

cvm.missouri.edu

The University of Missouri College of Veterinary Medicine's mission is to teach, heal, discover and serve. It is the only Missouri institution that awards the Doctor of Veterinary Medicine degree, graduating approximately 115 new veterinarians each year. The College of Veterinary Medicine (CVM) has graduated more than 4,600 doctors of veterinary medicine in its history. The CVM also offers post-graduate specialty training to interns, residents and graduate students as well as an online master's degree, an undergraduate degree in microbiology and an online bachelor's completion degree in veterinary technology. Most graduates enter private clinical practice, but others choose careers in government, the military, industry and academia.

The CVM's Veterinary Health Center (vhc.missouri.edu) is a state-of-the-art facility with 140,000 square feet of floor space spread over three hospitals for companion animals, horses and farm animals. Clinical faculty provide both primary care and various sophisticated diagnostic procedures and treatment options not available in most private practices. Examples include magnetic resonance imaging, PET and CT scans, hip replacement surgery, evaluation and treatment of musculoskeletal and neurologic conditions, and herd-health consultation for farmers. Each year, the hospitals care for approximately 20,000 hospitalized animals and thousands more on farms.

The CVM's Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Laboratory (vmdl.missouri.edu) is a full-service lab serving all animal species. It is Missouri's only veterinary diagnostic laboratory accredited by the American Association of Veterinary Laboratory Diagnosticians. The lab is also a Level I member of the National Animal Health Laboratory Network and a Tier I member of the FDA's Veterinary Laboratory Investigation and Response Network. The VMDL supports the CVM's clinical and teaching missions and serves as a vital resource for public health, wildlife conservation and agricultural stakeholders across Missouri. Each year, it performs more than 200,000 diagnostic tests — many of them for agricultural animals.

Because animals and people share the same environment, they're often exposed to similar pathogens, pollutants and disease risks. That's why many illnesses affect both species—a concept known as translational medicine. At the CVM, faculty and researchers embrace this approach, working across disciplines to uncover the causes of disease and develop new diagnostics and treatments. Through partnerships with experts in human medicine, agriculture, engineering and other fields, the CVM is helping improve health outcomes for animals and people alike.

Libraries

library.missouri.edu

The University Libraries include Ellis Library—the main library—and seven specialized libraries: Columbia Missourian newspaper, engineering, geology, health sciences, journalism, law, mathematics, University Archives and veterinary medical. The University Libraries have a collection of over 3 million print volumes, over 1.3 million e-books and hundreds of electronic databases.

In addition to the specialized libraries, some library materials are housed in two off-campus storage facilities that contain more than one million volumes from all of the University of Missouri campus libraries. The libraries' website, library.missouri.edu, provides access to online resources, including the UM System libraries and MOBIUS (statewide) catalogs and over 195 online databases.

Ellis Library also houses Special Collections and Archives. These collections are frequently reinforced by gifts of friends and alumni. Outstanding gifts include an unpublished manuscript of Charlotte Bronte; the library of John G. Neihardt; the library and manuscripts of Mary Lago; the V.T. Hamlin "Alley Oop" collection; and the libraries of the late Dr. Frank Luther Mott (dean and professor of journalism), manuscripts of deputy minority counsel for the Senate Watergate Committee, Don Sanders and Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright Lanford Wilson.

University of Missouri Extension

extension.missouri.edu

University of Missouri Extension has its roots in federal acts, including the Morrill Land Grant Act of 1862 and the Smith-Lever Act of 1914, which enabled the university to deliver the practical benefits of education and scientific research to the people to improve their economic prospects and quality of life.

As early as 1911, MU was reaching out to farmers and families and providing distance education courses for teachers across the state. In 1955, state legislation established county extension councils to advise the university on educational programs. Each year, some 2,000 citizens volunteer on these councils to assess local educational needs and to work with extension faculty in delivering and evaluating programs. A partnership of local, state and federal government forms the basis for supporting these efforts.

Today, MU Extension continues to translate university-generated research and knowledge to meet the practical needs of Missourians. Working with faculty on the four UM System campuses and jointly with Lincoln University Cooperative Extension, specialists serve every county and the City of St. Louis. They reach audiences diverse in age, race and income with educational programs, publications, informative websites and one-on-one consultations.

Programs in agriculture, business, youth development (including 4-H), health, community vitality, and overall well-being build the capacity for success in individuals and communities. These programs create a foundation for locally and regionally based economic development. Every year, more than 1.2 million Missourians participate in MU Extension programs and 3 million people use the MU Extension website to locate experts, research-based information and programs.

MU Research Reactor

murr.missouri.edu

For more than 50 years, scientists at the University of Missouri Research Reactor (MURR®) have conducted groundbreaking research and collaborated with industry partners to develop unique products, including lifesaving radiopharmaceuticals.

MURR's prominence as a producer of medical isotopes is part of a nearly six-decade accomplished history. Operating at 10 megawatts, the facility is the highest-power university research reactor in the United States, and its reliability makes it an essential resource for researchers, scientists, engineers, students and industry partners.

MURR is the only U.S. producer of four medical isotopes used in lifesaving treatments for more than a dozen types of cancer, including liver, thyroid, pancreatic and prostate cancers. MURR has provided medical technology development for more than 30 years and Mizzou is the only university to partner with industry to bring four FDA-approved radiopharmaceuticals to market. From initial research and development to licensing and commercialization, MURR and its team were central throughout the process. With medical isotope shelf-lives ranging from hours to a few days or weeks, a safe and reliable domestic supply is critical for patient health to improve and save lives.

MURR is a unique international resource as the highest-powered, university-operated research reactor in the United States and the only reactor in the world to run all 52 weeks of the year. This reliability provides an invaluable tool to drive research, education and economic development for innovative products and services including cancer drugs and diagnostic agents.

MURR is a critical hub for multidisciplinary research across Mizzou's campus, integrating the resources of a major teaching hospital, a respected cancer center and a leading college of veterinary medicine, as well as distinguished university programs in the biosciences, chemistry and engineering, into an unparalleled research environment. Research programs at MURR encompass four major areas including biomedical science and nuclear medicine, materials science, epidemiology and archaeometry. The biomedical science program focuses on the development of radiopharmaceuticals for cancer research, including both diagnostic and therapeutic applications. The trace element analysis program utilizes the reactor to determine the composition of biological, archaeological and geological samples. The materials sciences program focuses on the use of neutron scattering techniques to define and characterize materials at the molecular or atomic level.

Educational opportunities abound at MURR with students arriving from around the globe to take advantage of this unique resource. Students at both graduate and undergraduate levels participate in research projects from diverse disciplines including anthropology, archaeology, chemistry, engineering (chemical, electrical, mechanical and nuclear), geology, materials science, medical, life sciences (including cancer diagnostics, treatment and prevention), nutrition, physics and veterinary medicine.

University of Missouri–Kansas City

Telephone: (816) 235-1000 umkc.edu

Email: admit@umkc.edu

The history of the University of Missouri–Kansas City (UMKC) has always been tied to that of its namesake city, conceived and executed as the means to meet the city's need for a major university to drive growth, development and progress.

UMKC's roots run back to the 1880s. Three of the professional schools now a part of the university were founded in the 19th century: the School of Dentistry, 1881; the School of Pharmacy, 1895; and the School of Law, 1895. At the same time the Conservatory of Music was founded in 1906, community leaders began discussing the need for a university in Kansas City.

By the 1920s, two groups had plans for such a university. One group proposed Lincoln and Lee University, a Methodist-affiliated school. The other group wanted a private university.

The two groups eventually united and, in 1929, the University of Kansas City was chartered. In 1930, William Volker, Kansas City manufacturer and philanthropist, started the campus with a donation of 40 acres from the William Rockhill Nelson estate.

Despite the ravages of the Great Depression, civic leaders stayed the course, believing that a university was critical to efforts to reverse the economic doldrums. In 1931, Volker donated funds to purchase the Walter S. Dickey mansion and grounds. It was in this remodeled building that the University of Kansas City began its first academic year on Oct. 2, 1933, with 264 students and 17 faculty members. The first commencement at the University of Kansas City was June 9, 1936, with 80 graduates.

In 1963, the University of Kansas City merged with the University of Missouri System, becoming the University of Missouri–Kansas City. In 1963 the enrollment was 4,394; more than 16,000 now study at UMKC.

The campus has been experiencing a major growth spurt in recent years. Two major new buildings opened in 2013: the $32 million, 68,000-square foot Henry W. Bloch Executive Hall for Entrepreneurship and Innovation, and the 1,000-seat Miller Nichols Learning Center classroom building. These were followed by Brookside 51, a project at 51st and Oak streets that includes a Whole Foods Market, six floors of 170 market-rate apartments and a new home for the UMKC Student Health and Counseling

MAULI AGRAWAL
Chancellor, University of Missouri–Kansas City

Center; and a $21 million state-funded modernization and upgrade project for the university's biology and chemistry laboratories. Both were completed in 2018. The new high-tech Robert W. Plaster Education and Research Center, a $32 million facility for the School of Science and Engineering, opened for Fall semester 2021. The university is committed to building a new home for its world-renowned performing arts conservatory adjacent to the existing Olson Performing Arts Center on the Volker Campus.

In 2017, UMKC launched the UMKC Health Sciences District, the first step toward developing a premier regional academic medical center that can provide innovative care, attract top medical students and researchers and generate billions of dollars in jobs and economic development, while advancing care for the underserved. The district combines the unique expertise and services provided by a medical center; a children's hospital; a university and its schools of medicine, nursing, pharmacy and dentistry; as well as the city health department, state mental health center, county medical examiner's office and other health sciences entities. The district was created to enhance collaboration on research and grant requests; combine efforts on community outreach; improve faculty recruitment; coordinate area parking, safety and transportation; and create shared opportunities in health and wellness from and for more than 16,000 health professionals, faculty members and students.

The university is currently constructing a new $145 million Healthcare Innovation and Delivery Building in the UMKC Health Sciences District. The new building will enable UMKC to provide leading-edge healthcare education, attract top students and researchers and advance care for disinvested populations. In addition, the project will serve as a catalyst for developing the UMKC Health Sciences District into a major regional academic medical center that can generate billions of dollars in jobs and economic impact for the Kansas City region.

UMKC is poised for ongoing growth. A destination development, including a 5,000-seat sports arena and multi-modal transportation hub, is planned for the west side of campus. It will be built next to the southernmost stop for the extension of the Kansas City Streetcar, expected to be completed fall 2025.

Renovating older assets for 21st-century purposes is another ongoing priority. For example, UMKC recently completed a $17 million upgrade and modernization of Bloch Heritage Hall, part of the Henry W. Bloch School of Management. The multi-year project sought to maintain the aesthetics of the building's historic exterior, while moving dated sections of the building's interior into the 21st century with new offices, gathering spaces and classrooms entwined with modern technology that fosters flexible learning environments for students.

In 2025, UMKC achieved Carnegie Research 1, or R1, status. This designation makes UMKC one of the top research universities in the nation – only 6% of four-year universities have R1 status, which helps attract additional faculty talent and funding that contributes to the economic development and quality of life within the region.

School of Humanities and Social Sciences

shss.umkc.edu

The School of Humanities and Social Sciences provides a well-rounded curriculum that gives students a thorough understanding of the world in which we live.

Students work alongside curators at world-renowned museums, cover stories for local news outlets and radio stations, intern for professional sports teams and gain experience at top companies. In 2024, the school received a multi-year grant from the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation to help pay for student internships, providing even greater opportunity for students to get involved and make connections outside of the classroom. This experience not only makes for a more dynamic college experience, but also helps our students develop professionally.

The major areas of study are art and art history; communication studies; criminal justice and criminology; economics; English language and literature; foreign languages and literatures; history; philosophy; and sociology.

Nearly all of the school's departments offer graduate work at the master's level. Some departments also participate in Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) programs offered through the School of Graduate Studies.

The school's students and faculty have earned an array of academic recognitions, including multiple Guggenheim Fellowships, Fulbright and DAAD scholarships, National Endowment for the Arts and National Endowment for the Humanities Fellowships, the Benjamin A. Gilman International Scholarship and the Association of Writers and Writing Programs award. Two graduates of the school have won the Pulitzer Prize.

The school also is the home base of the Honors Program, which seeks exceptionally motivated and academically talented undergraduates to study in an environment that encourages excellence. It is designed to enrich the collegiate experience of the most outstanding students. Traditional and non-traditional undergraduates from every school at the university are provided with the opportunity to develop their academic and leadership skills within the context of a broad, interdisciplinary education, which will ultimately prepare them for graduate studies and professional careers.

The school offers programs in architecture, urban planning and design; biology; biomedical engineering; chemistry; civil engineering; computer science and information technology; earth and environmental science; electrical and computer engineering; mathematics and statistics; mechanical engineering; and physics and astronomy.

dentistry.umkc.edu

What began in 1881 as the Kansas City Dental College is today the UMKC School of Dentistry, which annually admits approximately 100 students into its four-year Doctor of Dental Surgery (D.D.S.) degree program, 30 dental graduates into specialty programs and 30 students into dental hygiene. The school provides students with more than 70,000 patient visits annually, while providing more than $500,000 in uncompensated care to underserved Missouri residents. About two-thirds of the state's dentists are graduates of the UMKC School of Dentistry.

The school offers continuing education programs and supports or participates in dozens of outreach programs. Faculty and students provide oral health screenings to disadvantaged children and others in underserved rural areas of Missouri and abroad.

UMKC was the first U.S. dental school to develop and implement a fully electronic patient record-keeping system with digital radiography, and the Department of Oral and Craniofacial Sciences has been named an area of eminence by the University of Missouri System in recognition of its interdisciplinary research programs in the areas of biomaterials engineering, mineralized tissue biology and translational and clinical research. Private businesses contract with the Clinical Research Center to perform clinical trials and efficacy testing on dental products and procedures; research funding averages over $5 million annually.

Philanthropic support from the school's 7,500 living alumni has endowed more than 60 scholarships, providing assistance to a significant number of the school's 500 dental, dental hygiene and graduate students.

School of Law

law.umkc.edu

The Kansas City School of Law, founded in 1895, merged with the University of Kansas City (UKC) in 1938. When UKC joined the UM system in 1963, the school became known as the UMKC School of Law. The school is one of only six in the nation to have educated both a U.S. President and a Supreme Court Justice.

The law school is housed in a modern facility, which includes courtrooms with up-to-date technology that allow actual court proceedings to be held at the school and observed by students and faculty from a soundproof viewing theater. The building houses the Leon E. Bloch Law Library, which provides both books and online materials and contains an innovative, collaborative teaching classroom for research and writing instruction. A unique feature of the building is the placement of student offices and study carrels in suites shared by faculty.

The law school focuses on the integration of high-level theory with practical skills to educate lawyers with strong problem-solving ability and the foundation for sound judgment. The school is recognized for its strengths in advocacy, family law and entrepreneurship, as well as for its innovative solo and small-firm practice program. Students have opportunities for writing and scholarly activity through the three journals edited at the school.

The location of the School of Law on an urban university campus provides abundant opportunities for student participation in externships and clinics that provide excellent skills training while serving community legal needs. It also provides for interdisciplinary collaboration, especially with the Bloch School of Management and the Regnier Institute for Entrepreneurship and Innovation.

med.umkc.edu

In 1971, the UMKC School of Medicine accepted its first class in the six-year medical program. The year-round program, involving 48 weeks of study each year, offers students the opportunity to earn both their Doctor of Medicine (M.D.) degree and a bachelor's degree. It is designed primarily for highly-qualified high school seniors.

The curriculum of the School of Medicine provides early exposure to clinical medicine and basic science education, as well as a liberal arts education that is fully integrated into the six-year program. Admission to this program as a freshman gives the student the opportunity to complete requirements for the Doctor of Medicine degree without a second admission process. A unique feature of the school is the docent system, which assigns a full-time faculty member to 12 students for a four-year period, creating an opportunity for the student to interact with a faculty member who serves as a teacher, role model, counselor and mentor.

Nearby are the medical school's major affiliate hospitals: University Health, Children's Mercy Hospital, Saint Luke's Hospital of Kansas City, Western Missouri Mental Health Center and the Kansas City Veterans Affairs Medical Center. In addition, the School of Medicine uses a number of outstanding private community hospitals in the Kansas City area for education in clinical medicine.

The School of Medicine opened a satellite campus in January 2021 at Mosaic Life Care in St. Joseph, Mo. The St. Joseph campus was set up specifically to address the state's rural physician shortage.

A new, $14.5 million state-of-the-art facility dedicated to the St. Joseph School of Medicine is set to open in August 2025.

School of Pharmacy

pharmacy.umkc.edu

The origin of pharmacy education in Kansas City began in 1885 and evolved into the “Kansas City College of Pharmacy and Natural Science.” This college operated independently until 1943, when it merged with the University of Kansas City. For the last 125 years, the School of Pharmacy has maintained its mission to educate students, health care professionals and scientists; conduct research; and serve the public and the pharmacy profession in order to meet pharmaceutical needs and advance the standard of health care.

The UMKC School of Pharmacy is the only public pharmacy school in Missouri, offering professional, post-graduate and graduate programs in the pharmaceutical sciences, including pharmaceuticals, pharmacology, biopharmaceutics, pharmacokinetics and toxicology; pharmacy administration and pharmacy practice. The primary professional degree offered is the doctor of pharmacy (Pharm.D.).

Pharmacy faculty conduct interdisciplinary research and engage in community service. Students are active in various outreach projects, including community health fairs and education of school children about inappropriate use of medication.

The pharmacy program includes significant patient contact and provides an interprofessional approach to patient care. Experiential components of the curriculum are conducted at several area health facilities throughout Kansas City, Columbia and Springfield, as well as at various pharmacy and health care settings throughout the state in rural and metropolitan areas.

In 2005, the School of Pharmacy expanded the Pharm.D. program to the University of Missouri–Columbia campus using distance education and UMKC pharmacy faculty. This program was created in part to help with the shortage of pharmacists statewide and to meet the need for pharmacists in Missouri’s rural communities. A similar program was expanded to the Missouri State University campus in Springfield in 2014.

Libraries

library.umkc.edu

UMKC Libraries are an essential partner in intellectual discovery, knowledge creation and empowerment, while serving as the hub of learning activities for UMKC and its urban neighbors. Located on the Volker Campus, the Miller Nichols Library is the largest of UMKC’s libraries and houses the general collection, Music/Media Library, LaBudde Special Collections and Marr Sound Archives. The Dental Library and Health Sciences Library are located on the Health Sciences Campus and serve users in those disciplines.

UMKC Libraries’ collections contain more than 2 million books, government publications and audiovisual items, as well as more than 2 million microforms supporting the programs of the university. In addition to the physical collections, the libraries provide online access to over 65,000 journals, 250,000 books and 300 research databases. Partnerships with the UMKC School of Law’s Leon E. Bloch Law Library and the privately funded Linda Hall Library of Science, Engineering and Technology further extend UMKC’s physical and virtual library resources. Reciprocal borrowing agreements and the Community Information Program share UMKC’s library resources globally and provides local users access to materials from libraries and repositories located throughout Missouri and around the world. These arrangements assist students, researchers, businesses and all levels of government agencies.

Many rare and priceless collections are part of UMKC Libraries’ Kenneth L. LaBudde Special Collections. These include papers and manuscripts of music composers, sheet music and Americana and British literature. The Marr Sound Archives hold over 330,000 music and spoken word recordings, documenting the American experience in sound. The libraries have been the recipient of grants from the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation and the National Endowment for the Humanities to catalog and preserve unique library collections.

Through the libraries’ website, Missourians and researchers worldwide can access a variety of material, from online exhibits highlighting the musical heritage of the Kansas City region, to a comprehensive catalog of library holdings at all four campuses to historic digital audio recordings. Visitors to UMKC can observe the high-density automated storage and retrieval system—dubbed by student vote “RooBot”—and experience the new collaborative study spaces made possible by the new system.

School of Nursing and Health Studies

sonhs.umkc.edu

The UMKC School of Nursing and Health Studies prepares students to excel in the delivery and improvement of health care, now and in the future. Approval for establishment of a School of Nursing was granted by the University of Missouri’s Board of Curators in 1979, at which time the master of science in nursing (MSN) program was offered. The school accepted its first class of registered nurse undergraduates (RN-BSN) into its baccalaureate program in fall 1981.

Today, the UMKC School of Nursing and Health Studies offers a full range of education programs including a bachelor's degree in health science, a four-year bachelor's degree in nursing (B.S.N.), an R.N.-B.S.N., a master of science in Nursing (M.S.N.) degree and a doctor of nursing practice (D.N.P.) degree—all fully accredited by the Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education. Options for MSN study include the nurse educator, neonatal and family psychiatric mental health nurse practitioner programs. Options for the DNP include the adult, family, women and pediatric nurse practitioner programs. The Ph.D. in Nursing is an inter-campus Ph.D., offered in cooperation with the University of Missouri–St. Louis and Columbia campuses. Many of the programs are approved by the Higher Learning Commission for distance education using both online and interactive telecommunication technologies.

The school presents students with excellent learning opportunities, such as clinical experiences in settings that provide care to patient populations of diverse backgrounds and state-of-the-art simulation technology. Students benefit from the school's long-standing community partnerships, a commitment to a diverse student body and specialized recruitment and retention strategies. The School of Nursing's program of research is focused on community-based research for underserved and underrepresented populations and provides educational, practice, service and research opportunities in the provision of health care and education in this area, emphasizing urban health care and wellness.

Continuing Education

umkctalentlink.com

The university's schools, with responsibility for their respective continuing education programs, extend the university's educational reach beyond the traditional campus degree programs. Through credit courses, noncredit courses, conferences and institutes, the people of the greater Kansas City community have an opportunity to continue their education in a manner suited to the adult learner.

Noncredit continuing education activities involve an academic department and a group from business, industry, government or the general public. Citizens throughout the state are served through UMKC's relationship with the University Extension. Offerings include liberal arts lectures and seminars; professional, refresher, remedial and post-graduate courses; and problem-oriented educational programs designed for the analysis and study of major social and urban problems.

Formal education also may be continued through credit courses offered off campus or by enrollment in correspondence courses for academic credit. Frequently, public forums concerned with vital issues of the day are offered in order to increase both the number and effectiveness of people who work toward solutions of community problems. While responding to the broad and varied needs of the community and state, the university is at the same time placing increased emphasis on the development of specific program areas identified as important to large professional, economic and other specialized audiences within the community.

Founded in 1870 during the height of the Industrial Revolution, our university—then known as the Missouri School of Mines and Metallurgy, or MSM—was established to address the pressing challenges of that era. A product of the land-grant movement of the late 19th century, the campus was Missouri's response to the acute need for scientific and practical education in the developing nation. Early academic programs focused on the mining and metallurgical industries, but the campus expanded its mission over time as the need for a broad-based education grew.

Over the years, as the campus placed a greater emphasis on research and graduate education and increased its academic offerings, its identity evolved to reflect these changes. In 1964, the four-campus University of Missouri System was established, and so our campus became known as the University of Missouri–Rolla (UMR). In 2008, the name was changed to Missouri University of Science and Technology (Missouri S&T) to reflect our distinctive nature as a national STEM-focused research university.

Now a research university of national distinction, Missouri S&T continues to build upon its heritage of discovery, creativity and innovation to inspire and prepare students of all majors to solve the world's great challenges. S&T students experience a wealth of out-of-classroom learning opportunities that apply knowledge to real-world issues, from the Experimental Mine—named the nation's most "Awesome College Lab" by Popular Science—to numerous student design teams—including S&T's Mars Rover Design Team, which won the international University Rover Competition in 2025.

Missouri S&T offers over 100 degree programs and awards bachelor's, master's and doctoral degrees in a wide array of disciplines—from engineering and the sciences to business and information technology, the humanities and social sciences, education, and the liberal arts. The Ph.D. is offered in 24 disciplines and the Doctor of Engineering is offered in eight disciplines.

In October 2020, Missouri S&T received a transformative $300 million gift from the late Fred and June Kummer. The gift was the largest single donation to any university in Missouri, public or private, and established the Kummer Institute for Student Success, Research and Economic Development as well as a new academic college.

Founded in 1898 and established as a trustee of the state a year later, the State Historical Society is the premier center for the study of Missouri state and local history. Through its education program, the Center for Missouri Studies, SHSMO collects, preserves, and publishes materials that enhance research and support learning opportunities in the study of Missouri and the Midwest at six research centers around the state.

Society Research Centers

The administrative offices, art galleries and Columbia center are located in the Center for Missouri Studies Building, 605 Elm Street. Other research centers are located in Kent Library, Southeast Missouri State University; Miller Nichols Library, University of Missouri-Kansas City; Curtis Laws Wilson Library, Missouri University of Science and Technology; Thomas Jefferson Library, University of Missouri-St. Louis and Duane G. Meyer Library, Missouri State University.

Research Collections

Researchers, scholars and students interested in Missouri history, biography and genealogy will find unsurpassed collections of books, official state records, newspapers, maps, photographs and manuscripts at the State Historical Society.

Over the years, the society has acquired a number of rare or specialized book collections that have given it added recognition. These collections include the Mahan Memorial Mark Twain Collection, the Eugene Field Collection, the J. Christian Bay Collection of Middle Western Americana, the Francis A. Sampson Collection and the Paul D. Higday Civil War Collection.

The society's Missouri newspaper collection, which includes roughly 4,600 titles and extends from 1808 to the present, is one of the largest state newspaper collections in the nation. Current newspapers from throughout Missouri arrive weekly and are microfilmed to ensure their preservation. The lives of Missourians and the history of Missouri communities as well as local, state and national events are documented in the collection.

The map collection consists of nearly 8,000 maps of the state ranging from rare and old to modern. In addition, the collection contains county atlases, statistical maps, topographical maps and early state guidebooks. For genealogical research, the society's microfilm file of United States census reports is one of the largest in the Midwest. A pictorial collection of photographs and other images of individuals and places dates from the 19th century to the present. The collection includes views of buildings, cityscapes and rural areas throughout the state.

The society's manuscript collection contains 46,000 cubic feet of letters, diaries, journals, business and organizational records, nearly 9,000 oral histories, architectural drawings and official state papers. It provides intimate day-to-day accounts of Missouri history and lends vitality to historical writing.

Art Collection

The society houses the nation's best collection of Missouri regional and westward expansion art, including Thomas Hart Benton's Year of Peril series and numerous paintings by George Caleb Bingham. Also found in the collection are works by John James Audubon, Karl Bodmer, and Missouri artists such as Frank Nuderscher and Fred Shane. An extensive editorial cartoon collection is national in scope. Exhibitions in the art galleries showcase the society's diverse holdings.

Missouri History Online

The society's website reflects a commitment to making the history of Missouri and its residents widely available to learners of all ages. More than 22 million pages of newspapers are accessible online through the Missouri Digital Newspaper Project. The Historic Missourians pages feature more than 180 biographies of men and women who are well-known for their contributions in such fields as literature, politics, sports and education. The Missouri Encyclopedia provides users with authoritative information on the history and culture of Missouri. The encyclopedia contains over 320 articles and continues to expand. The website also includes photographs, Civil War documents, editorial cartoons and artworks, past issues of the Missouri Historical Review, oral histories, and finding aids to society collections and other materials. Additionally, the society offers the "Our Missouri" podcast, which features regular stories about the people, places, culture and history of the state.

Publications

The Missouri Historical Review has served as the cornerstone of the society's publication program since 1906. A benefit of membership, the journal features scholarly articles on diverse topics in Missouri history, book reviews and notes. In addition to the journal, the society has published more than 50 volumes of edited documents, narrative and pictorial history, directories and indexes. Missouri Times, a news magazine, informs members about society activities.

Public Programming

Inviting a wide range of audiences to interact with primary sources, the society sponsors educational outreach programs, including genealogy workshops, tours for students and adults, presentations on its collections, and ongoing presentations of current scholarship such as the African American Experience in Missouri and History on Elm Lecture Series.

The society sponsors National History Day in Missouri, the statewide component of National History Day, a competition for students in grades six through 12. More than 2,500 Missouri students participate annually at the local school

Lincoln Institute was founded in 1866 by the enlisted men of the 62nd and 65th U.S. Colored Infantry Regiments. The men, who learned to read and write on the battlefields of the Civil War in Texas, dreamed of a school to educate African Americans in their home state of Missouri. In 1890, Lincoln Institute became a land-grant institution. The school was renamed Lincoln University in 1921. In the fall of 1954, Lincoln University expanded its historical mission to serve a broader population from varied social, economic, educational and cultural backgrounds. Today, Lincoln University in Missouri is a historically black, 1890 land-grant, public, comprehensive institution that provides excellent educational opportunities including theoretical and applied learning experiences to a diverse population within a nurturing, student-centered environment.

The majority of the university's more than 2,700 students are residents of Missouri or one of nine nearby states. The international student population comes from 15 countries.

Lincoln University offers eight undergraduate degrees in 50 programs of study. Lincoln University also offers non-credit and continuing education courses for those seeking professional or personal development.

The main Lincoln University campus is composed of nearly 174 acres, centrally located in Jefferson City. In addition, the university properties include three agricultural research facilities and extension centers in St. Louis, Kansas City and southeast Missouri. In addition, a satellite nursing program is housed at Fort Leonard Wood.

Harris-Stowe State University, (HSSU) traces its origin back to 1857 when its first predecessor institution was founded by the St. Louis Board of Education as a normal school for the preparation of white elementary school teachers. It thus became the first public teacher education institution west of the Mississippi River and the 12th such institution in the United States. Its second predecessor institution, Stowe Teachers College, was also a normal school founded by the same public schools in 1890 to prepare African-American elementary school teachers. Both normal schools later became four-year teachers colleges—Harris Teachers College and Stowe Teachers College. The former was named after William Torrey Harris, U.S. Commissioner of Education and former superintendent of the St. Louis Public Schools. The latter was named after Harriet Beecher Stowe, the famed slavery abolitionist and author of Uncle Tom's Cabin. These two colleges merged in 1954, forming Harris-Teachers College and in 1977 became Harris-Stowe College. In 1979, the college became a Missouri public college, with the name Harris-Stowe State College. The university designation and current name occurred in 2005.

In 2016, Harris-Stowe ranked No. 1 in the state of Missouri and No. 47 in the nation to grant degrees in mathematics and statistics to African-Americans according to the Missouri Department of Higher Education, and the news-magazine, Diverse: Issues in Higher Education, which has ranked institutions that confer the most degrees to minority students for the past 30 years. In 2015, the governor signed a law broadening degree-granting authority to Harris-Stowe, which allows the university to offer graduate programs and achieve parity with Missouri's other 12 state universities. Harris-Stowe offers the most affordable bachelor's degree in the state of Missouri.

Over the past decade, Harris-Stowe has greatly expanded its degree programs and offers on-campus housing. Currently, the university offers more than 63 majors, minors and certificate program options in education, business, STEP

Also emphasized are teamwork, interpersonal skills and work ethic. The general education core contributes to the high level of critical thinking, problem-solving and communication abilities of graduates. As part of their education, many students gain on-the-job experience through internships and clinics.

State Technical College of Missouri monitors the economic, industrial and technological needs of the state as new programs are proposed for development. In response to industry demand over the last decade, State Technical College of Missouri has started or modified over 20 degree and certificate programs. Truman State University, founded in 1867, has the distinction of being Missouri's only state-wide public liberal arts and sciences university. Truman is a residential university focused on providing its 3,700-plus students with exceptionally high-quality academic programs, supportive professors and transformative learning experiences that prepare students to be adaptable in an ever-changing world.

Truman is consistently ranked among the nation's best colleges. For 28 consecutive years, U.S. News and World Report has recognized Truman as the No. 1 public university in the Midwest Regional Category. Truman was rated No. 5 on the list of "Best Value Schools" in the region.

Other accolades include Washington Monthly, which listed Truman as the No. 12 master's university nationwide in their "2024 College Rankings." The Fisk Guide to Colleges 2024 named Truman as one of the top 10 public schools for offering an outstanding educational value. Truman has one of the lowest student-loan default rates in the state of Missouri.

Truman has a long history of being recognized nationally by higher education experts for its assessment program that allows the university to measure the results of the teaching-learning process and to gather critical information on student growth and development to ensure that graduates are prepared for future success. Truman's curriculum provides each student with a foundation of knowledge appropriate to a traditional liberal arts and sciences education. It also requires specialization in a major, providing each student with in-depth knowledge and mastery of a discipline. This exemplary undergraduate education provides graduates with the knowledge and skills necessary to be successful upon graduation and beyond. Truman has the highest public college graduation rate in Missouri as calculated by the Missouri Department of Higher Education. More than 38% of Truman students enter graduate or professional schools within six months of their graduation, while the majority of the remaining graduates directly enter the workforce or engage in full-time service, such as the Peace Corps.

Truman's students are among the best and brightest in their high school graduating classes. Of Truman's 2024 incoming students, 72% had a GPA of 3.7 or greater. Their average ACT score was 27.9. In total, the incoming students represented 101 Missouri counties and 38 other states, territories and Armed Forces locations.

Truman emphasizes high-quality teaching as its top priority. Truman students' benefit from a low student-to-faculty ratio, which allows for greater student-teacher interaction and a more personalized educational experience and factors into Truman having one of the highest retention rates among public colleges and universities in the state according to the Missouri Department of Higher Education. Truman strongly supports undergraduate research with a large number of students doing structured research with faculty both in and outside the classroom. The Higher Learning Commission of the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools has accredited Truman since 1914. Truman is also accredited by AACSB International—The Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business, American Chemical Society, Council on Academic Accreditation in Audiology and Speech-Language Pathology (CAA) of the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association (ASHA), Commission on Accreditation of Athletic Training Education, National Association of Schools of Music, The Council for the Accreditation of Educator Preparation, the Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education and the Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education.

Students may choose to study from 55 undergraduate majors and 12 graduate programs. Many Truman programs are continually recognized for their quality. Examples include Truman's School of Business, which is one of only 192 business programs nationwide to hold accreditation in both business and accounting by AACSB International, the "gold standard" of business accreditation worldwide. The accounting program has been rated No. 1 in the country for the "CPA Success Index" measure developed by the journal "Accounting Today." Truman's master's students are consistently in the top 5% in the country for first-time pass rate on the CPA exam.

Northwest Missouri State University is a co-educational, primarily residential four-year university offering a broad range of undergraduate and selected graduate programs. Founded as a state normal school in 1905, the university has evolved into a vibrant and diverse learning community with an enrollment of more than 9,000 students hailing from 49 states and 47 countries. More than 700 faculty and staff are employed by the university.

Northwest offers more than 100 undergraduate majors with cutting-edge, profession-based programs in areas such as education, business, agriculture, fine and performing arts, communication and mass media, behavioral sciences, health and human services, humanities and social sciences, English and modern languages, computer science and natural sciences. Northwest also offers 34 master's programs, seven certificate programs and three specialist programs.

With its focus on student success—every student, every day—the university emphasizes providing an exceptional student experience that places high value on scholarship and life-long learning, intercultural competence, collaboration, respect and integrity, strategic thinking and excellence.

Profession-based learning experiences are widely available to Northwest students in a variety of fields. The 448-acre R.T. Wright Farm is a living, hands-on laboratory for agriculture students; while the Horace Mann Laboratory School and the Phyllis and Richard Leet Center for Children and Families, which are located in the center of campus and serve children from ages 3 through sixth grade, provides hands-on practical classroom experience for students in education and related fields. Northwest's internationally benchmarked student employment program also offers some 1,200 opportunities for students to gain professional development and specialized training in administrative, communications, environmental and other areas throughout the university.

The emphasis on Northwest's values and profession-based experiences is reflected in the university's high success and graduation rates. Northwest boasts a freshman retention rate of 74% and a graduation rate of 58%, which are considerably higher than the national averages. Additionally, 93% of bachelor's degree earners and 99% of master's degree earners report finding employment or continuing their education within six months of graduation. Furthermore, Northwest student-athletes have an academic success rate of 79%. Northwest has earned a reputation as a university of champions both on and off the field. In addition to boasting competitive athletics teams, including its six-time NCAA Division II national champion football team and four-time national champion men's basketball team, Northwest students compete nationally and excel in fields such as agricultural sciences, forensics and debate, business education and student media.

The first public university in the nation to implement an electronic campus, in 1987, Northwest provides fully-loaded notebook computers for all students. The university also offers an innovative textbook rental program that dates back to the early days of the institution. Combined, these programs save students nearly $6,800 over four years.

Recognizing the importance of needs-based financial support for students, Northwest created the American Dream Grant in 2004, now known as the Northwest Promise Program, a first-of-its-kind program at a public university in the United States. Qualified students meet Northwest admissions criteria and come from the neediest families, based on their applications for federal aid. First-time freshmen are responsible for contributing a portion of their tuition, room and board, which may include private, federal, state and institutional scholarships and grants, and the American Dream Grant fills the remaining gap.

In addition to being a four-time winner of the Missouri Quality Award, Northwest is just the third institution in the nation to receive the American Association of State Colleges and Universities' prestigious Christa McAuliffe Award for Excellence in Teacher Education two times. The Northwest campus also is designated the Missouri Arboretum with more than 1,700 trees and 160 species.

Missouri State University is a public, comprehensive metropolitan system with a statewide mission in public affairs, whose purpose is to develop educated persons. The university's identity is distinguished by its public affairs mission, which entails a campus-wide commitment to foster expertise and responsibility in ethical leadership, cultural competence and community engagement.

The academic experience is grounded in a general education curriculum that draws heavily from the liberal arts and sciences. This foundation provides the basis for mastery of disciplinary and professional studies. It also provides essential forums where students develop the capacity to make well-informed, independent critical judgments about the cultures, values and institutions in society.

The task of developing educated persons obligates the university to expand the store of human understanding through research, scholarship and creative endeavor, and drawing from that store of understanding, to provide service to the communities that support it. In all of its programs, the university uses the most effective methods of discovering and imparting knowledge, and the appropriate use of technology in support of these activities.

The Missouri State University campuses are structured to address the special needs of the urban and rural populations they serve. Missouri State University is a selective admissions, graduate-level teaching and research institution. Missouri State University–West Plains is a separately accredited open-admissions campus primarily serving seven counties in south-central Missouri. Missouri State University–Mountain Grove serves Missouri's fruit industry through operation of the State Fruit Experiment Station.

The university also operates other special facilities, such as the Darr Agricultural Center in southwest Springfield; the Journagan Ranch in Douglas County; the Blunt Innovation Center in downtown Springfield; the Bull Shoals Field Station near Forsyth; Baker's Acres and Observatory near Marshfield; the Missouri State University Graduate Center in Joplin; and a branch campus at Liaoning Normal University in Dalian, China. In addition, Missouri State has the operations and program offerings of one entire academic department, its Department of Defense and Strategic Studies, located near Washington, D.C., in Fairfax, Virginia.

Missouri State University is governed by a Board of Governors. Members are appointed by the governor, with advice and consent of the Missouri Senate. A Missouri State student also sits on the board as a non-voting member.

The university's chief administrative officer is the president. The Missouri State University–West Plains is directed by a chancellor.

The libraries contain Special Collections and University Archives, which house a number of special groups of materials: the William J. Jones collections of Rimbaud and Butor French Literature are internationally recognized, and the Rimbaud portion comprises the largest collection of this type in the United States. The Ozarks Studies Institute, an ongoing initiative of the MSU Libraries, publishes OzarksWatch Magazine twice annually, as well as a book series. The libraries also contain the Infant through Grade 12 Resource Center, which features a children's literature collection, a textbook collection, curriculum guides and special learning materials. The libraries also manage the MSU Testing Center, which serves students and community patrons who take a variety of local and nationally standardized tests. BearWorks, MSU's institutional repository, contains digital student theses, faculty publications and institutional records. A central feature of the library and of the campus is the Jane A. Meyer Carillon with its complement of 48 bronze bells.

Innovation and the use of new technologies are evident in the Missouri State University Libraries. The circulating reserve collection includes Microsoft HoloLens devices, robots, laptops, projectors, charging cables and many other technology items. The library provides 3D printing, wide-format printing and scanning, a virtual reality room and other resources as well.

History: Missouri State University was founded as the Missouri State Normal School, Fourth District, by legislative action on March 17, 1905. Missouri State first opened its doors in June 1906. After undergoing multiple name changes through the years, Missouri State is a comprehensive state university system offering a wide variety of programs and services to its students and the residents of the state.

During the 1995 session of the Missouri General Assembly, Missouri State received a state-wide mission in public affairs, making it the only Missouri university emphasizing the development of aware, committed and active participants in tomorrow's society.

In a campus ceremony on March 17, 2005, the 100th anniversary of Founders' Day, Gov.

Matt Blunt signed Senate Bill 98, which included changing Southwest Missouri State University's name to Missouri State University, the fifth and final name for the university. The institution was founded as the Normal School in 1905, then changed to Southwest Missouri State Teachers College in 1919, Southwest Missouri State College in 1946 and Southwest Missouri State University in 1972. Each new name has reflected the changed nature of the institution.

Missouri State University–Mountain Grove Campus

The Missouri State University–Mountain Grove campus is primarily known for research in agriculture and fruit science. It sits on 193 acres in south-central Missouri. The campus is located just north and east of the intersection of Highway 60 and State Highway 95, and is home to:

The State Fruit Experiment Station has multiple facilities. The 13 acres east of State Highway 95 houses Shepard Hall, with laboratories, offices and a sales area for fruit and wine; Faurot Hall, which contains classrooms, a plant science laboratory and offices; the Missouri State Winery and Distillery; four greenhouses; one shade house; the Ozarks Arboretum; and the National Weather Service NOAA station that has been in operation for over 100 years. The 180-acre area west of State Highway 95 includes an AgEbb weather station; a Forest Technology Systems Station; a USGS seismic station; a high tunnel; fruit and horticultural crop research and demonstration plantings; hay fields; equipment storage buildings; a shop; and a dormitory capable of housing 22 students.

The Center for Grapevine Biotechnology explores the genetic resources of diverse grapevine species to secure the ecological and economic sustainability of the grape and wine industry, as well as to improve human health. This work includes developing new, improved grape varieties by genome-enabled breeding, conducting molecular analysis of grapevine genes and viruses for the management of major diseases, providing clean and virus-tested grapevines to the industry, exploring and identifying health-promoting compounds in native grapevine species and creating a challenging academic environment to train students in plant biotechnology.

The Midwest Viticulture and Enology Center promotes growth of the grape and wine industry through focused research, advisory and service activities. This center coordinates work carried out in viticulture and enology to use available resources in Missouri and surrounding states efficiently.

Missouri State Winery and Distillery is licensed for wine sales and includes a commercially licensed distillery. The facility supports research conducted on specific winemaking problems and offers educational opportunities for Missouri State agriculture students who are interested in enology. Public educational events for artisan distillers, home winemakers and consumers are offered annually. Mountain Grove Cellars produces wine and fruit brandy from fruit grown in the State Fruit Experiment Station research and demonstration vineyards and orchards. Several styles of rum are also produced.

A U.S. Department of Agriculture quarantine facility for the introduction and virus testing of grapes from outside the United States is located at the station. The station's research and advisory programs have been instrumental in the revival of the Missouri grape and wine industry after Prohibition. Today, special emphasis is given to research on the American and hybrid grape varieties and their wines.

Journagan Ranch is a working ranch complete with buildings, equipment and cattle. The ranch, donated by Leo Journagan and his family, is located just 10 miles from the Mountain Grove campus. It is the second-largest single gift in the university's history. The 3,300-plus acres stretch over about seven miles with barns, buildings, vehicles and machinery. Journagan Ranch has some crossbred cattle, but the focus of the operation is purebred Polled Herefords, a variation of Hereford cattle without horns. The ranch has the 15th largest herd of Polled Herefords in the United States. It offers a site for research and teaching in beef genetics and management, agroforestry, soils, water quality and wildlife conservation. It also offers opportunities for hiking and horseback riding. Students working at Journagan Ranch may be housed on the Mountain Grove campus while enrolled in Springfield classes through distance-education technology.

The Missouri State University Mountain Grove Extended Campus is located at Shannon Hall and is administered through Missouri State–West Plains. Shannon Hall includes several classrooms, a computer classroom, distance-learning classroom and science lab.

Founded in 1937 as Joplin Junior College, Missouri Southern State University (MSSU) was established by the General Assembly in 1965 as a two-year, upper-division state college to be operated in conjunction with the Junior College District of Jasper County. Missouri Southern operated under this arrangement through June 30, 1977, when the state assumed the responsibility of funding and operating the four-year program. Missouri Southern State College became Missouri Southern State University after Gov. Bob Holden signed Senate Bill 55 on July 12, 2003. The legislation also allowed MSSU to enter into cooperative agreements with other state universities to provide graduate programs.

MSSU is committed to the success of its students through a First-Year Experience program, an emphasis on strong academic advising and a campus committed to service-learning, engaging student organizations and intramural activities. MSSU also offers highly competitive NCAA Division II athletic programs in the Mid-America Intercollegiate Athletics Association. In June 1990, MSSU's board approved a change in the university mission to include an international emphasis in undergraduate education. This change is intended to help students compete in the global environment.

The following degrees are offered: Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Fine Arts, Bachelor of Science, Bachelor of Science in Business Administration, Bachelor of Science in Education, Bachelor of General Studies and Associate of Science. The university offers bachelor's degrees in nearly 150 major areas in liberal arts, teacher education, business and technology. In addition to the four-year programs, the curriculum offers pre-medicine, pre-engineering and other pre-professional programs, as well as two-year associate degrees in dental hygiene, computer information science, law enforcement, radiological technology, manufacturing engineering technology and respiratory therapy.

The university also offers the following graduate programs: Master of Business Administration, Master of Science in Data Analytics, Master of Science in Justice Studies, Master of Science in Health Care Administration, Master of Science in Sport and Recreation Management, Master of Arts in Teaching, Master of Science in Curriculum and Instruction, and Master of Science in K-12 School Administration.

The university is organized into three colleges: Arts and Sciences, Health and Life Sciences, and Education and Business Communication. Under a revised and moderately selective admission policy, the university encourages high school students to be better prepared for college study by following the core curriculum requirements outlined by the Missouri Coordinating Board for Higher Education.

The administration of the university is vested in an nine-member Board of Governors appointed by the governor with Senate consent. The 373-acre university campus is located in Joplin, a southwest Missouri city with a population of more than 50,000. The MSSU campus consists of 30 major buildings, including the 65,000-square-foot Beimdiek Recreation Center and the 85,000-square-foot Julio S. Leon Health Sciences Center, as well as a performing arts center, an artificial turf football field, a 3,200-seat athletic center with a 200-meter indoor track and a modern library with access to the latest online and electronic databases. In 2021 Lion Village, the latest addition to campus residential offerings, was completed. The four-story, 92,000-square-foot building houses over 300 students featuring private study areas, meeting rooms and a theatre. The Missouri 3D Printing Center for Precision Health launched in 2025, serving as a hub for advanced research, workforce development, and faculty regional partnerships. The university also expects the opening of the Roy Blunt Health Sciences Innovation Center in 2026. The new center is part of MSSU's ongoing commitment to expanding its health sciences programs and equipping students with the skills and knowledge they need to thrive in the healthcare field.

The university is accredited by the Higher Learning Commission, Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education, Council for the Accreditation of Educator Preparation, Missouri Department of Health and Senior Services Bureau, Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology in Engineering Technology, Accreditation Council for Business Schools and Programs, Commission on Dental Accreditation, American Dental Association, Committee on Accreditation of Educational Programs for the Emergency Medical Services Professions, Commission on Accreditation for Respiratory Care, Joint Review Committee on Education in Founded as St. Joseph Junior College in 1915, Missouri Western transformed into a four-year institution in 1969, became a full member of the State of Missouri system in 1977 and earned university designation in 2005.

The university designation legislation also made Missouri Western the statewide institution of applied learning. Applied learning refers to any activity in which students use course content and skills in real-world, hands-on settings to support career readiness, including internships, mentored research, performances, service-learning and more. The university is committed to providing 100% of students with an applied learning experience prior to graduation. Missouri Western is also designated by statute as one of the state's open admissions universities, offering opportunities for all of Missouri's citizens to pursue higher education.

Missouri Western is organized into three colleges. The College of Liberal Arts prepares students in the fine arts, humanities, social sciences and communication. The College of Business and Professional Studies includes criminal justice, legal studies, education, engineering technology and the Steven L. Craig School of Business.

The institution is accredited by the Higher Learning Commission, a commission of the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools. Program accreditations include the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business, AACSB International; Commission on Accreditation for Health Informatics and Information Management Education; Commission on Accreditation in Physical Therapy Education; Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education; Council for the Accreditation of Educator Preparation; Council on Social Work Education; Engineering Technology Accreditation Commission of ABET; and National Association of Schools of Music. Missouri Western also has curriculum approval from the American Chemical Society and the American Bar Association and is designated an All-Steinway School.

The 723-acre campus features a prairie restoration project, the John Rushin Teaching and Research Prairie, as well as walking trails and nine ponds. In 2010, Missouri Western became the summer training camp home of the Kansas City Chiefs. In 2013, Missouri Western dedicated the 6,000-square-foot Walter Cronkite Memorial in honor of the legendary journalist who was born in St. Joseph.

For more than 150 years, the University of Central Missouri (UCM) has had a longstanding tradition of providing higher education programs that help prepare a highly skilled workforce for the state of Missouri.

UCM serves approximately 13,000 students representing 48 states and 55 countries. The university's academic offerings are numerous and feature approximately 150 programs of study, including undergraduate and graduate degrees, as well as certificates, in areas such as business, nursing, communication, computer science, cybersecurity and education that help students prepare for and advance in professional careers. At UCM, education extends beyond books to include service-learning projects, study abroad opportunities and real-world experiences.

UCM began as a state normal school in 1871. With a motto of "Education for Service," the university has remained consistent in its pursuit to transform students into lifelong learners dedicated to serving their communities. This consistency has been the key to institutional success and the continued success of every individual who graduates with a UCM degree. In fact, 94 percent of UCM graduates launch their careers or continue their education within six months of graduation.

Fully accredited by the Higher Learning Commission (HLC), UCM has gained national attention using innovative approaches to help lower the cost of college, accelerate the time it takes to complete a degree, eliminate the skills gap and prepare graduates to be workforce-ready, while also reducing students' college debt. Opportunities at the Missouri Innovation Campus (MIC) exemplify the institution's pride and commitment to becoming a change maker in higher education. UCM's goal is to enrich each student's perspective through a cumulative experience that begins with academic rigor and integrates applied learning and servant leadership opportunities.

The university cultivates a global perspective on campus, with more than 2,900 international students who are supported by the Office of International Student Services. Students can also study abroad, join faculty-led study programs, or participate in UCM's Global Vision scholarship program, which offers students the opportunity to travel domestically or internationally while giving back to the community they visit.

Undergraduate degrees conferred by the university include the Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Fine Arts, Bachelor of Music, Bachelor of Music Education, Bachelor of Science, Bachelor of Science in Business Administration, Bachelor of Science in Education and Bachelor of Social Work.

At the graduate level, UCM offers excellent programs leading to Master of Arts, Master of Arts in Teaching, Master of Business Administration, Master of Library Science, Master of Science, Master of Science in Education and Education Specialist degrees. In addition, a cooperative doctoral program in technology management is available in conjunction with Indiana State University (ISU), which serves as the degree-granting institution.

The university's academic affairs division is divided into four core academic colleges:

- The Adrian and Margaret Harmon College of Business and Professional Studies features departments of Aviation; Accountability, Big Data Analytics and Computer Information Systems; Criminal Justice and Criminology; Economics and Finance; Human Services; Management; Marketing, Public Relations and Sport Management; and Military Science and Leadership. The Harmon College also includes the Missouri Safety Center, the Central Missouri Police Academy and the Crisis and Disaster Management Program.

- The College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences provides a comprehensive liberal arts foundation in support of the entire university curriculum while also preparing graduates in areas such as Art and Design; Music; Theatre and Dance; Communication and Digital Media Production; English; History; Modern Languages and Interdisciplinary Studies; Sociology, Anthropology and Social Studies; and Government, Law and International Affairs.
- The College of Education prepares teachers for all grade levels, as well as professionals, through its academic departments in Career and Technical Education; Counseling and Educational Leadership; Early, Elementary, Middle and Physical Education; Educational Foundations and Literacy; Educational Technology and Library Science; and Special Education and Behavior Analysis. UCM also offers a degree pathway program for paraprofessionals, which focuses on removing obstacles to successful completion of a teaching degree or certification.
- The College of Health, Science, and Technology offers schools of Nursing and Industrial Sciences and Technology and departments of Agriculture; Biological and Clinical Sciences; Computer Science and Cybersecurity; Mathematics, Actuarial Science and Statistics; Nutrition, Kinesiology and Health; Occupational Risk and Safety Sciences; Physical Sciences; and Psychological Science.
- The Honors College at UCM was established in 1958 and is the second oldest program of its kind west of the Mississippi River.

The main campus—with its instructional buildings, Elliott Student Union, Student Recreation and Wellness Center, James C. Kirkpatrick Library, conveniently-located residence halls and modern family housing—is the center of university life. However, the complete physical plant comprises more than 1,300 acres, including the Prussing Farm, the Mitchell Street Farm, the 300-acre Pertle Springs recreational and biological research area and Max B. Swisher Skyhaven Airport.

Completed in 1999, the James C. Kirkpatrick Library is an advanced research and information facility designed to support the comprehensive range of the university's academic programs and statewide mission in technology. The library is built for the demands of the 21st century, offering a myriad of sophisticated learning tools and information connections expanding worldwide. It serves as the university's central space for academic learning, housing the Learning Commons, the Center for Teaching and Learning, and the University Museum and Archives.

UCM is the only university in the state of Missouri to operate its own public-use airport, the Max B. Swisher Skyhaven Airport, and the only institution in the nation to offer a master's degree in Aviation Management. In 2023, UCM opened the Skyhaven Aviation Center, a $5.1 million, 10,000-square-foot facility that serves as a catalyst for local and regional economic development while also contributing to the advancement and future of aviation education. It was designed to serve the needs of private pilots while also preparing UCM students to become part of a high-demand industry as professional pilots.

Other campus initiatives include The Crossing-South at Holden, a 325-bed housing-retail facility completed in 2015; a $36 million campus-wide energy efficiency project completed in 2011; and a $39 million renovation of the Humphreys Building that is expected to be completed in 2026.

UCM's strong connection to the Kansas City region includes UCM-Lee's Summit, which offers courses within the Missouri Innovation Campus (MIC), a unique state-of-the-art building that opened in fall 2017 and expanded in 2025. UCM programs offered at the MIC are developed in cooperation with industry partners and designed to meet workforce development needs. This includes certificate-level programs to address specific training needs, helping adult workers stay up to date in an ever-changing technological workforce or move up the career ladder.

While the MIC houses all UCM-Lee's Summit programs taught by UCM faculty, it also houses the MIC academic program, which was created in 2012 in cooperation with the Lee's Summit R-7 School District, Metropolitan Community College (MCC) and numerous Kansas City area corporations. Students attending the district's Summit Technology Academy begin the MIC program in their junior year of high school, and by approximately the same time they earn their high school diploma, they will have completed an associate degree from MCC. Within the next two years, they will complete their four-year degree from UCM while gaining paid internship experience and greatly reducing the cost of their college education.

UCM also has a long and rich history of excellence in athletics, both on the field of play and in the classroom. Outstanding teams, combined with some of the finest facilities in Division II athletics, give UCM's students, faculty and staff one more aspect of college life to enjoy with pride.

The department is composed of the Labor and Industrial Relations Commission and five divisions: the Division of Employment Security administers unemployment claims; the Division of Workers' Compensation ensures that workers injured on the job receive the benefits they deserve and investigates allegations of workers' compensation fraud and non-compliance; the State Board of Mediation determines the appropriate bargaining unit for public employees; the Division of Labor Standards regulates wages and wage rates and promotes safe working environments; and the Missouri Human Rights Commission enforces and adjudicates Missouri's anti-discriminatory, fair housing, employment and public accommodation statutes.

The Labor and Industrial Relations Commission is composed of three commissioners. Each commissioner is appointed to a staggered six-year term by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate. One member of the commission, a licensed Missouri attorney, represents the public. The other two members represent employers and employees, respectively. The governor designates one member as chair. The commission hears appeals from administrative decisions in workers' compensation, unemployment compensation, tort victims' compensation cases and objections to prevailing wage disputes. In addition, the commission is charged with the statutory authority to approve or disapprove all rules or regulations declared by the divisions within the department.

The Division of Employment Security was established in 1946 to administer the Missouri Unemployment Compensation Law. The division collects tax contributions from employers and pays unemployment benefits to individuals who are determined eligible under the law. State unemployment contributions paid by Missouri employers into the Missouri Trust Fund are set aside for the sole purpose of providing for the payment of weekly unemployment benefits to qualified claimants. The division consists of four sections: benefits, tax, appeals and integrity.

Unemployment Insurance

The unemployment benefits paid to insured workers help maintain the economy of the state during periods of economic downturn by helping preserve the level of consumer purchasing power. The program is a joint state-federal program funded solely through tax contributions paid by employers, so no deductions are made from employees' paychecks for this insurance. Payments of benefits under the regular program are made from a trust fund, financed by the aforementioned employer tax contributions. Eligible claimants can qualify for up to 20 weeks of unemployment compensation under the state's benefit program. The average weekly benefit amount in FY 2024 was $291.08, and the maximum benefit amount was $320.00.

Unemployment Insurance Tax

The division's tax section receives and processes required reports and tax contributions from employers. For CY 2024, over 197,000 liable employers' accounts were maintained including over 29,000 new liable employers. Through employer audits, the division educates the public on the purpose of the tax program and verifies correct employer reporting, including proper worker classification. Correct reporting helps ensure the prompt payment of unemployment benefits to insured workers during periods of unemployment, and also promotes an equitable business environment for employers operating in Missouri. Employment security law includes an experience rating provision as an incentive for employers to maintain stable employment, review claims and reduce unemployment. Missouri is one of only sixteen states that allow an employer to earn a minimum UI tax rate of 0%. Employers file quarterly contribution and wage reports with the division to report their workers' earnings. Reports may be filed online at uinteract.labor.mo.gov.

Payment of Benefits

One of the main objectives of the division is the prompt payment of unemployment benefits to eligible claimants. Unemployed Missouri workers can file initial and weekly claims for unemployment compensation online at uinteract.labor.mo.gov or by phone through four claims centers located in Jefferson City, St. Louis, Kansas City and Springfield. A person must have worked in employment covered under the Missouri Employment Security Law and earned enough qualifying wages in order to establish a claim for unemployment benefits. Detailed wage records are kept on every worker reported by employers on the quarterly contribution and wage report in order to calculate benefits.

Integrity Efforts

The DES uses an identity verification solution for all unemployment claims filed. The program is designed to ensure that the information provided during the claim intake process is correct and belongs to the person filing a claim for unemployment benefits prior to unemployment benefits being paid. Through numerous additional cross-match systems, including the federal and state new-hire databases, the division identifies claimants committing unemployment fraud. During CY 2024, the division recovered $17.8 million of improperly paid benefits and more than $2.8 million in fraud penalties.

The division continues its efforts to ensure businesses properly classify workers. Worker misclassification occurs when employers improperly classify their employees to avoid paying employment taxes. The division's worker misclassification taskforce focuses resources to target industries likely to violate worker classification laws. In 2024, 4,000 misclassified workers were identified.

The Division of Workers' Compensation administers the Workers' Compensation Law. The division's responsibility to adjudicate and resolve disputes under the law are fulfilled by Administrative Law Judges in the eight adjudication offices located throughout the state of Missouri. The division's Central Office in Jefferson City processes the filings that are received by the parties to the case, generates correspondence and responds to calls that are placed on the toll free line. The division's programs and services extend to all customers including Missouri workers who sustain an accident, injury or develop occupational diseases in the course and scope of employment.

Missouri employers that are governed by and subject to the Workers' Compensation Law, are required to either purchase workers' compensation insurance coverage with an insurance carrier that is authorized to write insurance in the state of Missouri, or obtain approval from the division to self-insure their workers' compensation liability. In order to ensure payment of the workers' compensation liabilities, self-insured employers must provide security in an amount determined by the division in the form of a surety bond, letter of credit or deposit of certain securities in escrow account.

Benefits available through the workers' compensation system include medical treatment to cure and relieve the employee from the effects of the injury, temporary total disability benefits, and permanent partial or permanent total disability benefits. If the injury results in the employee's death, the dependents are entitled to receive burial expenses and death benefits as determined by law. Injured workers can also qualify for benefits from the Second Injury Fund (SIF), which may provide additional benefits for injured workers with pre-existing and serious injuries.

Most workers' compensation cases are resolved without lengthy proceedings, as was the intent of the workers' compensation system approved by Missouri voters in 1926. The cases that are not resolved through the settlement process typically result in an evidentiary hearing before a Division Administrative Law Judge where a determination is made on what, if any, benefits are owed to the injured worker. If any party disagrees with the Administrative Law Judge's ruling, an appeal may be made to the Labor and Industrial Relations Commission.

The division's Fraud and Noncompliance Unit investigates allegations of fraud and noncompliance perpetrated by a person or entity. At the conclusion of the investigation, the findings are presented to the division director who may refer the file to the Missouri Attorney General's Office for possible prosecution.

The division administers the Line of Duty Compensation Program that provides benefits to dependents of a firefighter, volunteer firefighter, law enforcement officer, air ambulance pilot, air ambulance registered professional nurse, air ambulance registered respiratory therapist, flight crew member, public safety officer or emergency medical technician killed in the line of duty. In 2001, the General Assembly enacted legislation authorizing claims to be made against the Tort Victims' Compensation Fund, authorizing the division to establish criteria and evaluate the claims.

The State Board of Mediation is a quasi-judicial board created by the General Assembly in 1947 to assist in the resolution of labor disputes in the public utility industry. The board's primary activity, however, changed in 1965 with the passage of the Public Sector Labor Law, sections 105.500 to 105.530 of the Missouri Revised Statutes. This law authorizes the board to determine appropriate bargaining units of public employees based on their community of interests and to conduct secret ballot elections to determine whether a majority of the employees in a bargaining unit agree to be represented by a petitioning labor organization.

The board consists of five members appointed by the governor. Two members are employers or selected from an association representing employers, two members hold membership in a bona fide trade or labor union and the fifth member is a neutral party who serves as full-time chair and administrator of the agency.

If a public employer and a petitioning labor organization cannot agree on which employees should be included in an appropriate bargaining unit or on the manner of conducting the election, the board will hold a formal hearing at which the parties may present evidence and legal arguments in support of their positions on the disputed questions. After considering the evidence and legal arguments, the board issues a written decision resolving the disputes.

If a majority of the members of a bargaining unit vote for the labor organization in a board-conducted election, the board certifies it as the exclusive bargaining representative for all the unit members for the purposes of collective bargaining. The labor organization will then negotiate with the public employer of the unit members over salaries and other conditions of employment with the goal of reaching a written agreement governing these matters.

The board's jurisdiction under the Public Sector Labor Law to determine appropriate bargaining units and to certify exclusive bargaining representatives extends to almost all public employees, including those employed by the state and its agencies, counties, cities, school districts and other special districts.

labor.mo.gov/dls
Email: laborstandards@labor.mo.gov

The Division of Labor Standards currently consists of five sections: Wage and Hour, On-Site Safety and Health Consultation, Mine and Cave Safety, Workers' Safety, and Research and Analysis.

Wage and Hour Section

The Wage and Hour Section provides information for Missouri's labor laws, including allowable breaks, lunches, vacations, hiring, wage levels, youth employment and minimum wage laws. It administers Missouri's prevailing wage law. Prevailing wage survey information for all applicable construction projects are submitted on an ongoing basis.

The Wage and Hour Section administers and enforces Missouri's child labor law. The law ensures that no child younger than 16 years of age is employed in an occupation that is detrimental to the child's safety, health, morals, educational processes or general well-being. Youth under 14 years of age are not permitted to work at any job (other than in the agriculture or entertainment industries or casual jobs) at any time. Youth who are 14 or 15 generally are permitted to work, but their work as well as the work of all children in the entertainment industry, is subject to restrictions. A child 14 or 15 years old may not be employed during the regular school term unless the public school superintendent or designee of the district where the youth lives has issued a work certificate. Youth under 16 may work in the entertainment industry if the division issues the youth a work permit.

The Wage and Hour Section is also responsible for the administration and enforcement of Missouri's minimum wage law. The minimum wage rate increased to $12.35 per hour for private employers on Jan. 1, 2024. The passage of Proposition A by the voters on Nov. 4, 2024 indicates that the minimum wage will increase first to $13.75 per hour in 2025, then $15.00 per hour in 2026.

On-Site Safety and Health Section

The On-Site Safety and Health Section offers a free, confidential consultation service to assist small employers in complying with federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) regulations. Because employers utilize the program, workplace injuries and illnesses are reduced. At the employer's request, a consultant visits the workplace, informs the employer of identified hazards, and recommends solutions for hazard correction. In FY 2024, the On-Site Program helped Missouri small employers avoid more than $20.5 million in potential OSHA fines by eliminating hazards within the workplace.

The Safety and Health Achievement Recognition Program (SHARP) is an exemplary program for businesses with less than 250 employees on-site and less than 500 employees nationwide. Participants who operate effective safety and health management systems and have injury and illness rates below the national average can receive up to a three-year exemption from OSHA-programmed inspections.

LOGAN HOBBS
Director
Division of Labor Standards

Mine and Cave Inspection Section

The Mine and Cave Inspection Program operates by the authority of Chapter 293, RSMo. Inspectors travel to mine and cave sites on a regular basis to inspect the property for safety and health hazards, including unsafe processes or work procedures that could cause injury, illness or fatalities. All safety and health conditions of the site are inspected, and all hazards identified are corrected in a timely manner. Cost-effective recommendations on how to abate any safety or health problem are offered and consultations on any condition are available to the operator to bring them into compliance with state and federal laws.

The program is authorized and directed to train necessary mine rescue teams located at mine sites around the state and to coordinate any rescue efforts that may occur due to a disaster.

A listing of the caves inspected by the program can be found online at labor.mo.gov/DLS/WorkplaceSafety/minecave.

The Mine and Cave Safety and Health Section trains and retrains miners in the practice of implementing safe and healthy working habits in the mining workplace. This training is partially funded by a grant through the U.S. Department of Labor, Mine Safety and Health Administration (MSHA). Each miner must receive an initial safety and health training and annual retraining. Instructors conduct safety and health audits, prepare site-specific lesson plans corresponding to the training plan of the company, then present innovative training topics to the miners.

Workers' Safety Section

The Workers' Safety section is funded through the Division of Workers' Compensation, but administered within the Division of Labor Standards to provide safety management resources to Missouri insurance carriers for workers' compensation coverage. This section maintains a registry of safety consultants and safety engineers, certified by the Department of Labor and Industrial Relations as available to provide safety services within the state of Missouri.

Research and Analysis Section

The Research and Analysis section of the Missouri Department of Labor and Industrial Relations collaborates with the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics in conducting the yearly Survey of Occupational Injuries and Illnesses and the Census of Fatal Occupational Injuries. The Survey of Occupational Injuries and Illnesses collects data from approximately 5,400 private industry employers in Missouri. Survey information includes occupation and other demographic information of workers who incur work-related injuries and illnesses, the nature of the conditions and how they occurred, and the time away from work. The Census of Fatal Occupational Injuries monitors the number of workplace fatalities each year in the state of Missouri. This data assists in the development of workplace safety programs across the state.

The Department of Mental Health (DMH) was officially established on July 1, 1974, as a cabinet-level state agency by the Omnibus State Government Reorganization Act; however, its functions date back to 1847. The department serves as the state's mental health authority, establishing philosophy, policy and standards of care.

State law provides three principal missions for the department: the prevention of mental disorders, developmental disabilities, substance use/misuse; the treatment, habilitation and rehabilitation of Missourians who have those conditions; and the improvement of public understanding and attitudes about mental disorders, developmental disabilities and substance use disorders.

The vision for the Missouri Department of Mental Health is: "Missourians are safe, valued and supported community members."

Missourians must know mental illness is treatable, persons with substance use disorders can triumph over their addictions and persons with developmental disabilities can be productive citizens and good neighbors in their communities.

Mental Health Commission

The commission, composed of seven members, appoints the director of the Department of Mental Health with confirmation of the Senate. Commissioners are appointed to four-year terms by the governor, again with the confirmation of the Senate. The commissioners serve as policy advisors to the department director. The commission, by law, must include an advocate of community mental health centers, a physician who is an expert in the treatment of mental illness, a

The division is responsible for five adult psychiatric facilities, one children's facility and a statewide network of contracted community providers. Approximately 138,000 people receive behavioral health services each year from programs operated or contracted by the division.

The division oversees six state-operated facilities for people with serious mental illnesses and children with severe emotional disturbances. All are accredited by The Joint Commission (TJC) and certified by the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) to provide Medicare services. The facilities include: Fulton State Hospital; St. Louis Forensic Treatment Centers, North Campus and South Campus; Hawthorn Children's Psychiatric Hospital, St. Louis; Center for Behavioral Medicine, Kansas City; Northwest Missouri Psychiatric Rehabilitation Center, St. Joseph; and Southeast Missouri Mental Health Center, Farmington. The Sex Offender Rehabilitation and Treatment Services program operates in secure facilities in both Farmington and Fulton.

Substance use/misuse prevention and mental health promotion are offered through community- and school-based providers that target individuals, families and communities. Emphasis is placed on evidence-based programs and practices. There is a network of community coalitions, statewide training resource centers, a prevention resource center, direct service programs for high-risk youth, college-based services and school-based prevention and intervention programs, as well as other statewide initiatives, including suicide prevention.

The Missouri Model of Crisis Intervention represents a partnership between law enforcement, the Department of Mental Health, the Missouri Behavioral Health Council and community stakeholders. It addresses the needs of individuals in crisis with a focus on the right interventions provided in the right way at the right time to improve outcomes and efficiently manage resources. Community Mental Health Liaisons (CMHLs) work with local law enforcement and court personnel to connect people experiencing behavioral health crisis to treatment and community services. Youth Behavioral Health Liaisons (YBHLs) form local community partnerships with various youth-serving organizations to address specific behavioral health needs of vulnerable children and youth. Crisis Intervention Team (CIT) Training instructs officers how to approach and assist individuals who are experiencing a mental health crisis and builds coalitions of local community stakeholders. The Missouri State CIT Council developed the Missouri Model for CIT Training. Emergency Room Enhancement (ERE) Projects work in coordination with hospitals and clinics to assist with people in behavioral health crises. Mental Health First Aid (MHFA) Training teaches participants about the signs and symptoms of specific illnesses like anxiety, depression, schizophrenia, bipolar disorder and addictions.

Missouri Advisory Council

The Division of Behavioral Health State Advisory Council (SAC) advises the Division in the development, funding, prevention, public understanding and coordination of specialized services to meet the needs of Missourians with mental health and substance use disorders.

The Center for Behavioral Medicine (CBM) is a 65-bed facility that provides forensic evaluations, and inpatient competency restoration services to adult residents from 54 counties on the western half of Missouri. The Forensic Evaluation Service serves the courts of Missouri by providing comprehensive, court-ordered evaluations regarding various legal issues—the most common being competency to stand trial. The function of the Inpatient Competency Restoration Service is to restore competency for those individuals who have been committed by the courts to the Department of Mental Health as incompetent to stand trial. CBM also operates three licensed group homes that maintain 25 adult residential beds in the community for individuals with serious mental illness and intellectual disabilities. The inpatient facility is located on Hospital Hill in the heart of Kansas City and serves as a training site for the University of Missouri–Kansas City's Department of Psychiatry. The Center focuses its services on bridging the gap between physical and behavioral health care. CBM incorporates evidence based treatment models and provides a therapeutic approach to recovery that assists individuals in progressing, regardless of their limitations and symptoms.

Fulton State Hospital, authorized in 1847 and opened in 1851, is the oldest public mental health facility west of the Mississippi River. The 300-bed hospital provides inpatient adult psychiatric services, including treatment and psycho-social rehabilitation for forensic patients and other patients requiring long-term inpatient care. The term "forensic" is used to describe individuals who are charged with a crime and have been committed to the Department of Mental Health by a circuit court for either a pre-trial or presentence evaluation, for restoration of competence to stand trial or as a result of an adjudication of Not Guilty by Reason of Mental Disease or Defect (NGRI). Specifically, the hospital serves patients from the entire state who require hospitalization in a high security setting, individuals who have been committed to the Department of Mental Health as sexually violent predators and forensic patients with developmental disabilities who require a minimum-security setting, and individuals from the community with behavioral health and intellectual and developmental disorders.

Fulton has Missouri's only high-security inpatient psychiatric unit. The Jeremiah W. (Jay) Nixon Forensic Center provides treatment for individuals referred by the courts who have committed major offenses or those whose behavior in other settings demonstrates a need for a high-security setting.

A 125-bed Sexual Offender Rehabilitation and Treatment Services program serves individuals committed to the Department of Mental Health as sexually violent predators. Another 24-bed program serves patients with developmental disabilities on forensic commitments who can be safely treated within a minimum-security setting, and a 15-bed program that serves individuals with serious mental illness and intellectual and developmental disorders.

The hospital has training affiliations with several central Missouri colleges and universities, and provides training experiences in psychiatry, psychology, nursing, social work and recreational therapy.

Hawthorn Children's Psychiatric Hospital provides inpatient and residential psychiatric treatment services for children and adolescents with severe emotional disturbances, ages 6 to 17. The hospital serves residents from all of Missouri.

Hawthorn has been a free-standing child psychiatric facility in St. Louis County since 1989. The 26-acre campus consists of a main building and five cottages. There are 20 inpatient and 24 residential treatment beds.

Youth admitted to Hawthorn are provided comprehensive mental health treatment services designed to address their psychiatric, psychological, social, educational, vocational and recreational needs. The treatment programs rely on evidence-based practices and deliver services in a trauma-informed milieu. As a service to the community, Hawthorn also provides mental health information and consultation regarding the treatment of children and adolescents. The hospital serves as a training facility for a wide range of mental health professionals. Hawthorn also participates fully with other community agencies in the planning and development of mental health services for the children in the community.

Northwest Missouri Psychiatric Rehabilitation Center (NMPRC) provides long-term inpatient psychiatric treatment and rehabilitation to Missouri residents with severe mental illness referred by the criminal justice system.

The hospital opened as State Lunatic Asylum No. 2 in November 1874 on land east of St. Joseph. The capacity ranged from 250 beds to nearly 3,000 in the 1950s, and the name was changed to St. Joseph State Hospital. Over the years, downsizing occurred with the advent of better treatment options and emphasis on returning patients to the community.

In 1997, St. Joseph State Hospital was replaced with the current facility and renamed Northwest Missouri Psychiatric Rehabilitation Center. NMPRC currently provides 108 beds for adult psychiatric patients. Three 25-bed wings are designated as minimum security while six eight-bed cottages are designated as open-campus security.

The three minimum security wings serve as the entry point for patients transferring from other DMH psychiatric hospitals for psychiatric treatment and rehabilitation. The majority of the clients served have been committed to DMH by a criminal court as Not Guilty by Reason of Mental Disease or Defect (NGRI) or a finding of Permanently Incompetence to Stand Trial (PIST). Six eight-bed coed cottages are designed to simulate a community environment, while still providing a structured and supportive setting. NMPRC utilizes evidence based treatment models to provide clients with skills necessary for their recovery and their successful reintegration into the community.

Department of Mental Health's (DMH) Division of Behavioral Health (DBH). Prior to November of 2020, the FTC was known as St. Louis Psychiatric Rehabilitation Center, but changed its name due to the acquisition of 50 inpatient beds operated by the Metropolitan St. Louis Psychiatric Center on Dec. 1, 2020.

The staff at FTC provide an array of mental health services to a population primarily comprised of adults 18 years and older who have been committed to the Department of Mental Health by a criminal court under the mental health provisions of Chapter 552 of the Revised Statutes of Missouri (RSMo) either for Competency Restoration, or upon an adjudication of Not Guilty by Reason of Mental Disease or Defect (NGRI), or upon a finding of Permanent Incompetence to Stand Trial (PIST).

In addition, FTC conducts pretrial evaluations on an outpatient basis upon a court order to assess for competence to stand trial and/or criminal responsibility.

The FTC is comprised of two campuses, one a 180-bed site located in South St. Louis City, and the other a 75-bed site located in North St. Louis City, also known as Forensic Treatment Center South (FTC-S), and Forensic Treatment Center North (FTC-N), respectively. The FTC-N location provides inpatient competency restoration and outpatient forensic evaluation. The FTC-S location provides inpatient services for the NGRI, PIST, and VBG populations. Clients admitted require intensive treatment, a medication regimen, and psychosocial rehabilitation services either to be restored to competence, or to achieve the psychiatric stability and relapse prevention plan necessary for discharge from hospital-based care and for safe and successful reintegration into the community.

Southeast Missouri Mental Health Center (SMMHC) opened in 1903 as Farmington State Hospital. In 1987, the state hospital was converted into a mental health center and moved into a building adjacent to its original site. SMMHC provides two services - Adult Psychiatric Services (APS) and Sexual Offender Rehabilitation and Treatment Services (SORTS).

APS operates 170 longer stay inpatient beds for persons demonstrating persistently dangerous behaviors and ongoing impairment in social function and daily living skills due to mental illness. Many of these persons are admitted under the criminal court statute Chapter 552, RSMo as Not Guilty by Reason of Mental Disease of Defect (NGRI) or as Permanently Incompetent to Stand Trial (PIST).

SORTS operates up to 178 beds for persons adjudicated as Sexually Violent Predators (SVP's) under Chapter 632 RSMo. Persons detained or committed under this statute receive care and treatment either at SMMHC or its sister facility, Fulton State Hospital.

APS and SORTS both offer patients multiple treatment programs or modalities. These different treatment options help to ensure that each patient has available the best treatment for their individual needs. Treatment teams are interdisciplinary with members who are nurses, psychiatrists, psychologists, counselors, social workers, activity and vocational therapists, teachers and clergy either on the teams or available for consultation. Treatments include various types of psychotherapy, both individual and group, psychoeducational groups and medication. Primary care medical staff and nursing also take care of all non-psychiatric medical needs. In all cases, the goals are the same—to reduce signs and symptoms of illness and build skills which will allow each individual the opportunity to lead fulfilling lives in the community upon release.

Division of Developmental Disabilities

The Division of Developmental Disabilities (DD), established in 1974, serves persons with developmental disabilities such as cerebral palsy, head injuries, autism, epilepsy and certain learning disabilities. Such conditions must have occurred before age 22 with the expectation that they will continue. To be eligible for services from the division, persons with these disabilities must have substantial functional limitations in two or more of the following six areas of major life activities: self-care, receptive and expressive language development and use, learning, self-direction, capacity for independent living or economic self-sufficiency and mobility.

The division's focus is on improving the lives of persons with developmental disabilities and their families through programs, support and services to enable persons with developmental disabilities to live independently and productively. In 1988, the division began participation in the Medicaid home- and community-based waiver program designed to help expand needed services throughout the state.

Specialized services are either provided directly or purchased through contracts by 17 entities operated by the division. The division's regional and satellite offices are the primary points of entry into and exit from the system. These offices determine eligibility, work with individuals and families and contract with SB40 boards (local county boards for the developmentally disabled) and private providers for the provision of a comprehensive array of services in the following areas: Albany, Central Missouri, Hannibal, Joplin, Kansas City, Kirksville, Poplar Bluff, Rolla, Sikeston, Springfield and St. Louis. There are also six state-operated programs: Bellefontaine Habilitation Center, Higginsville Habilitation Center, Northwest Community Services, Southeast Missouri Residential Services, St. Louis Developmental Disabilities Treatment Center and Southwest Community Services, which primarily provide residential care and habilitation services to persons who are medically and behaviorally challenged or court-committed. All habilitation centers are Title XIX-certified as Intermediate Care Facilities for the Mentally Retarded (ICF/MR).

The Missouri Developmental Disabilities Council was created in 1971 under federal legislation. The council's federal mandate is to plan, advocate for and give advice concerning programs and services for persons with developmental disabilities that will increase their opportunities for independence, productivity and integration into communities. The council also serves, under Missouri statute, as the Missouri Advisory Council on Developmental Disabilities, providing advice to the division and the division director. The council has 22 members, appointed by the governor.

Lineage

The Missouri National Guard is a recognized community and national leader in Soldier, Airmen, and family readiness, possessing agile and effective units capable of responding to changing demands at home and abroad.

The Missouri National Guard's military lineage dates to units organized in the St. Louis area under French and Spanish colonial rule in the 18th century. Since then, Guard units have performed state emergency duty hundreds of times along with serving in their federal roles. Missouri National Guard units, their predecessors, and members saw active service in the Revolutionary War, War of 1812, Mexican American War, Civil War, Spanish American War, World Wars I and II, Korea, the Berlin Crisis, Vietnam, Operation Just Cause in Panama, Operation Desert Shield and Operation Desert Storm, Somalia, Haiti, Joint Endeavor/Joint Guard in the Balkans, Kosovo, Afghanistan, Iraq, Kuwait, Africa, and Libya.

Role and Mission

Unique among all the nation's armed forces, the National Guard has a dual state and federal role under the U.S. Constitution.

The Guard is Missouri's force in times of disaster and emergency. Missions traditionally include response to flooding, ice storms, blizzards, extreme heat, tornadoes, pandemics, and civil unrest.

State duty is performed under the orders of the governor, the Guard's state commander in chief. The governor appoints the Adjutant General, who holds the rank of Major General and oversees the Army and Air National Guard units assigned to the state by the federal government. He is advised by senior leaders of the Army and Air National Guard, including commanders of each Major Subordinate Command (MSC) in the state.

The Guard is also a federal, operational reserve force, fully accessible to the President in times of national emergency. Federal missions have kept Missouri Army and Air National Guard units deployed on a regular basis since the terrorist attacks of Sept. 11, 2001.

The Missouri National Guard maintains a Homeland Response Force (HRF) and Weapons of Mass Destruction Civil Support Team (WMD-CST) that may be called to respond to both federal and state emergencies within FEMA Region VII. The team's mission is to act as the military response to a chemical, biological, radiological, nuclear, or high yield explosive event.

The Missouri National Guard works with community groups in drug demand reduction programs while also supporting local, state, and federal law enforcement agencies in drug interdiction efforts.

Other innovative readiness training projects let Guard units train by working on projects benefiting local communities.

People and Units

Approximately 12,000 Soldiers, Airmen and civilian employees serve in the Missouri National Guard readiness centers and training sites based in 64 communities across the state. They are trained in hundreds of specific skills, most with direct application to civilian work and professions.

139th Airlift Wing: The 139th Airlift Wing, located in St. Joseph, plays a critical role in national defense and state emergency response, providing rapid global airlift and airdrop capabilities with its fleet of combat-ready C-130H aircraft. The unit's mission readiness ensures immediate deployment capability for both peacetime and wartime operations. The 139th is also a center for a variety of missions, hosting organizations such as the Med Detachment 1 Homeland Response Force, and the Advanced Airlift Tactics Training Center (AATTC), which trains crews from the U.S. and allied nations in the latest combat tactics.

131st Bomb Wing: The 131st Bomb Wing is a classic associate unit with the active-duty Air Force's 509th Bomb Wing at Whiteman Air Force Base. The 131st Bomb Wing's primary operational mission is to provide full-spectrum, expeditionary, B-2 global strike and combat support capabilities. The wing also commands Jefferson Barracks Air National Guard Station in St. Louis, where it is responsible for air operations command and control support to US Indo-Pacific Command. Wing manpower is also dedicated to providing for the unit's overall combat readiness, base operating support functions for tenant and attached units and for performing combat and emergency duty in support of federal and state missions.

35th Military Police Brigade: The 35th Military Police Brigade, based at Jefferson Barracks, conducts mission command for all task organized units conducting or supporting military police operations. The brigade integrates capabilities from all three police disciplines (police operations, detention operations, and security and mobility support) and integrates police intelligence operations into all military police missions. Additionally, the brigade conducts mission command for units conducting motor transport operations. Motor transport operations include troop movement, movement of containerized, non-containerized, palletized, dry and/or refrigerated cargo, and bulk water products.

35th Engineer Brigade: The 35th Engineer Brigade, based at Fort Leonard Wood, plans, integrates and directs the execution of engineer missions. When federalized, the brigade mobilizes with three to five mission tailored engineer battalions and augments engineer units organic to corps and division.

35th Expeditionary Combat Aviation Brigade: The 35th Combat Aviation Brigade, posted in Sedalia, provides command, control, staff planning and supervision of combat aviation brigade operations. The brigade's units fly a combination of LUH72 Lakota, observation helicopters and UH60 Black Hawk utility helicopters, as well as a C12 transport airplane. The brigade's units can perform unit and intermediate level aviation maintenance.

Headquarters and Headquarters Battalion, 35th Infantry Division: The 35th Infantry Division is assigned to both Missouri and Kansas. Army Divisions are the primary unit of action for large scale combat operations. The 35th Infantry Division provides command and control to aligned brigades in multiple states: MO, KS, TX, AR, OK, NE, TN, IN.

70th Troop Command: The 70th Troop Command, based in Lebanon, provides command and control, training, guidance, assistance, and administrative and logistical support to its subordinate commands. This command serves as the FEMA Region VII Homeland Response Force.

110th Maneuver Enhancement Brigade: The 110th Maneuver Enhancement Brigade, based in Kansas City, is a mission tailored force that conducts support area operations, maneuver support operations and support to consequence management and stability operations to ensure the mobility, protection and freedom of action of the supported force.

140th Regional Training Institute (RTI): The 140th RTI is based in Fort Leonard Wood and provides institutional leader development for individual Soldiers in accordance with active-duty US Army Training and Doctrine Command accreditation standards, as part of the Army School System. Regimental units also instruct functional courses, provide premobilization training and provide Defense Support to Civil Authorities.

1107th Aviation Group: The 1107th Aviation Group, based in Springfield, supports the National Guard by providing sustainment/depot-level maintenance of rotary wing aircraft for a 14-state region in the United States. One of the largest Missouri National Guard units, the approximately 500-member group supports a headquarters and subordinate companies A and B in Springfield.

Programs

State Partnership Program: The Missouri National Guard has had a collaborative partnership with Panama since 1996. The State Partnership Program supports the security cooperation objectives of the United States by developing enduring relationships with partner countries and conducting activities to build partner capacity. Missouri's partnership with Panama focuses on military to civilian agency engagements in support of defense security goals, while also leveraging whole-of-society relationships and capabilities to facilitate broader interagency and corollary engagements spanning government, economic and social spheres.

The Missouri National Guard has several important initiatives in place to help support the needs of our Guard members and their families.

Apprenticeship Program: In cooperation with the Missouri Department of Higher Education and Workforce Development and the US Department of Labor, the Missouri National Guard is offering a federally registered apprenticeship certification to our service members at no cost. This program provides skilled workers to Missouri employers and better paying jobs to our Soldiers and Airmen.

Joint Resiliency Directorate: Enhance Service members' readiness and resilience through education, training, prevention and early identification, risk reduction, deterrence, self-assessment, and targeted intervention.

Family Assistance Centers (FACs): 12 locations throughout Missouri, the FACs improve the quality of life of Veterans, single Soldiers/Airmen, and Families of Service members before, during, and after the deployment cycle by conducting outreach calls, providing local resources, and support efforts from the unit's Soldier and Family Readiness Groups.

Tuition Assistance Programs: Missouri National Guard Soldiers and Airmen in good standing may be eligible for numerous programs to help fund their higher education goals. The State Tuition Assistance program provides funding up to a bachelor's degree and the Federal Tuition Assistance program provides funding through a master's degree. Additionally, they may be eligible for federal G.I. Bill benefits for use toward college or a trade school. Lastly, Soldiers and Airmen may be eligible for contractual bonuses or student loan repayment programs for their service.

Yellow Ribbon Reintegration Program: The Yellow Ribbon Reintegration Program (YRRP) is a Department of Defense wide effort to promote the wellbeing of National Guard and Reserve members, their families and communities, by connecting them with resources throughout the deployment cycle. Through Yellow Ribbon events, Service members and loved ones connect with local resources before, during, and after deployments. Reintegration during post deployment is a critical time for members of the National Guard and Reserve, as they often live far from military installations and other members of their units. Commanders and leaders play a critical role in assuring that Reserve Service members and their families attend Yellow Ribbon events where they can access information on health care, education and training opportunities, financial, and legal benefits.

Child and Youth Program: Promotes and sustains the quality of life and resilience of Army National Guard dependent children and youth by providing secure, timely, flexible, high-quality support services and enrichment programs

Military Family Relief Fund: This effort provides grants or other financial assistance for essential needs to qualified Military members and/ or their Families. Those who are eligible to apply are members of the Reserve Component of units in Missouri, or those who reside in Missouri.

ESGR (Employer Support of the Guard and Reserve): The Missouri ESGR Committee works closely with employers and Guard & Reserve members (and their spouses) across the state, helping them understand their roles and responsibilities.

MO Heroes Connect: This widely recognized program works to find jobs for Missouri National Guard members, Reservist of all components, veterans, and their spouses.

Military Funeral Honors Program: Coordinates an average of 25 funerals for veterans across the state every day. The program began in July 1999 and coordinates funeral honors for every Missouri veteran. Anyone interested in funeral honors for their family member should inform their funeral home director or contact the program at (573) 638-9562.

Veterans Recognition Program: The Missouri Legislature approved this program providing a medal and certificate to honor living veterans of the Vietnam War, World War II and the Korean War. In 2014, the Legislature expanded the current medallion programs by creating the "Operation Iraqi Freedom and Operation New Dawn Medallion Program" and the "Operation Desert Shield and Operation Desert Storm Medallion Program." The legislation further authorized the issuance of a military medallion, medal, and certificate of appreciation to any veteran who served in World War II, the Korean Conflict, or the Vietnam War as a member of the Missouri National Guard, regardless of whether the veteran is a resident of Missouri. In 2024 the program expanded to include a new medallion to honor Veterans of Operation Enduring Freedom, Operation Freedom's Sentinel, and Operation Allies Refuge. Veterans or family members may contact the program director at (573) 638-9561.

Funding

While the governor commands the Guard on a day-to-day basis, most costs are paid with federal funds. That includes the regular pay for Soldiers and Airmen, except when they are on a state emergency mission. The federal funding and a force of full-time, federally paid employees ensure the readiness of the Guard for federal missions or state duty if called on by the governor.

The Department of Natural Resources manages the state's natural resources to benefit human health and the environment. The department was created under state reorganization on July 1, 1974.

Missouri's natural resources play an important role in public health and are essential to the environmental and economic vitality of the state. Team members work to ensure Missouri's citizens enjoy clean air to breathe, clean water for drinking and recreation and land that sustains a diversity of life. Team members also work to preserve the state's historic and natural heritage through state parks and state historic sites, provide reliable scientific information about Missouri's wealth of geologic resources and help meet energy needs by encouraging the efficient use of energy resources.

The department provides compliance assistance to citizens and the regulated community and works to stay at the forefront of resource challenges facing Missouri.

The department accomplishes its mission through the Division of Administrative Support, the Division of Energy, the Division of Environmental Quality, the Missouri Geological Survey and the Division of State Parks. A number of boards and commissions also support and facilitate the department's roles and responsibilities. In addition, the State Environmental Improvement and Energy Resources Authority and the Petroleum Storage Tank Insurance Fund are connected administratively to the department through the Office of the Director.

Stakeholder and public engagement plays a critical role in helping the department manage Missouri's natural resources. By working collaboratively with the public it serves, the Department of Natural Resources manages the state's natural resources to benefit public health and the great outdoors for generations to come.

Division of Energy

Email: energy@dnr.mo.gov

The Division of Energy promotes the efficient use of affordable, reliable and diverse in-state energy resources for economic growth, a healthy environment, and a better Missouri for future generations, assists in finding funding mechanisms for energy improvements, and educates Missourians on energy use and supply.

The division coordinates with private and public interests on energy initiatives; provides technical and financial assistance for energy efficiency and renewable energy improvements; acts as a resource for energy-related information by housing energy data and research; communicates with energy suppliers and state decision-makers to ensure adequate energy supplies; and reviews and promotes policies that support energy efficiency, resilience and the development of in-state resources. The division is also responsible for producing the Comprehensive Missouri State Energy Plan.

The division connects Missouri communities with energy efficiency and in-state resources that meet community needs and enhance business growth, retention and expansion. This results in improved community resilience as well as business profitability and competitiveness.

The division administers the Weatherization Assistance Program, which serves Missouri citizens through 18 local agencies. The weatherization program has provided cost-effective, energy-efficient home improvements to nearly 200,000 homes since the inception of the program in 1977. The division also administers the Energy Loan Program, which helps schools, colleges and universities, local governments, hospitals, public airports, and water and wastewater treatment facilities finance cost-saving energy projects, with the money saved available to use for needs related to the mission of the entity. addition, the division monitors grant opportunities to identify additional resources that would meet state and local energy needs.

Team members consult with the Office of Administration and other state agencies to integrate energy efficiency into state buildings and promote the use of alternative fuel vehicles in compliance with state laws. In coordination with the Department of Economic Development, the division also partners with communities and businesses to plan for resilience and economic growth through improved access to energy infrastructure. In addition, the division's website provides information regarding park-and-ride lots throughout Missouri.

Missouri Weatherization Policy Advisory Council

The council provides policy review and recommendations for delivery of the Low-Income Weatherization Assistance Program in Missouri. Federal regulations require that a policy advisory council be formed to advise the department on weatherization program issues and distribution of financial assistance. Division of Environmental Quality

Telephone: (573) 751-0763 / FAX: (573) 751-9277

Protecting and enhancing the quality of Missouri's environment is the responsibility of the department's Division of Environmental Quality. The division assists Missourians with these goals through compliance assistance, permitting inspections and proactive efforts to revitalize contaminated sites for redevelopment. Through its regional offices, the department provides compliance assistance, permitting, inspections and other environmental expertise closest to where Missourians live and work. The division certifies and tracks the required continuing education of all operators of public drinking water systems, wastewater systems and concentrated animal feeding operation waste management systems. The division works to ensure clean air, land and water by cleaning up pollution from the past, addressing pollution problems of today and identifying potential pollution issues of the future. The division administers six technical programs: air pollution control, environmental remediation, environmental services, soil and water conservation, waste management and water protection.

Air Pollution Control Program

The Air Pollution Control Program works to maintain the purity of Missouri's air to protect the health, general welfare and property of citizens. The program researches, develops and implements control strategies that help improve air quality and implement the Missouri Air Conservation Law and the federal Clean Air Act.

The program works with industries wanting to operate in Missouri by evaluating their emissions and the impact on the state's air quality and by requiring limitations on emissions where necessary. The program issues construction and operating permits, evaluates locations for air monitoring equipment and analyzes data collected from these monitors. The program also inspects sources of air pollution and responds to concerns regarding air quality. The program's compliance assistance and enforcement activities address violations of regulations relating to air pollution control.

The program develops multiple plans to meet federal standards for six pollutants: lead, ozone, particulate matter, carbon monoxide, nitrogen dioxide and sulfur dioxide. These plans constitute one overall state implementation plan, or SIP. Under the federally required SIP for the St. Louis ozone nonattainment area, the program implements various air quality strategies, including the Gateway Vehicle Inspection Program (GVIP). The program operates GVIP in partnership with the Missouri State Highway Patrol. GVIP is a key component of the ongoing effort to improve air quality in the St. Louis region.

The program works with stakeholders, the general public and regulated facilities to ensure compliance with state and federal air quality regulations. The program implements rules as established by the Air Conservation Commission, which holds public meetings at least nine times a year.

Air Conservation Commission

The Missouri Air Conservation Commission's primary duty is to carry out the state's Air Conservation Law. The commission's activities are directed toward achieving and maintaining the National Ambient (outdoor) Air Quality Standards throughout Missouri. When air quality in an area meets all standards, the area is considered to be in attainment. If air monitors detect too much of a pollutant, or if computer modeling shows that an area causes or contributes to a violation of a federal standard, EPA may designate the area as nonattainment for that pollutant, which leads to increased regulatory oversight and limitations on that area.

The commission adopts, amends and rescinds rules related to air quality. In coordination with industry, citizens and delegated local governments, the commission develops strategies to ensure statewide compliance with federal air quality standards and reduce concentrations of pollutants to safe levels in nonattainment areas. The commission makes decisions on appeals from enforcement orders and permit conditions. When necessary, the commission also begins legal actions to ensure compliance with Missouri Air Conservation Law and rules.

Environmental Remediation Program

The department's Environmental Remediation Program (ERP) oversees environmental cleanups resulting from prelaw and preregulation disposal of toxic substances, petroleum and/or waste that has been improperly disposed of in the environment. The program utilizes the Brownfields Voluntary Cleanup, Superfund, Federal Facilities and Petroleum Underground Storage Tank regulations to perform soil and water cleanups. In doing so, ERP strives to protect public health and the environment by cleaning up contaminated properties and protecting Missouri's citizens from exposures to toxic chemicals.

The ERP's Brownfields Voluntary Cleanup section works with landowners of contaminated properties by performing environmental cleanups that return properties to productive re-use. Landowners voluntarily pay for state oversight of cleanups. Incentives for property owners may include reducing environmental liability, increasing economic development opportunities in distressed areas and cleanup certification. The section also facilitates long-term stewardship of sites where management of contaminated environmental media is necessary to protect human health and the environment, and also maintains an easy-to-use online source for information about long-term stewardship sites so developers, planners and others can learn about land use restrictions, and ensure that known contaminated properties are being used safely.

ERP's Superfund Section investigates and oversees cleanups of contaminated property where a release of a hazardous substance has occurred, including sites on the Federal National Priorities List and those on the Missouri Registry of Confirmed Abandoned or Uncontrolled Haz-throughout Missouri, including those owned or operated by the U.S. Department of Energy, U.S. Department of Defense, and other federal agencies and, in some cases, companies that have a contractual tie with one of the federal agencies. This section also oversees shipments of radioactive waste transported through Missouri.

ERP's Underground Storage Tank Section provides regulatory oversight on active underground storage tank facilities and environmental cleanup oversight of leaking underground storage tanks and technical guidance for their closure.

The ERP, in conjunction with the Waste Management Program, carries out the law, regulation and policies of the Missouri Hazardous Waste Management Commission.

Hazardous Waste Management Commission

The Hazardous Waste Management Commission encourages efforts to recycle, incinerate, properly dispose of or otherwise treat hazardous waste. The commission is responsible for categorizing hazardous waste by disposal method and oversees the stakeholder process for the development of rules that determine fees to be paid by owners or operators of hazardous waste facilities that must obtain a permit. The commission establishes regulations for the generation, transportation, treatment, storage, cleanup and disposal of hazardous waste and hazardous substances, as well as for the operation and cleanup of petroleum underground storage tanks. The commission has the authority to render final decisions on appeals filed with, and heard by, the Administrative Hearing Commission, concerning application of the Missouri Hazardous Waste Management Law in Chapter 260, RSMo. The commission also hears requests for variances.

Environmental Services Program

The Environmental Services Program provides analytical information and scientific data that supports the department. The program also provides direct assistance to local communities and emergency responders throughout Missouri.

The Environmental Emergency Response Section provides 24/7 support and response capability for hazardous substance releases, radiological incidents, homeland security events and natural disasters. Approximately 1,100 incidents are reported via the statewide emergency response line, (573) 635-2436, each year.

The program houses the state's environmental laboratory. The laboratory is certified by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to perform chemical analyses of public drinking water samples. This service is provided to all public drinking water systems statewide. The laboratory also analyzes air, soil, waste and other water samples. The laboratory reports approximately 280,000 results from 25,000 samples annually.

The program operates about 192 air-monitoring instruments at 43 locations statewide. These instruments monitor air pollutants known to affect people's health. This data may determine whether an area meets federal standards for ozone, carbon monoxide and other pollutants. The data also helps department team members identify air pollution trends, investigate citizen complaints, determine sources of air pollution and keep Missourians informed of current air quality.

The water quality monitoring section performs approximately 800 monitoring events annually to assess the health of lakes, rivers and streams. This section collects water and sediment samples throughout Missouri and performs biological monitoring, stream surveys, monitoring of fish tissues and bacterial analyses of surface waters as well as other sampling events and special studies.

Financial Assistance Center

The Financial Assistance Center is dedicated to helping communities plan, finance and build water infrastructure projects that improve the lives of Missourians. The center provides financial assistance to applicants for projects including drinking water and wastewater infrastructure and a variety of other water quality improvements. Center responsibilities include managing the State Revolving Fund programs, which provide states with a mechanism to offer low-cost financing for a wide range of drinking water and wastewater infrastructure projects. The center also offers grants that assist small communities in paying for engineering reports necessary to develop infrastructure projects and a state Small Borrower Loan program for small communities that need assistance financing small projects.

Regional Offices

The regional offices assist with local environmental matters. Regional offices in St. Louis, Kansas City, Springfield, Poplar Bluff and Macon provide the department closer contact with the public through field inspections of regulated facilities, complaint investigation, front-line troubleshooting and technical assistance, as well as local environmental emergency response.

Waste Management Program

The department's Waste Management Program protects public health and the environment, by working with Missouri citizens and businesses to properly manage their solid and hazardous waste. Per capita, each Missourian generates more than one ton of solid waste each year.

The program reviews permit applications and issues solid waste permits, hazardous waste permits, and permit modifications to solid waste disposal and processing facilities, hazardous waste treatment, storage and disposal facilities and hazardous waste sites requiring corrective action. Team members review proposed permits for facility design, construction, operations and proper monitoring controls. Team members also assist the department's regional offices with inspections of hazardous waste generators, hazardous waste treatment, storage and disposal facilities, permitted solid waste facilities and hazardous waste haulers. In addition, they investigate reports of illegal dumping and other solid and hazardous waste related concerns across Missouri. The program conducts enforcement activities when necessary to ensure proper management of hazardous waste and solid waste to protect human health, safety and Missouri's water, land and air resources.

The Waste Management Program oversees the cleanup of illegal scrap tire dumpsites, conducts scrap tire inspections and investigations, provides funding to nonprofit groups to clean up dump-sites with less than 500 scrap tires and awards scrap tire material grants that promote the use of scrap tire materials in new products. This work is funded by a 50-cent fee assessed on each new tire purchased in Missouri.

Other focuses include planning, financial and technical assistance, and educational activities that inform the public of the relationship between an individual's consumption of goods and proper solid waste management as well as proper management of hazardous waste. The program works with stakeholders, the general public and regulated facilities to comply with state and federal hazardous and solid waste laws and regulations. Further, it works closely with the department's Environmental Remediation Program to carry out the policies of the Missouri Hazardous Waste Management Commission and to coordinate on sites requiring remediation or cleanup.

Solid Waste Advisory Board

The Solid Waste Advisory Board advises the department about the effectiveness of its technical assistance and challenges experienced by the solid waste management districts in developing and implementing solid waste management plans. The board advises the department of the effects of proposed rules and regulations on solid waste management districts, the criteria used in awarding grants under Section 260.335, RSMo and the waste management issues pertinent to solid waste management districts. Additionally, the board advises the department in the development of improved methods of solid waste minimization, recycling and resource recovery, reports on unfunded solid waste management projects and such other matters as the board may determine.

The membership of this board consists of the chair of the executive board of each of Missouri's 20 recognized solid waste management districts, two public members, two representatives from the solid waste industry and one representative from the recycling or composting industry appointed by the program director.

Water Protection Program

The department's Water Protection Program administers clean water and drinking water responsibilities for Missouri. The program is delegated by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to conduct duties for the federal Clean Water Act and the Safe Drinking Water Act, and it also carries out the state responsibilities of operator certification and construction permitting. The Water Protection Program works with stakeholders, the general public and regulated facilities to comply with state and federal water regulations.

For clean water, the program regulates pollutants entering the state's waters by issuing permits for the construction and operation of wastewater treatment facilities and stormwater discharges. Permits set wastewater treatment levels necessary to protect water quality. These treatment levels are included in permits issued to municipal, industrial and other dischargers. The program evaluates discharge-monitoring and other data to determine whether facilities comply with applicable laws and whether permits are sufficient to protect water quality. The program, with the Division of Environmental Quality's regional offices, is responsible for the inspection and monitoring of water contaminant sources and investigates complaints from the public. If a source violates the Missouri Clean Water Law, the program works with the facility to correct the problem and may assess penalties if necessary.

Water quality standards protect water's beneficial uses such as swimming, maintaining fish and other aquatic life and providing drinking water for people, livestock and wildlife. The program, with the Clean Water Commission, develops water quality standards that provide clear expectations for Missouri water quality and conducts monitoring to determine if the standards are met. Waters that do not meet these standards are placed on the impaired waters (303(d)) list, which provides a focus for special attention to restore water quality in lakes, streams and rivers. Once a waterway is added to the 303(d) list, the department develops and implements a study to correct the water impairments. Generally, this study takes the form of a total maximum daily load document. It describes the maximum amount of a pollutant that may enter a water body without violating water quality standards.

The program also administers Missouri's Nonpoint Source Management Program, which includes providing Clean Water Act Section 319(h) grants, funded by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, to eligible entities to help restore and protect Missouri waters that have been impaired or threatened by nonpoint source pollution.

For drinking water, the program reviews plans and issues permits for the construction and operation of public drinking water systems and requires these systems to monitor for contaminants and take corrective action if any health-based standards are exceeded. The program performs monitoring of drinking water, conducts periodic inspections, and provides compliance assistance on water supply problems to cities, water districts, subdivisions, mobile home parks and other facilities.

Clean Water Commission

The Clean Water Commission brings together and coordinates all aspects of water quality in an effort to ensure the state's progress toward protecting, preserving and improving water quality in Missouri. The commission implements the federal Clean Water Law through rules and policies, and hears appeals based on those permit decisions. When necessary, the commission will take enforcement action against those who violate the Missouri Clean Water Law and related regulations. The commission also establishes funding priorities and oversees financial assistance to protect and preserve water quality.

All commission members represent the general interest of the public and shall have an interest in and knowledge of conservation and the effects and control of water contaminants.

The Missouri Geological Survey provides technical assistance, education and guidance in the use, protection and conservation of Missouri's natural resources, in support of challenges facing Missouri in water resources, soil conservation, energy resources, public safety, environmental protection and economic development. The division interprets and reports on the state's geological setting and resources, helps determine the availability of its energy and mineral resources, evaluates and interprets geological hazards, such as those subject to earthquake or catastrophic collapse, ensures the safety of nonfederal and nonagricultural dams, and regulates well drillers. Team members work to ensure clean air, land and water by working with the mining industry and Missouri communities to minimize the environmental and health impacts of mining activities in Missouri. The division has statutory authority for water quantity issues, such as statewide water resources and availability, water resources monitoring, drought assessment, flood and hydrology studies and wetland studies. The division addresses the development, conservation and utilization of the state's water resources.

The division administers conservation programs through the soil and water conservation districts to reduce soil erosion on agricultural lands and protect water resources.

The division maintains GeoSTRAT, a web application enabling users to easily visualize and explore geospatial data using an interactive map. Data such as geology, water wells, sinkholes, historic mine locations, dams, caves, springs, water traces, well logs, aquifers and groundwater information can be viewed to aid in site assessments.

The division cooperates with the U.S. Geological Survey on numerous projects, including the National Cooperative Geologic Mapping Program. The division also performs work under contract for other state agencies through grants and agreements.

The Missouri Geological Survey administers five technical programs: dam and reservoir safety, geological survey, land reclamation, soil and water conservation and water resources.

Division Director and State Geologist

The division director serves as the state geologist and is responsible for ensuring statutory obligations are met. The state geologist is the administrator of the State Oil and Gas Council, serves on the Well Installation Board, Missouri Mining Commission, Missouri Board on Geographic Names and Industrial Minerals Advisory Council, serves as ex officio member on the Board of Geologist Registration, and is a Missouri representative to the Central United States Earthquake Consortium and the Association of American State Geologists.

Dam and Reservoir Safety Program

The Dam and Reservoir Safety team members and the Dam and Reservoir Safety Council are responsible for ensuring all new and existing non-agricultural, non-federal dams 35 feet or more in height meet minimum safety standards as established by the Dam and Reservoir Safety Law.

Geological Survey Program

The Geological Survey Program uses geologic information and knowledge to assist Missouri citizens in the management of natural resources for a higher standard of living and healthy natural environment. The program gathers and publishes data describing and interpreting Missouri's vast geological resources, including geologic maps, reports of investigations, other print and online publications important for making land-use decisions. This information is necessary for locating mineral deposits, managing groundwater resources, siting waste disposal facilities and evaluating geologic hazards. The program receives thousands of requests for geological assistance each year.

Team members also conduct geologic field investigations that provide technical assistance to the public and government agencies. These services include determining the environmental hazards posed by waste disposal sites and spills of hazardous materials. Geological principles are applied to minimize the impact of chemical releases or spills.

The Geological Survey Program works to protect groundwater from contamination through regulation of the construction of wells, plugging of abandoned wells, and licenses well drillers and pump installers conducting business in Missouri. In addition to assistance provided in siting waste disposal facilities, the program also implements the Oil and Gas Act, the Underground Injection Control Program of the Safe Drinking Water Act, and the Water Well Drillers Act.

Industrial Minerals Advisory Council

The Industrial Minerals Advisory Council is composed of eight representatives of the industrial minerals industry appointed by the director of the department. The representatives include three limestone producers and one each from industries involved in mining clay, sandstone, sand and gravel, barite and granite. Other members include the director (or designee) of the Department of Transportation and the director (or designee) of the Department of Natural Resources, who acts as chair of the council.

The primary duty of the council is to advise the department on the collection, processing, management and distribution of geologic and hydrologic information to assist the industrial mineral industry. Expenditures from the geologic resources fund, which was created to complete these activities, are reviewed by the council, and the council advises the department on appropriate fees to support the fund.

Well Installation Board

The Well Installation Board adopts and amends rules governing well construction and the well drilling industry to protect Missouri's groundwater resources. The board also oversees the examination and licensing of all well drillers and pump installers and takes actions against those who violate the Water Well Driller's Act and Well Construction Rules. The board sets fees by establishing rules that do not substantially exceed the cost and expense of administering the law.

Land Reclamation Program

The Land Reclamation Program works with the mining industry and Missouri communities to minimize the environmental and health impacts of mining activities in Missouri.

The program carries out Missouri's Abandoned Mine Land program to reclaim abandoned Missouri coal mine sites that have safety hazards or environmental problems. The program also regulates mining and reclamation activities and issues permits. Reclamation bonds ensure sites are properly graded, replanted and maintained after mining ceases. After the mining company completes all required reclamation, the commission releases these financial assurances and relieves the responsible company of any further reclamation liabilities.

The program works with stakeholders, the general public and regulated facilities to comply with state and federal mining and land reclamation regulations.

Missouri Mining Commission

The Missouri Mining Commission governs Missouri's mining requirements as set forth in three state statutes. These statutes protect public health, safety and the environment from adverse effects of mining and ensure beneficial restoration of mined lands.

The Missouri Mining Commission is responsible for issuing mining permits and oversees Missouri's Abandoned Mine Land program. The commission establishes rules and regulations for mining activities and oversees investigations and inspections necessary to ensure compliance. The commission conducts hearings and when necessary may revoke a permit, order a forfeiture of bonds or cease operations at a facility for failure to comply.

The eight-member commission includes three statutory and five public members. The statutory members include the state geologist, director of the Missouri Department of Conservation and staff director of the Clean Water Commission. The five public members must have an interest in and knowledge of conservation and land reclamation, one must have training and experience in surface mining and one must have training and experience in subsurface mining. Only two members of the commission may have a direct link with the mining industry. With Senate approval, the governor appoints five public members. All members serve a four-year term and continue until their successors are appointed.

Soil and Water Conservation Program

The Soil and Water Conservation Program administers the policies and general programs developed by the Soil and Water Districts Commission for saving soil and protecting water quality on agricultural lands. The primary responsibility of the program is to assist 114 local soil and water conservation districts as they promote voluntary soil and water conservation to their constituents. The districts provide financial incentives, technical assistance and education to agricultural land-owners and operators, working with state and federal conservation partners.

Other program activities include administering statewide cost-share assistance, district grants and educational programs. The program provides direct assistance to the county soil and water conservation districts through grants and training that support district staff and other administrative expenses. The program also provides each district with computers, software and a website at mosoilandwater.land.

Missouri citizens have shown strong support for soil and water conservation and state parks by passing a one-tenth-of-one percent Parks, Soils and Water Sales Tax. The tax was first approved by voters in 1984, and has since been reapproved by at least two-thirds of Missouri voters in 1988, 1996 and 2006. In 2016, the tax was approved by 80%, passing in every county. Half of the sales tax is deposited in the Soil and Water Sales Tax Fund for saving soil and protecting the water resources of the state of Missouri.

Soil and Water Districts Commission

The Soil and Water Districts Commission develops the policies and general programs for agricultural lands that are administered under the Soil and Water Conservation Program. The primary responsibility of the program is to assist local soil and water conservation districts as they promote voluntary soil and water conservation to their constituents. The districts provide financial incentives and technical assistance to agricultural landowners working with state and federal conservation partners with the goal of saving soil and protecting Missouri's water resources.

Funding for financial and technical assistance is provided by the Soil and Water Conservation Sales Tax Fund. This fund receives 50% of the Parks, Soils and Water Sales Tax, a one-tenth-of-one percent sales tax approved by Missouri voters to support Missouri's State Parks, and the Soil and Water Conservation Program.

Water Resources Center

The Water Resources Center addresses the development, conservation and utilization of the state's water resources. To assist communities, public entities and state and federal agencies, the center provides technical assistance through drought assessment, planning and water resource monitoring. Areas of expertise within the center include interstate waters, groundwater, surface water and water resource planning.

The surface water section coordinates state water planning and state drought response and monitors flooding conditions. The section also coordinates issues relating to major river basins that affect Missouri and provides technical support for negotiations and litigation actions to protect the state's rights to these waters. The groundwater section operates and maintains a groundwater level observation well network for monitoring Missouri's aquifers. Collection and analysis of groundwater data provides knowledge of available water quantity, aquifer response to water use, groundwater recharge and aquifer characteristics. The groundwater section also administers the collection and analysis of statewide water use data in accordance with the Major Water User Law.

Missouri State Parks, a division of the Missouri Department of Natural Resources, works to protect and interpret the state's most outstanding natural and cultural resources while providing recreational opportunities compatible with those resources. The Missouri State Park system was established in 1917 and includes 93 state parks and historic sites totaling more than 150,000 acres.

The primary source of funding for the state park system is half of the dedicated constitutional tax of one-tenth-of-one-percent parks, soils and water sales tax. All additional funding comes from revenues generated in the state park system and some federal funds. The parks, soils and water tax was created through a constitutional amendment and earmarked specifically for the state park system and efforts to stop soil erosion. The tax was first approved by voters in 1984, and has since been reapproved by two-thirds of Missouri voters in 1988, 1996 and 2006. In 2016, the tax was approved by 80% passing in every county.

Every year, millions of people visit the state park system to hike, camp, fish, discover the past and explore nature. The state's most outstanding landscapes – deep forests, glades, prairies and blue streams and lakes – are preserved for everyone's enjoyment. State historic sites commemorate events or structures of statewide historical importance and honor people of state and national importance. The system includes homes of famous Missourians, Civil War battlefields and reminders of yesterday, such as gristmills and covered bridges.

Grant Management

Missouri State Parks is responsible for administering three federal grant pass-through programs that provide financial assistance to individuals, groups and public entities for a variety of outdoor recreation and historic preservation purposes.

The Recreational Trails Program provides grants for the development of trails and trailhead facilities. It is supported by the Missouri Trails Advisory Board, who reviews and scores the grant applications and makes recommendations on grant awards.

The Land and Water Conservation Fund grant program provides funds for public outdoor recreation projects, such as new park development and renovation within existing parks.

The Historic Preservation Fund grant program, provides funding for the State Historic Preservation Office and funds pass-through grants that relate directly to the identification, evaluation, or protection of historic properties.

State Historic Preservation Office

Missouri was one of the first in the nation to establish the State Historic Preservation Office in 1968 following the Historic Preservation Act of 1966. The office helps facilitate the process of identifying historic properties significant to the citizens, state and nation, and planning for their preservation.

The department coordinates surveys statewide to identify historic, architectural and archaeological resources. Significant properties identified in the surveys may be nominated to the National Register of Historic Places. Missouri has more than 2,400 listings on the National Register, representing more than 47,000 historic buildings, sites, structures and objects. The Missouri Cultural Resource Inventory is being built from information gathered from the survey and nomination process.

As part of its federally mandated responsibilities, the department reviews all federally funded or licensed projects in Missouri to ensure compliance with related federal legislation. The department also administers federal Historic Preservation Fund matching grants from the U.S. Department of the Interior's National Park Service. These funds are used to help identify, evaluate and protect Missouri's cultural resources. Through Missouri's Certified Local Government program, the department trains municipalities in local preservation programs and techniques and awards federal matching grants to help accomplish local preservation goals.

Since 1976, federal tax incentives and related legislation have promoted interest in rehabilitating historic buildings. In 1998, that interest was augmented with the authorization of state tax credits, administered by the Missouri Department of Economic Development. The federal tax credits are available to private investors who rehabilitate historic buildings, such as office buildings and apartments, for uses that produce income. The Department of Natural Resources reviews both federal and state tax credit applications for historic eligibility and conformity with preservation historic property rehabilitation guidelines.

The State Historic Preservation Office also administers the Missouri Heritage Properties Program using funds from Missouri's Historic Preservation Revolving Fund. The program provides assistance to help preserve endangered publicly owned historic buildings.

Missouri Advisory Council on Historic Preservation

Appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the senate, this council reviews all Missouri nominations to the National Register of Historic Places and advises the state's historic preservation officer. The Advisory Council also provides advice, guidance and professional recommendations to the state historic preservation officer in carrying out the responsibilities of the historic preservation act and other duties, including administration of Missouri's Unmarked Human Burial Sites Act.

The Environmental Improvement and Energy Resources Authority (EIERA) is a quasi-governmental environmental finance agency administratively assigned to the Missouri Department of Natural Resources. The authority was established by the Missouri General Assembly in 1972, and EIERA board members are appointed by the governor. EIERA is committed to providing solutions that help Missourians and the environment thrive through finance, research and technical assistance to preserve or foster the responsible management of our air, land, water and energy resources for the well-being of our citizens and Missouri's economy.

As the state's primary energy and environmental bond issuing authority, the EI ERA promotes Missouri's environment and economy by providing a broad range of financial support and services. To date, the EI ERA has assisted Missouri communities, utilities, schools, organizations and businesses by providing almost $6 billion in bond financing and more than $30 million in project financing that have supported infrastructure upgrades, energy efficiency, pollution prevention, technical assistance, research and environmental education.

Mission

Established by the Omnibus State Reorganization Act of 1974, the Department of Public Safety (DPS) coordinates statewide law enforcement, criminal justice, emergency response and public safety efforts to ensure a safe environment for Missourians. The department aims to provide a safe and secure environment for all residents and visitors by providing services in cooperation with public safety agencies and other public and private entities. DPS is organized into eight divisions: Office of the Director, Missouri Capitol Police, Division of Fire Safety, Division of Alcohol and Tobacco Control, Missouri State Highway Patrol, State Emergency Management Agency, Missouri Veterans Commission and Missouri Gaming Commission.

Office of the Director

The director of public safety is appointed to this cabinet-level position by the governor, with the advice and consent of the Senate. The director is responsible for developing public safety programs, peace officer training and licensing and providing legislative guidance on criminal justice issues. Additionally, the director is responsible for overseeing distribution of state and federal resources and funds in contracts for narcotics control, internet sex crime elimination, victims' assistance, crime prevention, interoperable communications and juvenile justice. As the department's central management unit, the director's office coordinates departmental budget, personnel, legislative matters and related financial and administrative activities. The director's office is also responsible for the administration of specific programs conferred upon it by the legislature or governor. These programs include:

The Office for Victims of Crime (OVC) is made up of the Crime Victim Services Unit and the Crime Victim Compensation Program.

and their families. Through collaborative partnerships with other state agencies, statewide organizations and local service providers, CVSU promotes access to information, resources and services. CVSU administers victim-centered state and federal funding opportunities, initiatives and programs as well as juvenile justice and delinquency prevention initiatives.

State and federal funding programs administered by CVSU include: STOP Violence Against Women Act (VAWA); Sexual Assault Services Program (SASP); Protection Program for Victims/Witnesses of Violent Crime (PPVVC); Crime Victim Advocate Credentialing Program (CVACP); and Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Program (Title II).

As the state administering agency of the Title II program, CVSU ensures compliance with the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act (JJDP). The office supports the Juvenile Justice Advisory Group (JJAG) and performs activities to maintain compliance with the core requirements of JJDP.

CVSU also administers the Missouri Victim Automated Notification System (MOVANS). MOVANS provides victims, family members, advocates and concerned citizen with important information on the custody status of offenders incarcerated in Missouri jails or the Missouri

The Office for Victims of Crime serves the public, nonprofit organizations, crime victim advocates, law enforcement agencies, medical providers and local and state governments by administering programs that impact crime victims, their families and at-risk youth. The office provides training and consultation to assist in the development or enhancement of local programs and serves as a public resource to victims of crime who encounter difficulty accessing services or who believe they have been deprived of their statutory or constitutional rights.

Peace Officer Standards and Training (POST) Program

The Peace Officer Standards and Training (POST) Program is responsible for licensing peace officers, ensuring compliance with peace officer continuing law enforcement education, training requirements, and conducting investigations for disciplining the licenses of peace officers as specified by Chapter 590, RSMo. Missouri Office of Homeland Security

The Missouri Office of Homeland Security's origins date back to Sept. 26, 2001, just 15 days after the Sept. 11, 2001, terrorist attacks, when Missouri named a Governor's Special Advisor on Homeland Security, making Missouri the first state to appoint a liaison to the federal government for homeland security issues. Executive Order 05-20 was signed on July 21, 2005, moving OHS to the Department of Public Safety. In the same executive order, the Homeland Security Advisory Council (HSAC) was established. The HSAC's mission is to ensure local and state homeland security plans regarding terrorism and disaster preparedness are executed and coordinated efficiently to better protect Missourians.

The Office of Homeland Security director reports to the DPS director, who is the governor's designated Homeland Security Advisor (HSA). The office coordinates local, state, federal, private sector and citizen activities related to homeland security efforts, utilizing the HSAC and Regional Homeland Security Oversight Committees (RH-SOC) and individual OHS initiatives to ensure statewide coordination of resources for homeland security.

The Regional Homeland Security Oversight Committees (RHSOCs) are an integral part of the Missouri Homeland Security Regionalization Program. OHS works very closely with the RHSOCs to distribute homeland security funding to identified needs at the local level. Under this program the state is divided into nine homeland security regions and two Urban Area Security Initiatives (UASI). The purpose of regionalization is to establish a common sense, logical governance structure and process to facilitate local, community-level engagement in not only grant funding priorities and strategies, but other homeland security related decisions. The RHSOCs are comprised of at least fourteen core disciplines representing their local and county interests.

The Missouri Office of Homeland Security is the designated State Administrative Agency (SAA) for the U.S. Department of Homeland Security's Homeland Security Grant Program (HSGP) and the State and Local Cybersecurity Program (SL-CGP). Through the DPS Grants Unit, the HSGP includes the State Homeland Security Program

(SHSP, Regionalization and LETPA), Urban Areas Security Initiative (UASIs) and the Nonprofit Security Grant Program (NSGP).

THIRA/SPR: The office is responsible for the completion of the Threat and Hazard Identification and Risk Assessment (THIRA) and the integration of the Stakeholder Preparedness Review (SPR) to help communities understand their risks and determine the capabilities required to address those risks.

Missouri Data Exchange Program Office: The Missouri Data Exchange (MoDEX) is a statewide information sharing process developed for use by Missouri criminal justice agencies and is accessed through the FBI's National Data Exchange (N-DEX), a secure nationwide information sharing system.

Law Enforcement Mutual Aid Program: Through this program, OHS is the point of coordination for the Missouri Uniform Law Enforcement-Mutual Aid Plan (MULE-MAP), which is the law enforcement component of the overall state mutual aid response plan.

Homeland Security Information Network (HSIN): The office serves as the administrator for HSIN, a secure network for homeland security mission operations to share sensitive but unclassified information. This network allows homeland security partners to manage operations, analyze data, send alerts and notices and share information to help keep communities safe.

Cybersecurity Preparedness Program: The OHS Cybersecurity Preparedness Program is a team of Cybersecurity Specialists assigned to the Missouri Information Analysis Center. The program coordinates statewide cybersecurity initiatives with local, state and federal partners, including other state executive branch departments, Missouri Secretary of State's Office, Missouri's three fusion centers, Missouri Center for Education Safety, Missouri hospitals, DHS's Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Agency (CISA), and many other public and private partners.

Counter Terrorism Officer Program: The OHS Counter Terrorism Officer (CTO) Program works to develop a group of Missouri law enforcement officers who receive advanced training in counter-terrorism preparedness and response. In addition to online and in-person training, the program works to strengthen statewide partnerships and information sharing and to increase cross-agency cooperation with state, local and federal counter-terrorism officer programs.

Critical Infrastructure Protection Program: OHS's Critical Infrastructure Protection Program focuses on strengthening the security and resiliency of critical infrastructure in Missouri through established relationships with all stakeholders.

Law Enforcement Support Program (LESO):

The Missouri LESO Program facilitates local and state law enforcement agency requests to the Department of Defense Law Enforcement Support Office for excess property (equipment) to support response to natural disasters and critical incidents. Excess property can consist of, but is not limited to, computers, generators, clothing, boots, field gear, flex cuffs, weapons, four-wheel drive vehicles, watercraft and aircraft. The property is available at no charge except for shipping.

In addition to the U.S. Department of Homeland Security Grants, the DPS Grants Unit administers the following state and federal grant programs:

U.S. Department of Justice Grants: Edward Byrne Memorial Justice Assistance Grant, Local Law Enforcement Block Grant, Residential Substance Abuse Treatment, Paul Coverdell National Forensic Sciences, State Crisis Intervention Program, Project Safe Neighborhoods, Operation Legend, and the Patrick Leahy Bulletproof Vest Partnership (BVP) Program.

State Grants: Missouri Crime Lab Upgrade Program, State Cyber Crime Grant, Deputy Sheriff Salary Supplementation Fund, State Drug Task Force Grants, Local Violent Crime Prevention Grants, Critical Incident Stress Management Program, Economic Distress Zone, Water Safety Education, and American Rescue Plan Act Grants.

The DPS Grants Unit also provides staff support for the Homeland Security Advisory Council, Regional Homeland Security Oversight Committee, Criminal Records and Justice Information Advisory Committee, Missouri Sheriff Methamphetamine Relief Taskforce (MoSMART) and the Missouri Crime Laboratory Review Commission (MCLRC).

Missouri Statewide Interoperability Network (MOSWIN)

In 2009, the Department of Public Safety, in conjunction with its public safety partners, began construction of the Missouri Statewide Interoperability Radio Network (MOSWIN). MOSWIN, comprising 76 (VHF High Band 150MHz) and 61 (700/800 MHz) sites, became operational in December 2012. MOSWIN provides the infrastructure for interoperable communications throughout Missouri for local and state agencies. MOSWIN has four master site zones. Zone 1 in Jefferson City, Zone 2 (in partnership with the City of St. Louis, 22 sub-sites) in St. Louis, Zone 3 in Weldon Spring and Zone 4 (in partnership with the City of Springfield and Greene County, seven sub-sites) in Springfield.

There are two levels of MOSWIN membership: Level 1 agencies utilize MOSWIN for full-time, day-to-day radio communications. As of April 2023, there are 317 Level 1 agencies. Level 2 agencies utilize MOSWIN to achieve interoperability with local and state agencies but retain their own radio systems for internal day-to-day communications. As of April 2023, there are 1,184 agencies with Level 2 MOSWIN access.

As of April 2023, there are 51,971 radios with access to the system. MOSWIN system administration and operations headquarters is at the Missouri Interoperability Center (MIC) in Jefferson City. The MIC provides training and technical assistance for all system users and is the Emergency Support Function-2 (Communications Annex) lead during declared state emergencies.

The MIC also provides staff support for the Missouri 911 Service Board and serves as project manager for the NTIA Next Generation 9-1-1 grant program.

The Missouri State Fire Marshal's Office was established by the 76th Missouri General Assembly in 1973. Effective September 1985, the office was renamed the Division of Fire Safety (DFS) and was housed within the Missouri Department of Public Safety.

The division is charged with the oversight and enforcement of programs that maintain the safety and well-being of the general public. Responsibilities include: providing fire safety standards and inspections for state-licensed facilities; investigating fires and explosions upon request; regulating the use and sale of fireworks and licensing fireworks operators; training and certification of firefighters and emergency response personnel; inspecting and licensing nonexempt boilers and pressure vessels; inspecting and issuing operating permits for elevator-related equipment; inspecting and issuing operating permits for amusement rides; monitoring of fire emergencies and assisting local, area and regional fire authorities through the State Fire Mutual Aid System; overseeing the rules and regulations relating to the licensing of explosive blasters and the registration of explosive users; overseeing the fire standard compliant cigarette program; and overseeing the Missouri Volunteer Firefighter Workers Compensation Grant Program.

Fire Service Training/Certification

The Division of Fire Safety's Training and Certification Unit is responsible for the training and certification of over 25,000 firefighters across the state. In addition, those served by the unit include representatives from the fire service, law enforcement, private industry and other state agencies. The division offers 27 levels of state certification. The Missouri Division of Fire Safety is accredited through the International Fire Service Accreditation Congress, and National Board of Fire Service Professional Qualifications and is licensed by the Missouri Peace Officer Standards and Training (POST) Program as a Continuing Law Enforcement Education (CLEE) provider.

State Fire Mutual Aid

The Division of Fire Safety coordinates activation and deployment of local resources when inter-regional mutual aid assistance is requested. When an incident occurs within any one of the nine mutual aid regions and all local resources become exhausted, the regional coordinator contacts the Division of Fire Safety's state mutual aid coordinator to request mutual aid assistance of specific resources. The state coordinator in turn contacts mutual aid coordinators within unaffected regions to locate and deploy the needed resources to the impacted region. With information gathered from the annual Fire Department Registration program and continued input and support from all fire service agencies, the system stands ready to mitigate the effect of small-scale or large-scale emergencies. The state mutual aid coordinator also administers the National Fire Incident Reporting System.

Fire Safety Education/Advisory Commission

The Division of Fire Safety addresses Missouri's fire service training needs through contracts in cooperation with community colleges, colleges, regional training facilities, fire and emergency services training entities and universities as appropriated in the state budget. The Missouri Fire Safety Education/Advisory Commission reviews and determines appropriate programs and activities for which funds may be expended and advises the division accordingly.

Fire Safety Inspection

Fire safety inspectors conduct inspections of facilities and locations licensed or certified by state agencies, including the Department of Health and Senior Services, the Department of Mental Health and the Department of Social Services. These inspections, based upon nationally recognized codes and standards, are designed to eliminate fire safety hazards for occupants of childcare homes and centers, facilities and homes licensed by the Department of Mental Health, foster care providers and facilities housing at-risk youth.

State statute requires the Division of Fire Safety to conduct fire safety inspections to ensure compliance with state regulations in residential care facilities and assisted living facilities. Approximately 600 existing facilities require annual inspections by the Division of Fire Safety in coordination with the Department of Health and Senior Services.

Fire Investigation

The Fire Investigation Unit provides fire and explosive-related investigative services to Missouri's fire service and law enforcement. Under section 320.230, RSMo, the state fire marshal and the division's appointed investigators are responsible for investigating incidents involving the possibility of arson or explosion-related offenses as requested by the fire service, law enforcement or prosecuting attorneys within the state. Investigators are trained in several fields of expertise, including insurance fraud, explosive recognition, weapons of mass destruction and post-blast investigations.

Fire investigators are Peace Officer Standards and Training (POST)-licensed law enforcement officers with the power of arrest for criminal offenses when investigating the cause, origin or circumstances of fires, explosions or similar occurrences involving the possibility of arson or related offenses. Investigators also have arrest powers when aiding and assisting the sheriff or a chief of police or designated representative upon request.

Fireworks Enforcement

The Division of Fire Safety is charged with enforcing section 320.106, RSMo, involving the investigation, permitting and inspection of the fireworks industry in Missouri. This statute requires prospective manufacturers, distributors, jobbers, wholesalers, seasonal retailers and persons requesting special fireworks displays to apply to the Division of Fire Safety for permits to do business in Missouri. Applicants must meet certain requirements, follow safety procedures and acquire a fireworks permit.

The scope of this program was broadened by the General Assembly in 2004 with the addition of testing and licensing of individuals who shoot fireworks for public displays. This includes proximate (indoor) fireworks shows.

The division's training/certification staff conducts the testing and issues the licenses for the display/proximate operators.

The division's inspection and investigation staff conduct inspections of facilities selling, manufacturing or distributing fireworks.

Blasting Safety Act

The Blasting Safety Act was created in 2007, when the General Assembly enacted House Bill

298. This act established the Blasting Safety Board to develop and adopt a code of rules and regulations relating to the licensing of blasters and the registration of explosives users. The act also requires the division to investigate complaints involving blasting operations throughout the state.

The Blasting Safety Board continues to advise the division on rules and regulations governing the program.

Boiler and Pressure Vessel Act

The Missouri Boiler and Pressure Vessel Act, per sections 650.200–650.295, RSMo, was passed in 1984 and became mandatory on Nov. 12, 1986. The purpose of the law is to ensure the safety of the general public and those who work in the vicinity of boilers and pressure vessels and to protect property. The provisions of this law do not apply in cities and counties that choose to regulate boilers and/or pressure vessels by ordinance.

The act requires periodic inspections of boilers and pressure vessels and the issuance of state operating certificates. Inspections are performed by certified inspectors in accordance with nationally recognized standards. Vessels found to have violations in relation to these standards are required to be repaired before the issuance of the state operating certificate. Accidents involving boilers or pressure vessels are investigated by the Boiler and Pressure Vessel Safety Unit.

The Board of Boiler and Pressure Vessel Rules advises the division on rules and regulations governing the program.

Elevator Safety Act

In 1994, the 86th General Assembly enacted House Bill 1035, creating the Elevator Safety Act. This act established an Elevator Safety Board to develop and adopt a code of rules and regulations relating to the construction, maintenance, testing and inspection of all elevators and similar devices, as well as the evaluation of variance requests.

The act requires annual safety inspections of every elevator and similar devices as specified in the statute. Upon an approved inspection, a state operating certificate is issued.

Amusement Ride Safety Act

In 1997, House Bill 276 was enacted relating to amusement ride safety. It requires annual safety inspections of all amusement rides and mandates each ride have a state operating permit before operating in Missouri. Additionally, division staff has the authority to conduct spot inspections on any ride operating in the state.

If a serious injury or death occurs as a result of the operation of an amusement ride, the Division of Fire Safety initiates an investigation into the cause of the accident.

Staff of the elevator safety program performs the duties required to support the Amusement Ride Safety Act. This program is overseen by a nine-member Amusement Ride Safety Board, which advises the division on rules and regulations governing the program.

Fire Safety Standard and Firefighter Protection

This act, passed in 2009, assigns the Division of Fire Safety responsibility for monitoring cigarette manufacturers' compliance with the requirement that only reduced ignition propensity cigarettes are sold in Missouri. Since Dec. 31, 2010, cigarettes sold in Missouri have been required to be fire-safe compliant (FSC).

Division responsibilities include verification of individual cigarette brand styles based upon nationally recognized testing standards to ensure compliance with state law. The division maintains a list of cigarettes meeting the established performance standard. The list is also provided to the state Attorney General's Office and the Missouri Department of Revenue.

The division recertifies the cigarettes every three years, approves cigarette pack FSC labeling and manages the Cigarette Fire Safety and Fire Fighter Protection Act Fund used to support fire prevention and safety programs.

Missouri Volunteer Firefighter Workers' Compensation Grant

This act, passed in 2016 and fully funded in 2021, provides the Division of Fire Safety the ability, subject to appropriations, to disburse grant funding to any applying volunteer fire protection association to fund such association's costs related to workers' compensation insurance premiums. Subject to the review of the application, grants of $500 to $2,000 may be awarded.

Missouri Division of Alcohol and Tobacco Control

The Department of Liquor Control was established by the Liquor Control Act in 1934 and was restructured as a division within the Department of Public Safety in 1974. The Division of Liquor Control's name was changed to the Division of Alcohol and Tobacco Control (ATC) in 2003. The division's responsibilities are to enforce the liquor control laws under Chapter 311, RSMo, the youth access to tobacco laws under Chapter 407, RSMo, and the rules and regulations of the state supervisor of alcohol and tobacco control. The agency's responsibilities are four-pronged: revenue collection, through liquor licensing and excise tax reconciliation; brand label registration; education/outreach; and enforcement. The liquor control laws and the state's system of alcoholic beverage regulations are designed to ensure the public health and safety as affected by intoxicating beverages. ATC oversees the collection of excise taxes on alcoholic beverages and license fees. Additionally, state statute mandates the division protect consumers from tainted alcohol products and the liquor industry from infiltration and exploitation by the criminal element.

The Division of Alcohol and Tobacco Control is headed by the state supervisor. The state supervisor has the authority under Chapter 311, RSMo, to promulgate regulations, issue liquor licenses and suspend, revoke or fine liquor licenses for liquor control law violations. The supervisor also has the authority under Chapter 407, RSMo, to impose discipline against retail outlets for violations of the youth access to tobacco law.

Licensing Compliance Section

There are two primary functions of the licensing and compliance section. The first is to ensure general compliance with liquor control laws requiring the collection of excise taxes on all alcoholic beverages brought and distributed in Missouri. Approximately $49 million is collected annually from liquor, wine and beer taxes for deposit into the general revenue fund (beer and liquor tax) and wine and grape board funds (wine tax). This is achieved by cross tier reporting and audits of licensed manufacturers, wineries, breweries and wholesalers. Additionally, the division collects and deposits over $6.3 million in license fees and processes over 36,000 license applications annually.

The second primary function of this section is overseeing compliance regarding primary American source of supply and brand registration, which provides assurances to Missouri citizens that products are safe for consumption and ensuring all excise taxes due have been paid. This section is also responsible for retention of the division's records.

Enforcement Section

The enforcement section is composed of both liquor and tobacco enforcement. Liquor agents are assigned to one of four district offices, while tobacco agents work remotely throughout the state. The enforcement section is supervised by the chief of enforcement and deputy chief of enforcement, and staffed with POST-licensed district supervisors, special agents and agents. Each section is responsible for enforcing the liquor and tobacco laws with a special emphasis on youth access to alcohol and tobacco. This is achieved by conducting plainclothes investigations, routine inspections, responding to citizen inquiries and complaints, working with local law enforcement and city and county licensing offices, and educating licensees on liquor control laws, tobacco laws and regulations.

Educational Programs

The Division of Alcohol and Tobacco Control takes a proactive stance to compliance by providing industry education, retail server training and law enforcement education programs. Seminars are routinely conducted for retail servers across the state to reduce access of alcohol and tobacco to underage youth, prevent over-service of alcohol, and inform licensees and their employees of liquor laws and regulations relevant to their retail license.

Informational pamphlets are also provided to assist retailers in complying with liquor and tobacco laws and regulations. ATC has educational materials for law enforcement agencies regarding the enforcement of liquor and tobacco laws. Additionally, staff conduct site visits, audits, and routine inspections at in-state establishments to discuss compliance issues and to educate licensees.

Since its inception in 1931, the Missouri State Highway Patrol (MSHP) has served and protected the residents and visitors of Missouri. Along with its emphasis of traffic and water safety, the Patrol is responsible for motor vehicle and commercial vehicle inspection programs, driver license examinations, criminal investigations, crime laboratory analysis, related research and statistics, public education on safety issues, etc. The Patrol is a full-service, professional law enforcement agency, accredited by the Commission on Accreditation of Law Enforcement Agencies, Inc. since 1992.

The Patrol utilizes enforcement and education in its approach to traffic and boating safety. DWI saturations, hazardous moving violation projects, SAFETE commercial vehicle checks, and Click It or Ticket campaigns are examples of enforcement projects aimed at making Missouri's roadways safer. Marine enforcement troopers schedule sobriety saturations and equipment spot checks on Missouri's lakes and rivers. Missouri participates in Operation Dry Water, a national campaign to detect and apprehend intoxicated watercraft operators. In addition, troopers are present at large-scale marine events to enhance safety. News releases, public service announcements, social media posts, and safety programs educate the public about a variety of traffic safety, water safety, and crime prevention topics throughout the year.

The Patrol continues to expand its expertise and success in the area of peer-to-peer file sharing investigations identifying suspects sharing child pornography files over the internet. The agency developed teams across the state to serve search warrants. The teams use an efficient computer network to communicate about investigations in real time, greatly increasing their efficiency. The supervisor of the Special Victims Unit is the first member of the Patrol to be certified as an expert witness for these types of investigations.

The Patrol's Field Operations Bureau continues to coordinate Interdiction for the Protection of Children training. Troopers in all areas of the state have rescued children who were abducted, being sexually abused, or forced into human trafficking.

The Patrol continues to utilize the Show-Me Integrity Accountability Portal to provide transparency to the public. The accountability portal provides insight into Patrol policies, training, important functions, career opportunities, and community outreach, as well as related statistics about traffic crashes, use of force by the Patrol, Patrol pursuits and traffic stops. The public can access the portal through the Patrol website (statepatrol.dps.mo.gov).

During natural disasters, critical incidents and social unrest Patrol employees have served as a beacon of integrity and professionalism.

The State Emergency Management Agency's (SEMA) mission is to help Missourians prepare for, respond to and recover from severe weather and all emergencies, each step guided by SEMA's core values of respect, integrity, trust, honesty and compassion. Disasters include major ice storms, blizzards, floods, tornadoes, severe weather, earthquakes, pandemics, hazardous material events and nuclear power plant incidents, radiological and biological events and terrorism. SEMA's program is nationally accredited by the Emergency Management Accreditation Program (EMAP).

To meet this mission, SEMA coordinates and develops the State Emergency Operations Plan, which directs the actions of Missouri state departments and agencies to assist requesting local jurisdictions. SEMA oversees Missouri's disaster preparedness, floodplain management, hazard mitigation and disaster public assistance programs, and coordinates the state's response operations for all types of large-scale emergencies. SEMA is organized into four divisions: Preparedness, Response, Recovery and Fiscal.

State Emergency Operations Center

SEMA and the State Emergency Operations Center (SEOC) are located at the Missouri National Guard Ike Skelton Training Site, east of Jefferson City. SEOC enables state agencies to gather situational awareness, coordinate planning and direct Missouri's disaster and emergency response and recovery operations.

Coordination of Preparedness Activities

Preparedness is a joint responsibility of local, state and federal governments. SEMA coordinates preparedness activities and administers federally funded programs. These programs include disaster planning, earthquake preparedness, radiological protection, public warning, and training and exercises. SEMA offers free classes to local emergency management agencies, local officials, first responders, schools and volunteers.

Preparedness Division

To ensure effective disaster response and recovery coordination at the local, regional and state levels, the Preparedness Division works with local, state and federal partners in a continuous cycle of planning, training, exercising, evaluating and corrective actions. The division includes the Planning Section, which contains the Strategic National Stockpile (SNS) Program; Continuity of Operations Planning (COOP) and leads the coordination among all state departments and multiple planning and preparedness initiatives. The Training and Exercise Unit is focused on providing local, regional and statewide training and exercise activities. The Radiological Emergency Program (REP) ensures the state and local jurisdictions are prepared to respond to adverse events at nuclear

The Emergency Human Services Unit (EHS) works with state agencies and volunteer and faith-based organizations active in disaster response and recovery, including the Governor's Faith-Based and Community Service Partnership for Disaster Recovery and Missouri Voluntary Organizations Active in Disasters. EHS also houses the state Medical Reserve Corps Program. SEMA works closely with the Department of Health and Senior Services to coordinate and execute work plan activities for the Public Health Emergency Preparedness Program as well as the Hospital Preparedness Program.

Response Division

The Response Division is responsible for disaster management operations in support of local jurisdictions and state agencies, providing coordination required to effectively manage large scale incidents. The Response Division is responsible for managing the State Emergency Operations Center and is also responsible for the Watch Center, the Missouri Disaster Medical Assistance Team (MO DMAT1), Missouri Mortuary Operations Response Team (MO MORT-1) and the SEMA Warehouse, along with maintaining a constant state of readiness to respond to the emergency needs of the state. The Response Division includes the Regional Coordinator Program, Logistics/Resources Section and the Facilities/Communications Section. There are nine SEMA Regions across the state. There are 10 Regional Coordinators embedded around the state assigned to regions that mirror the Missouri State Highway Patrol troops. Region C is assigned two Regional Coordinators and is recognized as two segments, Urban and Rural.

The main responsibility of the Regional Coordinators is serving as the critical liaison link between SEMA and the local emergency manager and emergency management partners. The Watch Center is responsible for monitoring all communications equipment, including radio, satellite phone, and video equipment. The Logistics/Resources Section coordinates the acquisition and delivery of critical resources, along with services and supplies to areas of the state impacted by disasters. This helps facilitate both business community recovery and charitable disaster assistance from the business community. The Response Division works with SEMA's Planning Section to develop and maintain the State Emergency Operations Plan. MO DMAT1 is responsible for maintaining a Mobile Medical Unit (MMU), an 60-bed mobile hospital; two 24-bed mobile emergency room units; and three Rapid Response 6-bed units. There are 300 members on this team who are activated as needed. The team is responsible for training and exercising all members and equipment. MO MORT-1 is responsible for maintaining a Disaster Portable Morgue (DPMU) to aid local jurisdictions in identifying victims following a mass fatality event. The SEMA warehouse contains DMAT equipment, Strategic National Stockpile (SNS) personal protective equipment (PPE) and equipment and SEMA emergency equipment, including generators, pumps, shelters and PPE.

Recovery Division

The Recovery Division is responsible for requesting and administering federal and state funds for all presidentially declared disasters. This division assists Missouri communities recover from and mitigate against disasters. The division consist of the Disaster Recovery Section, Inter-agency Recovery Coordination Section, Hazard Mitigation Section, Floodplain Management Section and Floodplain Engineering and Mapping Section. The Disaster Recovery Section is responsible for administering the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) Public Assistance Program and the Fire Management Assistance Grant, along with coordination of damage assessments for the FEMA Individuals and Households Program and the Small Business Administration Program. The Hazard Mitigation Section works with local communities to minimize the adverse impacts of disasters and is responsible for updating and maintaining Missouri's State Hazard Mitigation Plan. Missouri is one of only 15 states with Enhanced Hazard Mitigation Plans status from the Federal Emergency Management Agency. Missouri's enhanced status means the state receives additional mitigation funding following federal disaster declarations. The Hazard Mitigation Section administers three federal grant programs, which allows for the update of 114 county mitigation plans, as well as the plan for the independent City of St. Louis. These federal mitigation grants also provide funding for projects such as voluntary flood buyouts, community tornado safe rooms, bridge replacement, bank stabilization and burying public utility lines. The Floodplain Management Section administers Missouri's floodplain management activities. It serves as the liaison between FEMA and local communities participating in the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP). It provides guidance, technical assistance, and training to NFIP communities, as well as to organizations involved in floodplain determinations; serves as a resource for flood maps and related technical data; assists local floodplain administrators with maintaining community compliance with the NFIP; assists non-participating communities apply for NFIP participation; provides review comments to state agencies pertaining to proposed floodplain development; provides technical assistance to state and federal agencies and community officials in the aftermath of a Governor's State of Emergency Declaration and a Major Presidential Disaster Declaration; and conducts Substantial Damage Estimates in the aftermath of a flood event to assist communities with repetitive loss and severe repetitive loss properties. The Floodplain Engineering and Mapping Section collaborates with FEMA as a Cooperating Technical Partner (CTP) in updating and maintaining the quality of the NFIP Flood Insurance Rate Maps. As a partner, the Floodplain Engineering and Mapping Section holds meetings in counties being mapped, including Initial Discover Meetings, Flood Study Review Meetings and Consultation Coordinator Officer Meetings as part of the community engagement process leading to the issuance of the Letter of Final Determination. The various flood mapping meetings are to ensure communities are engaged with the remapping process and assume ownership of the information provided in the revised effective NFIP FIRM products when a project is complete.

Finance and Administrative Division

The Finance Division includes the Fiscal Administration and Emergency Management Performance Grant sections. The Fiscal Administration Section provides administrative services such as accounting, budgeting, grant administration, procurement, fleet management, human resources, payroll and general office services. It coordinates and administers federal, state and local grant requests. The Emergency Management Performance Grant Section (EMPG) administers federal assistance to SEMA and local government emergency management agencies in support of all-hazard emergency management capabilities. An all-hazard approach to emergency response, including the development of a comprehensive program of planning, training and exercises supporting an effective and consistent response to disasters and emergencies, regardless of the cause.

Earthquake Program

SEMA's Earthquake Program provides operational oversight and administrative support to the 1,000-member Structural Assessment Visual Evaluation (SAVE) Coalition authorized by Section 44.023, RSMo. This statute establishes a volunteer cadre for post-disaster building inspections to determine if damaged buildings are safe for occupation. SAVE coalition members are architects, engineers, building inspectors and construction industry professionals.

Missouri Seismic Safety Commission

SEMA provides administrative support to the Missouri Seismic Safety Commission (MSSC), which was established by section 44.227, RSMo, to initiate a comprehensive program to help Missouri prepare for and respond to a major earthquake. The commission prepares and updates a strategic plan for reducing earthquake hazards in the state. Members also help organize Earthquake Awareness Month (February) activities.

Missouri Emergency Response Commission

The Missouri Emergency Response Commission's (MERC) mission is to protect public health and the environment by assisting communities with chemical incident prevention, preparedness, response and recovery.

Missouri Revised Statutes 292.600 –625 and Division 10, Chapter 11 of the Rules of Public Safety title 11 CSR 20-1.210 established a state-wide hazardous material safety program, and created the Missouri Emergency Response Commission. Title 11 CSR 20-1.210 further defines the powers and duties of the Missouri Emergency Response Commission concerning the imposition of obligations and appropriate penalties for inappropriate actions by certain hazardous materials handlers. The Missouri Hazardous Material Emergency Planning and Response Act formalized county compliance with the federal Emergency Planning and Community Right-to-Know Act of 1986, which sought to improve offsite safety around chemical facilities. Title 11 CSR 20-1.210 designates MERC as the State Emergency Response Commission (SERC), which is required by the Superfund Amendment and Reauthorization Act (SARA) Title III. It also creates a supplemental emergency preparedness funding base for chemical emergency preparedness at the county and state levels based upon fees collected from the chemical industry. The fees enable Local Emergency Planning Committees (LEPCs) to prepare offsite response plans, acquire response team equipment, and develop public "Right-to-Know" education programs, conduct chemical industry awareness and compliance programs, and conduct relevant training, drills and exercises. The requirement applies to owners and operators of manufacturing facilities that have 500 pounds or more of an Extremely Hazardous Substance (EHS) chemical, 10,000 pounds or more of a hazardous chemical or a quantity necessary referenced by the Threshold Planning Quantity of the chemical through the EPA List of Lists.

The Missouri Veterans Commission is a state agency established by Missouri Statute to aid all Veterans, their dependents, and legal representatives by providing information regarding the rights of Veterans and their dependents and to assist Veterans accessing their available benefits through State and Federal Government.

This is accomplished through programs and services funded by the state and federal governments.

Our Mission

MVC is "Always on Mission" to serve Veterans as the first choice in skilled nursing care; best choice in securing benefits and proven choice in a dignified resting place.

Our History

The State Federal Soldier's Home was established in 1896 by the Women's Relief Corps Soldiers' Home Association and was deeded to Missouri in 1897. Its original purpose was to provide care to aging Missourians who had fought for the Union in the Civil War. In 1931, the state legislature, at the request of organized Veterans groups, created the Office of State Service Officer to counsel and assist Veterans of World War I and earlier conflicts, for whom numerous benefits were being made available through the newly established Veterans Administration.

In 1974, the Omnibus Reorganization Act combined the State Federal Soldier's Home and Office of State Service Officer programs, effectively renaming the home and establishing the Division of Veterans Affairs within the Department of Social Services. Four years later, in 1978, the Division of Veterans Affairs, as provided in Chapter 42, RSMo, was then transferred to the Department of Public Safety, Office of the Adjutant General, by a Type I transfer.

Executive order 81-18 (February 1981) passed at the first regular session of the 81st General Assembly and put this law into effect in September 1981.

On Aug. 28, 1989, the Division of Veterans Affairs was replaced by the establishment of the Missouri Veterans Commission as a type III transfer. Chapter 42, RSMo, governs the commission's operation as a state agency, stating the commission shall be composed of nine members. In addition, the chair of the Missouri military preparedness and enhancement commission or the chair's designee shall be an ex officio member of the commission.

The commissioners then appoint an executive director, who implements commission policies and is responsible for statewide management of Veterans programs. The executive director reports to the commission concerning all aspects of program operations through quarterly commission meetings.

Services and benefits provided to Veterans by the Missouri Commission are:

Veterans Services Program

Through the Missouri Veterans Commission Veterans Service Program, accredited Veterans Service Officers (VSO) provide counseling and assistance to thousands of Veterans and their dependents throughout the state. Not only do these trained professionals counsel Veterans on available VA and state Veterans' benefits, but also complete and submit claims applications with all necessary documentation.

Information concerning locations and phone numbers of Veterans Service Officers may be found on the Commission's website: mvc.dps.mo.gov.

VSOs are thoroughly trained and knowledgeable in all areas of Veterans benefits, including service-connected compensation, non-service connected disability pension, education and training, vocational rehabilitation, burial, and survivor benefits. They will also assist claimants with health care eligibility, VA Home Loan Guaranty, and other Veterans benefits, including those offered by the state.

Veterans Service Officers have access to the VA's Benefit Delivery Network system, allowing them to expedite the filing of claims and delivery of earned benefits to Veterans. Claimants must provide written authorization before the VA will grant access to a particular Veteran's file. This can be done when the Veteran applies for their earned benefits.

Veterans Service Officers are also available to groups interested in Veterans benefits. These qualified personnel may give presentations and instruction regarding the benefits for which Veterans may be eligible as a result of military service in the U.S. Armed Forces.

Veterans Home Program

The Missouri Veterans Homes manage a total of 1,238 beds that provide long term skilled nursing care in compliance with 157 Federal Department of Veterans Affairs regulations. The Homes are located in Cameron, Cape Girardeau, Mexico, Mount Vernon, St. James, St. Louis, and Warrensburg.

Veterans in need of nursing home care may seek admission to a Missouri Veterans Home by filing an application with the home of their choice. Prospective residents may obtain application forms from any Missouri Veterans Home, from a Missouri Veterans Service Officer or by contacting the Veterans Commission Headquarters at (573) 751-3779. Home admission applications may also be downloaded from the commission's website, mvc.dps.mo.gov.

Eligibility

To be eligible for admission into a Missouri Veterans Home an individual must:

- Meet criteria established by the VA for Veterans status;

- Require 24-hour skilled nursing care services;
- Be a citizen of Missouri who has maintained a physical residency in Missouri for one hundred eighty (180) consecutive days immediately prior to application;
- Not appear on any sex offender registry;
- Not have a criminal history including conviction or guilty plea/nolo contendere in any state (which if committed in Missouri would be) a Class A or B felony violation;

State Veterans Cemetery Program

From the initial concept of a Veterans Cemetery program, one operational philosophy has remained constant; to honor our Veterans for their service and sacrifice. With that goal in mind, the Missouri Veterans Commission has created a network of Veterans cemeteries so that every Missouri Veteran will have reasonable access to a Veterans cemetery. At this time, five cemeteries are in operation: Springfield, Higginsville, Bloomfield, Ft. Leonard Wood, and Jacksonville. In addition, the sixth cemetery at Missouri Veterans Home St. James is not open to new interments.

The Missouri Department of Revenue was established by the legislature in 1945 and plays a key role in the collection of tax revenues and fees. This money, now over $20 billion a year, is the fuel that runs local and state government and funds many services and programs. In fiscal year 2025, the department processed more than 3.3 million individual tax returns, over 2.4 million business tax returns, and registered 77,000 new businesses.

The department is tasked with the titling and registration of motor vehicles and the licensing of Missouri's drivers, which may also entail the suspension or revocation of licenses due to motor vehicle transgressions, such as drunk driving. Missouri has over 4.4 million licensed drivers and 13.4 million active title records.

Office of the Director

The Office of the Director, which includes the director and other key staff, is responsible for administrative and policy decisions for the department. The office includes the deputy director, who is responsible for all operational aspects of the department; a business relations director, who oversees special projects and business initiatives; a legislative director, who facilitates the department's relationships with the legislature and other governmental branches; and the director of strategy and communications, who works with the news media, coordinates public awareness of department activities and acts as the department's spokesperson.

General Counsel's Office

The General Counsel's Office (GCO) ensures the department's compliance with state and federal law and internal policies. The GCO provides comprehensive legal counsel and representation for the department. This division helps keep Missouri drivers safe by enforcing the state's intoxicated driver laws in administrative hearings and court proceedings. The GCO also provides training concerning DWI laws to law enforcement officers, judges and other court personnel. This office represents the state in legal matters that involve taxation, bankruptcies and motor vehicle fraud.

Taxation

The Taxation Division collects taxes and administers the state's tax laws. The division works with Missouri businesses and citizens to ensure they are paying the accurate amount of tax to local jurisdictions and to the state. The division also seeks to lower the cost of doing business in Missouri by continually simplifying the process through which taxpayers can understand and meet their obligations. The division has six bureaus:

The Business Tax Bureau administers the state's motor fuel, cigarette / tobacco products, financial institutions, sales / use, and employer withholding tax, along with multiple county fees and a state tire and battery fee. This bureau is also responsible for the collection of marijuana taxes from licensed dispensaries.

The Collections and Tax Assistance (CATA) Bureau provides tax assistance to individuals and businesses and follows procedures for unpaid tax liabilities. This bureau is comprised of three main areas of focus: Contact Center, Taxpayer Assistance and Collection Enforcement. The overall focus is account resolution and customer assistance.

The Field Compliance Bureau educates and audits in-state and out-of-state taxpayers to ensure compliance with Missouri's tax laws.

The Income Tax Bureau administers individual, corporate, property tax credit, fiduciary and partnership taxes. The bureau is responsible for the administration of several tax credit programs and the redemption of tax credits claimed by individual and corporate taxpayers. Lastly, the bureau identifies and works to prevent individual income tax fraud.

Motor Vehicle and Driver Licensing Division

The Motor Vehicle and Driver Licensing Division (MVDL) is responsible for motor vehicle titling and registration, and driver licensing. The division provides a variety of services to owners of cars, trucks, motorcycles, trailers and boats. The MVDL also helps keep Missouri roads safer by maintaining records of serious violations of Missouri's traffic laws.

The Driver License Bureau issues commercial and non-commercial driver licenses, non-driver licenses and permits. The bureau is responsible for suspending, revoking and disqualifying licenses. The bureau maintains records relating to traffic violation point assessments, the administrative DWI and abuse-and-lose laws for alcohol and drug offenses, failure to appear in court for traffic violations, the safety responsibility (mandatory insurance) laws for uninsured motorists, and a variety of court-ordered driver license suspensions.

The License Offices Bureau oversees the operations of more than 170 license offices throughout the state to help Missourians process driver licensing, motor vehicle, marine craft, and titling and registration transactions. By statute, license office contracts are awarded through a competitive bidding process. The bureau ensures that all

The present State Tax Commission was created by an act of the 63rd General Assembly, identified in Section 138.190, RSMo.

The commission is composed of three members who are chosen from the two major political parties. The members are appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate.

The authority and responsibilities of the State Tax Commission are further defined and articulated in the landmark Supreme Court decision of State ex. rel. Cassilly v. Riney, which provided the genesis for the statewide equalization of assessments. The State Tax Commission was created to perform five basic functions. These functions are:

1. Equalize assessments;
2. Conduct de novo judicial hearings regarding valuation and classification appeals from local boards of equalization in individual assessment cases;
3. Formulate and implement statewide assessment policies and procedures to comply with statutory and constitutional mandates;
4. Supervise local assessing officials and local assessment programs to ensure compliance with statewide policy requirements; and
5. Assess the distributable property of railroads and public utilities.

The Missouri Department of Social Services (DSS) was constitutionally established in 1974 because "the health and general welfare of the people are matters of primary public concern." The department is charged with administering programs to promote, safeguard and protect the general welfare of children; to maintain and strengthen family life; and to aid people in need as they strive to achieve their highest level of independence.

The department is organized into four program divisions: Children's Division, Family Support Division, MO HealthNet Division and the Division of Youth Services. The Division of Finance and Administrative Services and the Division of Legal Services provide department-wide administrative and support services.

The department cooperates and partners with many private organizations, businesses and individuals to extend the outreach of human services to Missouri citizens.

Office of the Director

The director of the Department of Social Services is responsible for the overall administration of programs within the department except as otherwise provided by law. The director determines priorities for program implementation and has final approval for uses of state and federal funds appropriated to the department.

Missouri's State Technical Assistant Team (STAT) provides comprehensive, integrated services to the entire child protection community.

From data collection and interpretation of the causes of child fatalities to all types of child related criminal investigations, STAT provides training, support and expertise to professionals responsible for the protection of children.

The Missouri Medicaid Audit and Compliance Unit (MMAC) is responsible for administering and managing Medicaid (Title XIX) audit and compliance initiatives and managing and administering provider enrollment contracts under the Medicaid program. MMAC is charged with detecting, investigating and preventing fraud, waste and abuse of the Medicaid Title XIX, CHIP Title XXI, and waiver programs.

The Human Resource Center (HRC) guides the overall human resources management for the department's 6,500+ employees. The center is responsible for ensuring compliance with merit system rules and coordinating personnel activities in areas such as labor relations, union negotiations, recruitment, selection, classification, compensation, discipline, performance evaluation, personnel records maintenance, civil rights, investigations and compliance, employee grievance procedure and training.

Administration Divisions

The Division of Finance and Administrative Services provides centralized, financial and administrative support services to the department. Responsibilities include accounts payable, warehouse and inventory, emergency management, telecommunications, budget, child welfare eligibility, compliance services, procurement, grants management, cost allocation and cash management, payroll, research and data analysis.

The Division of Legal Services (DLS) provides comprehensive legal support to all programs and support divisions in DSS. The division represents the department, its divisions and the state. DLS is organized into four different units. The general counsel and special counsels provide legal advice and services to the DSS in the administration of its programs. The Litigation Unit represents DSS before administrative tribunals, in circuit court cases involving child welfare, permanency planning, child abuse and neglect, information privacy issues and other matters not handled by the Attorney General's Office.

The Administrative Hearings Unit presides over administrative fair hearings in Child Support and Income Maintenance cases. The Investigations Unit is responsible for investigating fraud and abuse by public assistance recipients, recipients and DSS contractors receiving public assistance funds. The Investigations Unit pursues criminal and administrative remedies for fraud and abuse cases, and manages the claims and restitution unit for recovery of fraudulently obtained benefits.

The division has a legal mandate to provide services in four primary areas: child abuse and neglect investigations, family assessments, prevention, treatment and alternative care placement services to children and families, and provision of child care.

Children's Division promotes child welfare by providing services to advance family stability, investigating allegations of abuse and neglect, managing cases in which children have been placed into state custody, and working to reunify such children with their families. In cases where family reunification is not possible, the Children's Division operates within the court system to move children toward stable long-term arrangements such as guardianship, adoption or independent living.

The Residential Program Unit (RPU) inspects and licenses foster care facilities, residential care facilities and child placing agencies. In addition, the licensing staff monitors licensed facilities to ensure the facilities maintain requisite standards, conducts public education programs and consults with facility personnel in the development and implementation of services to the children being served, as well as residential program development.

Organization

The Children's Division (CD) is administered by a director appointed by the department director (DSS). The CD director leads a group of deputy directors and regional directors. Deputy directors focus on specific functions of the agency such as operations, prevention and response and foster care management. The state is divided into six regions (St. Louis, Southeast, Southwest, Kansas City, Northwest and Northeast) each having a regional director. The deputy directors and regional directors together function as the leadership team regarding issues of policy and practice. Each region has field support managers who provide guidance and assistance to supervisory staff in the field. Children's Division is organized by the 46 judicial circuits of the state. St. Louis and Kansas City are led by their regional directors. The rest of the circuits each have a circuit manager who provides leadership in that community.

Prevention

Federal and State law provide that before children are removed from their families, the Children's Division must make reasonable efforts to prevent that removal. CD works with private and public community partners to identify families in need and to direct those families to services which will avoid the necessity of removing children from their homes. Community prevention services may be offered to struggling families before a formal investigation, or those services may take place after such an investigation has revealed that child maltreatment has occurred. Some families may be referred to services which exist in the community, or CD may directly offer family-centered services to provide parents with the skills to safely care for children in their own homes. In addition, CD initiates meetings with at-risk families and their support networks to help craft strategies by which families can use their own resources to promote child safety and well-being.

Child Abuse and Neglect Investigations and Assessments

The division is responsible for receiving reports of alleged child abuse or neglect. Once a report is received, the division responds to assure safety of the child(ren). The goals of child abuse or neglect investigations and assessments are to assess the level of risk to the child(ren), protect the child(ren) from harm, determine if abuse or neglect occurred as reported and provide services to the family.

Under the provisions of the Child Abuse and Neglect Law (sections 210.110 and 210.167, RSMo): a "child" is any person under 18 years of age; "abuse" includes both actual and threatened physical injury, sexual or emotional abuse inflicted on a child other than by accidental means by those responsible for his or her care, custody and control, except that discipline, including spanking, administered in a reasonable manner, shall not be construed to be abuse; "neglect" is failure to provide, by those responsible for the care, custody and control of the child, the proper or necessary support and education as required by law, or medical, surgical or any other care necessary for the child's well-being; and "persons responsible for the care, custody and control of the child" include, but are not limited to, the parents or guardians of the child, other members of the child's household or those people exercising supervision over a child for any part of a 24-hour day.

These investigations are often done in conjunction with criminal investigations by law enforcement. If the evidence found meets the legal definition of child abuse or neglect then additional services may be offered to children in the home, or the case may be referred to a juvenile officer who will consider whether to remove the child and seek legal and physical custody before the juvenile court. Only juvenile officers, law enforcement, or medical professionals may order children removed from their homes, and those actions must be affirmed by a judge. A court hearing will be held within three days, at which time the court may place the child in the legal custody of the Children's Division and order that the child be placed with relatives or foster parents, or returned home with additional services.

When citizens suspect a child has been abused or neglected, they may call a centralized hotline unit of the division, which is required to provide toll free statewide telephone service 24 hours a day, seven days a week for reporting purposes (1-800-392-3738). Mandated reporters may also report concerns online through the Online System for Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting (OSCR).

Family-Centered Services

The overriding goal of family-centered services is to prevent child abuse or neglect, and the removal of the child from the home, by stabilizing the family and improving family functioning.

Treatment services, referred to as "family-centered services," are provided in preventive and protective capacities. Protective family-centered services are case management services provided to families when a finding of child abuse and neglect has been determined by a preponderance of evidence at the conclusion of an investigation. Preventive family-centered services are offered when an investigation of abuse or neglect is unsubstantiated or when a family assessment detects concerns that might be mitigated by services to help prevent abuse or neglect. Preventive services are contingent on the family's willingness to accept services. Families may also self-refer for services. Services may be provided by CD staff and/or purchased on behalf of the family.

Federal law mandates that the division provide services to children and families of children in alternative care. These services are geared to ward permanency for the child(ren), either by reunification with his or her biological parent(s) or permanency through adoption or guardianship. The goals of these services are to prevent further child abuse or neglect, mitigate family factors that could lead to further child abuse or neglect, reunite children with their families when possible and obtain permanent homes for children who cannot safely return home through adoption or guardianship.

To achieve these goals, the division employs staff to provide services to eligible children and families. These services are provided through direct services and contracted services.

Direct Services

Children's Division staff provides direct services to families in treatment and families whose children are in alternative care settings. Children's Division staff works with families in assessing service needs and case planning. Actual services may be provided by CD staff, through contractors or both.

Alternative care services (family-centered, out-of-home services) are provided to children who are determined by the juvenile court to need care in a setting other than their biological family homes. These children are cared for in substitute family care or non-familial group care. Any one of three types of licensed settings provides alternative care: foster family homes, group facilities and residential treatment facilities. Transitional living services and independent living may also be utilized for older youth who might not return home and for whom adoption or guardianship is not deemed appropriate. Some alternative care cases are managed directly by CD, while others are referred to private Foster Care Case Management (FCCM) services.

By law and practice, family members always receive first priority as placement options if it can be done safely. CD provides support and guidance to foster parents and family members exercising physical custody of children in alternative care. Once a child enters alternative care, CD is required to make reasonable efforts to reunify that child with his or her family. If reunification is not accomplished within legally prescribed timeframes, the court may order that another long term arrangement be made for the child, such as adoption or guardianship. Children's Division provides all required information to effectuate those court-ordered outcomes.

Families who wish to adopt children unable to reunite with their families may, in some instances, receive an adoption subsidy payment.

This is a statewide program developed to provide financial benefits, in the form of a subsidy, to encourage potential adoptive parents to adopt and to finance the cost of adopting "special needs" children.

Contracted Services

Contracted services are available to individuals and families who are receiving family-centered services, or in efforts to recruit and maintain resources for permanency. These services are usually provided as a result of a child abuse/neglect report with a "preponderance of evidence" finding, but may also be authorized for children in alternative care, children in adoptive placements, and family members receiving preventive treatment services or foster and adoptive services. Services are provided through contracts with both public and private community agencies and play a major role in extending services throughout the state.

The Family Support Division (FSD) is responsible for the administration of the following programs and services: Food Stamps, Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF), Missouri Works Assistance, Food Distribution, Food Nutrition and Employment Training (SkillsUP), Emergency Solutions Grant, Child Support, MO HealthNet Eligibility, State Children's Health Insurance Program (SCHIP) Eligibility, Services for the Blind and Visually Impaired, Energy Assistance, Supplemental Nursing Care, Adult Supplementation, Supplemental Aid to the Blind, Blind Pension, Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP) and Community Services Block Grant.

Organization

The Family Support Division is administered by a director appointed by the department director (DSS). The division has at least one location in each county and in the City of St. Louis to provide customers with access to the Income Maintenance Programs. The division maintains offices across the state for the administration of the Child Support Program. Administration of the Rehabilitation Services for the Blind is managed by six offices throughout Missouri.

Income Maintenance Programs

The determination of an individual's financial need is basic to the granting of Temporary Assistance, Food Stamps, Supplemental Aid to the Blind, medical assistance and nursing care benefits. The division has a legal requirement to consider all facts and circumstances in determining eligibility for public assistance, including the applicant's earning capacity, income and resources from whatever source received. If the applicant is not found to be in need, assistance is denied.

Temporary Assistance

Temporary Assistance for Needy Families, (TANF), makes cash grants on behalf of needy children who are living in homes maintained by parents or close relatives. This program provides temporary financial assistance while the adult transitions to self-sufficiency. TANF funds also support employment and training programs.

MO HealthNet

The Family Support Division determines participant eligibility for MO HealthNet services. MO HealthNet refers to the statewide medical assistance programs for elderly, disabled and blind individuals; low-income families; pregnant women and children who meet certain eligibility requirements. In order to qualify for the MO HealthNet program, individuals must be a resident of the state of Missouri a U.S. national citizen, or a permanent resident or legal alien in need of health care/insurance assistance.

Family income is compared to the applicable percentage of the federal poverty guidelines. The applicable income limit for children is dependent on the age of the child(ren). The goals of the MO HealthNet program are to promote good health, prevent illness and premature death, correct or limit disability, treat illness and provide rehabilitation to persons with disabilities. Eligible persons receive a MO HealthNet identification card. There is no cash assistance with this program, although the program does pay for Medicare premiums for eligible individuals.

Supplemental Aid to the Blind and Blind Pension

The division administers two separate programs for the blind: Supplemental Aid to the Blind (SAB) and the Blind Pension Program. Under the SAB program, the amount of the monthly grant is $750 minus any Supplemental Security Income (SSI) payment received. Under the Blind Pension Program, a flat monthly payment of $750 per person is made. The programs differ slightly in eligibility requirements. Funds are provided from a Missouri constitutionally established blind pension fund with no matching federal funds. In addition to the cash grant, individuals in both programs are provided with medical coverage from MO HealthNet.

Supplemental Nursing Care

The Supplemental Nursing Care Program in Missouri provides cash assistance and medical services coverage to eligible aged, blind or disabled individuals who reside in non-Medicaid, licensed skilled nursing, intermediate care, assisted living or residential care facilities. Individuals who reside in licensed, skilled nursing facilities or intermediate care facilities may receive monthly cash benefits of up to a maximum of $390. If they live in a licensed assisted living facility, they may be eligible for monthly cash benefits of up to $292, or if in a licensed residential care facility, they may receive monthly cash benefits of up to $156.

Food Stamp and Food Distribution Programs

The Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), known as the Food Stamp Program in Missouri, is designed to help low-income families increase their purchasing power for buying nutritious food for their families. Depending upon the adjusted income and the number of persons in the household, a family receives a monthly benefit amount. The division is responsible for determining the eligibility of Food Stamp applicants according to guidelines established by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

The division also administers a number of food distribution programs providing USDA donated foods through, Summer Food Service Programs for Children and the Emergency Food Assistance Program (TEFAP).

Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program

Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP) provides assistance to low-income individuals to help pay for heating and cooling. Eligibility for assistance is based on household income and the number of persons residing in the household. Benefit amounts vary based on income, family size and type of fuel utilized. Missouri provides three programs with the LIHEAP grant: Energy Assistance/Regular Heating (EA), Energy Crisis Intervention Program (ECIP) and the Low-Income Weatherization Assistance Program (LIWAP).

Community Services Block Grant Program

The Community Services Block Grant Program (CSBG) makes funds available to support efforts that reduce poverty, revitalize low-income communities and empower low-income families and individuals to become fully self-sufficient. Most CSBG programs are operated locally by community action agencies that provide direct services to individuals and families whose income falls within the federal poverty guidelines, as well as mobilize communities to identify and address the causes and conditions of poverty in their geographic area.

Emergency Solutions Grant Program

The Emergency Solutions Grant (ESG) Program provides funding for emergency homeless shelters and street outreach to the homeless. It also provides homelessness prevention and rapid re-housing services to homeless individuals, their families and those at risk of becoming homeless. The overall goal of the ESG program is to move participants to and help them retain permanent housing.

Blind and Visually Impaired Services Program

The Rehabilitation Services for the Blind program administers the following services to blind or visually impaired Missourians: Vocational Rehabilitation (VR), Prevention of Blindness, Independent Living Rehabilitation, Readers for the Blind, Independent Living, Older Blind (ILR-OB), Children Services (CS) and the Enterprise Program (BEP).

Vocational rehabilitation services are supported by both federal and state funds. Services include diagnosis and evaluation, counseling and guidance, physical and mental restoration, college and other types of vocational training, job placement and services after employment when needed. Vocational rehabilitation services are to enable a person with visual disabilities to obtain or retain suitable employment. The readers for the blind program provides up to $500 per year to meet the cost of readers for legally blind individuals who are attending post-secondary institutions.

Prevention of blindness services are funded with state funds and Blindness Education, Screening and Treatment (BEST) funds. Services are for the purpose of early detection of eye disease that may lead to blindness, and when indicated, providing treatment to eligible persons. Services include diagnostic examinations, surgery, hospitalization, glasses, prostheses and medications that are not available through other sources. These services are conditional upon the financial need of the individual. Free vision screening clinics are conducted in conjunction with schools of ophthalmology in Missouri. Free glaucoma screening clinics are conducted throughout the state.

Independent living rehabilitation services—including services for adults, children and the OBS program for seniors over age 55—are supported by both federal and state funds. Services are for the purposes of enabling that person to function independently in the home and community and/or to succeed in appropriate educational settings. Services include diagnosis and evaluation; adjustment to blindness services; alternative techniques in the areas of daily living activities; counseling and families supportive services; physical restoration; homemaking; communication; and orientation to, and travel within, the home and community.

The federal/state Randolph-Sheppard Business Enterprise Program provides employment opportunities for legally blind persons who have participated in special training and are licensed by the division to manage a vending facility located in federal, state and private industry. Vending facilities range from full food service cafeterias to banks of vending machines.

The Children's Services Program focuses on blind and visually impaired children and their families, providing assistance with education and advocacy. Services include early identification and intervention, fostering a positive sense of self, regardless of vision loss, facilitating access to community services specific to the individual needs of the child, and helping families find information about blindness and its impact on their child's education and future.

Child Support Program

Missouri's Child Support Program operates pursuant to Title IV-D of the federal Social Security Act and Chapter 454, RSMo.

Child Support Program responsibilities include location of parents, paternity establishment, establishing child and medical support orders, enforcing support orders, reviewing support orders for modification and distributing child support collections.

The Family Support Division collects child support on behalf of families receiving public assistance. In addition, individuals not receiving public assistance benefits may apply for child support services.

Currently, the federal government funds the program at the rate of 66%. In addition to federal funds, the state is entitled to retain approximately 34% of the collections it receives for families that receive temporary assistance.

The program partners with county prosecuting attorneys through cooperative agreements to assist with child support activities. Additionally, the program partners with the state attorney general through a cooperative agreement to assist with child support enforcement and modification activities. The program also partners with federal agencies, the Department of Corrections and several community agencies to provide outreach to clients.

Pursuant to section 454.530, RSMo, the FSD, together with the Missouri Department of Revenue, operates the state disbursement unit known as the Family Support Payment Center (FSPC), which receives and disburses support on behalf of families. FSD collected $672.8 million in state Fiscal Year 2018.

- Ensure access to healthcare and services matches the needs of our most vulnerable populations;
- Improve participants' experience and healthcare outcomes, and increase their independence;
- Partner with providers to make our care delivery system future-proof;
- Become a leader in the implementation of value-based care in Medicaid.

MO HealthNet Program

MO HealthNet provides healthcare services required by the federal government, such as hospital and physician services. The division also covers optional services, such as pharmaceutical items. Waivers allow MO HealthNet to offer other additional services. Waivers are time-limited and must be cost neutral. The services covered by MO HealthNet are approved by the Missouri General Assembly and can be found in RSMo 208.152.

The department (DSS) is considered the single state agency, responsible for Missouri's Medicaid program and its financial administration and federal reimbursement. The MO HealthNet program is jointly funded by state and federal funds. Children, pregnant women, Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) recipients and children in state custody, receive their healthcare services through one of MO HealthNet's contracted managed care health plans. Other MO HealthNet participants such as those in the aged, blind, or disabled populations receive their healthcare services are "carved out" of managed care, meaning the managed care eligible populations still receive those services, but through the Fee-For-Service program.

MO HealthNet also administers the Children's Health Insurance Program (CHIP). CHIP provides healthcare coverage to uninsured children above the Title XIX mandatory coverage guidelines.

The MO HealthNet division partners with the departments of Health and Senior Services, Mental Health and Elementary and Secondary Education, in administering programs for the Medicaid populations such as Home and Community Based Services, Substance Use Treatment and Rehabilitation and the First Steps program for toddlers with delayed developmental conditions.

The Omnibus Reorganization Act of 1974 created the Division of Youth Services (DYS) and placed it within the Department of Social Services.

Youth judged to be delinquent and in need of rehabilitation and education are committed to the division by the state's juvenile (circuit) courts until approved for return to the community under supervision or discharged.

The division provides an array of services including residential care, nonresidential and community-based services and after-care supervision. Chapter 219, RSMo, outlines the division's responsibility to also include prevention of delinquency, incentive subsidy to juvenile courts, consultative and information services and technical assistance to local communities.

Organization

The division is administered by the director, who is appointed by the department director (DSS). The division operates structured residential programs providing youth rehabilitation, treatment and education services through a continuum of secure and moderate care centers and community-based group homes. Nonresidential programs include case management, day treatment, family therapy and youth employment. Five regional administrators are responsible for the programs in their geographical areas. Central office personnel, together with the regional administrators, aid the director in planning, monitoring and ongoing quality improvement of all agency services.

Goals and Objectives

The vision of Missouri DYS is that every young person served will become a productive citizen and lead a fulfilling life. The mission is to enable youth to fulfill their needs in a responsible manner within the context of and with respect for the needs of the family and community. This balanced approach relies on community partnerships for the development and enhancement of services for the prevention of delinquency.

Methods of Treatment

Each division facility creates a structured environment designed to contribute to positive changes in the student's behavior and attitudes through the provision of group and individualized treatment services, recreation, academic and vocational training. The ultimate goal is to return each youth to his or her home community as a productive, responsible member of society. The division operates as a fully accredited school program, providing high school credits and High School Equivalency Test (HiSET) coursework.

Case Management

A case management system has been developed to provide assessment, treatment planning, coordination of services, monitoring and evaluation of the services for youths and their families. A needs and risk assessment helps the case manager determine the most appropriate services for each youth. The assessment takes into account all pertinent factors involving the youth's delinquent history while identifying the general treatment needs.

Community-Based Services

Focusing on more individualized services and delivering programs at the community level, the division has expanded its program design to include more community-based options. Nonresidential services are provided to low-risk youth as a diversion to residential care and as a supplement to after-care.

Intensive Case Monitoring

This service is provided by employees who monitor a youth's behavior and activities. Community mentors also provide support and counseling to the youth when needed. Great effort is made to ensure the matching of similar personalities and interests of youth and the mentor.

Day Treatment

This service provides a structured alternative educational program that includes traditional academic courses, HiSET classes, career planning, job placement and community service supported by individual, group and family therapy.

Family Therapy

Family specialists provide counseling to DYS youth and their families. In addition, the family therapy unit accepts referrals from juvenile courts, child welfare agencies, mental health agencies, schools and other sources. DYS family specialists also provide training to other state agency staff and court personnel.

Group Home Programs

Group homes provide the least restrictive residential environment. Staff provide 24-hour supervision in a home-like setting with a capacity for 10 youths. Youth follow a daily schedule with time allowed for interaction with the community (school, jobs and community projects) as well as treatment services within the facility (group, individual and family counseling).

Moderate Care Residential Facilities

Residential facilities provide a structured environment for DYS youth. The residential programs target youth who cannot function well in the community and require a more structured setting. Many of these youth have participated in repeat property offenses and require continuous structure to mature.

The program divides youth into groups of 10 with 24-hour staff supervision. A rigorous school program is provided on-site by full-time teachers offering basic education, HiSET programming and various remedial/special education activities.

Secure Care Residential Facilities

For those youth who have a history of offenses and require a more structured setting, the division offers programs in secured facilities. Four highly structured, secure-care programs provide on-site educational classes, vocational training and recreational activities. These programs target youth with longer offense records that might include crimes against people. The offenders tend to be older and might include youth who have been unsuccessful in community-based programs. Scheduled outings into the community serve the purpose of involving the youth in community support projects.

An individual education plan, including both youth goals and staff strategies, is developed for each youth. Parents are encouraged to attend these planning meetings.

Dual Jurisdiction

The division also serves youth in secure care programs in Montgomery City, St. Louis and St. Joseph, sentenced under the dual jurisdiction provisions in section 211.073, RSMo. This alternative sentencing provision allows certified youth to receive an adult and juvenile sentence with a suspended execution of the adult sentence. Treatment and educational services are provided to youth whose length of stay is significantly longer than that of other DYS students.

Aftercare

When youth are ready to return to their communities, the division provides services to help them make a smooth transition. Virtually all youth under DYS care enter the aftercare program upon their return to the community. An assigned case manager ensures support services are provided to help each youth enter and readjust to community living including referral, supervision and counseling. The primary goal of aftercare is to support youth in becoming law-abiding and productive citizens.

Division of Youth Services Advisory Board

Established in 1974, the DYS Advisory Board is charged with the responsibility to advise the director, the legislature and the general public on all matters pertaining to the operation of the division. The 15-member board consists of citizens from across the state who are dedicated to the prevention of delinquency and the rehabilitation of juvenile offenders.

CHAPTER 7

MISSOURI ELECTIONS

Missouri Voting and Elections

Missouri Voting and Elections

Who registers to vote in Missouri?

Citizens living in Missouri must register in order to vote. Any U.S. citizen 17 years and 6 months of age or older, if a Missouri resident, may register and vote except:

- A person who is adjudged incapacitated.
- A person who is confined under sentence of imprisonment.
- A person who is on probation or parole after conviction of a felony until finally discharged.
- A person who has been convicted of a felony or misdemeanor connected with the right of suffrage. (115.133, RSMo)

How do Missourians register?

Qualified citizens may register at sos.mo.gov/elections/govotemissouri/register, in person at the office of their local election authority, by mail, at the driver's license fee office or at participating state agencies. Registration in person is accomplished by filling out registration forms with information on identity, residence and qualifications which are signed and sworn to, then witnessed by the election authority or a designee. (115.155, RSMo)

Registration by mail, at the driver's license fee office or at the participating state agencies requires submission of an application stating qualifications. A verification or rejection of registration is sent by the election authority within seven working days. (115.155 and 115.159, RSMo)

When do Missourians register?

An unregistered citizen may register to vote at sos.mo.gov/elections/govotemissouri/register, at the local election officials' place of business, by requesting an application by mail from the election authority, when renewing a Missouri driver's license or when receiving services from a participating state agency. Special registration sites and dates may be utilized prior to major elections.

The deadline for registration is the fourth Wednesday prior to an election. New Missouri residents may register immediately. (115.135, RSMo).

When do Missourians vote?

The statutes require that all public elections be held on the general election day, the primary election day, the general municipal election day, the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, or on another day expressly provided by city or county charter and in nonprimary years on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in August. (115.123.1, RSMo)

The general election day is the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November in even-numbered years. The primary election day is the first Tuesday after the first Monday in August in even-numbered years. (115.121 (1 & 2), RSMo)

Elections for cities, towns, villages, school boards and special district officers are held the first Tuesday after first Monday in April each year, known as the "general municipal election day." (115.121.3, RSMo)

Who conducts registration and elections?

Voter registration and the conduct of elections are the responsibilities of boards of election commissioners in the counties of Clay, Jackson, Platte and St. Louis; and in the cities of Kansas City and St. Louis; and of the election authority in St. Charles County. The county clerk serves as the election authority in all other counties of the state.

Special voting provisions

Disabled voters and persons prevented from voting at the polls because of absence or illness may vote absentee. Persons with permanent disabilities may apply for permanent absentee ballot status by making application with the local election authority. (115.284, RSMo) Curbside voting is permitted in Missouri, or voters may be transferred to more accessible precincts. Local election officials should be contacted about absentee federal service balloting or "new resident" ballots for residents who arrive after the registration deadline.

What forms of identification are acceptable?

Show your valid Missouri Driver License, Missouri Nondriver License, United States Passport or Military ID.

If you do not possess any of these forms of identification, but are a registered voter, you may cast a provisional ballot.

More information about the voter ID requirement is available online at www.sos.mo.gov/voterid. If you do not have an approved form of identification from above, the Secretary of State's Office will help you obtain the documents needed for a free photo ID (Missouri Nondriver License). Any questions may be directed to 866-868-3245. (115.427, RSMo)

Missourians do not have to register under party affiliation. Hence, at primary elections, voters can choose which “established party” they vote within. Party nominees—and independent candidates—are then listed on the general election ballot.

There are presently three “established political parties” statewide—the Republican, Democratic and Libertarian parties. Persons may seek the nomination of these parties for any elective office from the county level and above. In order to become “established,” a party must have received more than two percent of the votes cast statewide for at least one of its candidates. New parties are formed by petition and may exist on the county, district or state level. They must meet the same standard as any other party to remain “established.”

At the time of primary elections, voters select county committee members of established parties in Missouri. Those committee people, thus elected, have certain duties and responsibilities. They serve, as appropriate, as members of legislative, senatorial, judicial and congressional district committees. County, district or state committee members may be called on to fill candidate vacancies on party ballots or to select nominees for special elections from time to time. The state committees are selected, indirectly, by local committee persons. The state committees become especially important when delegates to presidential nominating (national) conventions are being selected.

Constitutional Amendment No. 2

[Proposed by Initiative Petition]

Do you want to amend the Missouri Constitution to:

- allow the Missouri Gaming Commission to regulate licensed sports wagering including online sports betting, gambling boats, professional sports betting districts and mobile licenses to sports betting operators;
- restrict sports betting to individuals physically located in the state and over the age of 21;
- allow license fees prescribed by the Commission and a 10% wagering tax on revenues received to be appropriated for education after expenses incurred by the Commission and required funding of the Compulsive Gambling Prevention Fund; and
- allow for the general assembly to enact laws consistent with this amendment?

State governmental entities estimate onetime costs of $660,000, ongoing annual costs of at least $5.2 million, and initial license fee revenue of $11.75 million. Because the proposal allows for deductions against sports gaming revenues, they estimate unknown tax revenue ranging from $0 to $28.9 million annually. Local governments estimate unknown revenue.

Constitutional Amendment No. 3

[Proposed by Initiative Petition]

Do you want to amend the Missouri Constitution to:

- establish a right to make decisions about reproductive health care, including abortion and contraceptives, with any governmental interference of that right presumed invalid;
- remove Missouri's ban on abortion;
- allow regulation of reproductive health care to improve or maintain the health of the patient;
- require the government not to discriminate, in government programs, funding, and other activities, against persons providing or obtaining reproductive health care; and
- allow abortion to be restricted or banned after Fetal Viability except to protect the life or health of the woman?

State governmental entities estimate no costs or savings, but unknown impact. Local governmental entities estimate costs of at least $51,000 annually in reduced tax revenues. Opponents estimate a potentially significant loss to state revenue.

Constitutional Amendment No. 5

[Proposed by Initiative Petition]

Do you want to amend the Missouri Constitution to:

- allow the Missouri Gaming Commission to issue one additional gambling boat license to operate on the portion of the Osage River from the Missouri River to the Bagnell Dam;
- require the prescribed location shall include artificial spaces that contain water and are within 500 feet of the 100-year base flood elevation as established by the Federal Emergency Management Agency; and
- require all state revenues derived from the issuance of the gambling boat license shall be appropriated to early-childhood literacy programs in public institutions of elementary education?

State governmental entities estimate one-time costs of $763,000, ongoing costs of $2.2 million annually, initial fee revenue of $271,000, ongoing admission and other fee revenue of $2.1 million annually, and annual gaming tax revenue of $14.3 million. Local governments estimate unknown revenue.

Constitutional Amendment No. 6

(Second Regular Session) SS SCS SJR 71*

Shall the Missouri Constitution be amended to provide that the administration of justice shall include the levying of costs and fees to support salaries and benefits for certain current and former law enforcement personnel?

State and local governmental entities estimate an unknown fiscal impact.

(Second Regular Session) SS SJR 78*

Shall the Missouri Constitution be amended to:

- Make the Constitution consistent with state law by only allowing citizens of the United States to vote;
- Prohibit the ranking of candidates by limiting voters to a single vote per candidate or issue; and
- Require the plurality winner of a political party primary to be the single candidate at a general election?

State and local governmental entities estimate no costs or savings.

Proposition A

[Proposed by Initiative Petition]

Do you want to amend Missouri law to:

- increase minimum wage January 1, 2025 to $13.75 per hour, increasing $1.25 per hour each year until 2026, when the minimum wage would be $15.00 per hour;
- adjust minimum wage based on changes in the Consumer Price Index each January beginning in 2027;
- require all employers to provide one hour of paid sick leave for every thirty hours worked;

- allow the Department of Labor and Industrial Relations to provide oversight and enforcement; and
- exempt governmental entities, political subdivisions, school districts and education institutions?

State governmental entities estimate one-time costs ranging from $0 to $53,000, and ongoing costs ranging from $0 to at least $256,000 per year by 2027. State and local government tax revenue could change by an unknown annual amount depending on business decisions.

(First Regular Session) SJR No. 26*

Shall the Missouri Constitution be amended to allow places where individuals, corporations, organizations, and associations provide childcare outside of the child's home to be exempt from property tax? This is intended to make childcare more available, which would support the well-being of children, families, the workforce, and society as a whole.

State governmental entities estimate the state's Blind Pension Fund could have annual lost revenue of up to $400,000. Local governments expect an unknown fiscal impact.

*Proposed by 101st General Assembly
(Second Regular Session) SS 2 SJR No. 38*

Shall the Missouri Constitution be amended to authorize laws, passed before December 31st, 2026, that increase minimum funding for a police force established by a state board of police commissioners to ensure such police force has additional resources to serve its communities?

This would authorize a law passed in 2022 increasing required funding by the City of Kansas City for police department requests from 20% of general revenue to 25%, an increase of $38,743,646, though the City previously provided that level of funding voluntarily. No other state or local governmental entities estimate costs or savings
